STOCK SHOW TO START TODAY; EXPECT 500,000

Farm Champions to Be Seen 8 Days.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Chicago's thirty-third annual bid for recognition as the agricultural capital of the world, in the form of its International Live Stock exposition, is to be opened to the public this morning. And for eight days the eyes of agrarian authorities on two continents will be watching for announcements of the new champions to be named in the tanbark arena at 41st and Halsted streets.

With a final inspection last night by the officers of the exposition, all was declared in readiness for the 500,000 spectators who are expected. It was predicted last night that the live stock show would be the magnet that would bring 125,000 visitors to Chicago before the show closes on Dec. 3.

All departments of the exposition will be kept open tomorrow and horse shows will be staged both Sunday afternoon and evening for the first time in the 33 years of the International. Ample free parking space has been provided by the management.

Exhibits Break Record.

All records of live stock shows in the United States and Canada already have been broken by the number of exhibits. Of the 14,000 choice fat cattle in the stalls last night more than 8,000 were entered in the car lot classes. The number of Herefords, well known "white faces" of the plains country, is the largest in many years to compete with the jet black Angus and mottled Shorthorns.

The stock show was unofficially opened yesterday with sixteen noncollegiate judging teams from as many states competing for the $1,000 scholarships offered by the Chicago Association of Commerce.

In this judging competition, Jean Leake, 16 years old, of Emerado, N. D., broke precedent by being the first girl to be declared winner in individual judging. She scored 542 points out of a possible 600. Runners up were Carl Moore, 16 years old, Quincy, Mich., second place, with 521 points, and Howard Held, 19 years old, of Hinton, Ia., third place, with 516 points. They will receive the association scholarships.

Minnesota Team Leads.

In team scoring, Minnesota won first place with 1,472 points. The winning team, all from Clearwater, comprised Duane Long, 16 years old; Elmer Severson, 19 years old, and John Hulteen, 16 years old.

Other state teams finished in the following order: Iowa, 1,468 points; North Dakota, 1,448; Illinois, 1,446; Nebraska, 1,441; Kansas, 1,440; Michigan, 1,439; Indiana, 1,422; Virginia, 1,412; Oklahoma, 1,378; West Virginia, 1,305; Ohio, 1,265; Kentucky, 1,222; Pennsylvania, 1,193; South Dakota, 1,165; and Wisconsin, 1,138.

Today the best live stock judges in 20 state agricultural colleges will compete for the Spoor trophy which last year was won by three students from Iowa State college. Several hundred 4H club boys and girls also will show their fat steers, pigs and lambs for championship awards. One of the college delegations came from Guelph, Ontario, for today's contests.

First Horse Show Tonight.

The thousands who attend the first of the nightly horse shows tonight will have first glimpse of the hundreds of cattle and draft horses as they parade through the arena on the eve of their "judgment day." From among them will be selected the grand champions and other premier honors. Chicago's stock show is the grand finale of the year's show season, and its selections rank above any other.

The national wool display this year is twice as large as in any previous year, with fleeces from Australia, Canada, and England mounted in great banks of the sheep department exhibit.

Another attraction of unusual interest in the horse show tonight is sheep herding by trained dogs which handle a flock of sheep unaided except by the whistles of their masters. An indoor polo game is scheduled between the Black Horse troop and 124th Field Artillery team of Chicago.

Walker Goes In for Exercise on Riviera

CAP D'ANTIBES, France, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Former Mayor Walker of New York, who is resting here, was described today by his friends as tired but generally in good health. Every morning he plays golf with Betty Compton and in the afternoon usually has a game of tennis.

DRIVERS HERE VOTE PAY CUT TO $40 WEEKLY

Members of the Milk Wagon Drivers' union voted last night by a substantial majority to accept a cut in pay, from $45 to $40 a week. This move, it has been forecast, will result soon in a reduction of the retail price of milk to 9 cents from the prevailing 11 cents a quart.

Results of the secret ballot, which was cast during the day at Car Men's hall, Van Buren street and Ashland avenue, were made known by William E. Mason Jr., certified public accountant, who had been engaged to make the count.

2,758 Vote for Pay Slash.

His report showed that 4,943 of the 7,200 members of the union voted. The number of ballots approving the pay slash totaled 2,758 and those opposing it 2,153. Thirty-two ballots were discarded for various reasons.

The $5 reduction means a loss of income amounting to $35,000 weekly to the union membership and is equivalent to five-eighths of a cent a quart on the entire retail milk supply of the city. There is said to have been a gentlemen's agreement that dairy companies will absorb three-eighths of a cent a quart and the farmers of the Chicago milk supply area 1 cent in order to bring about the 9 cent price.

Economic conditions, according to those in touch with the situation, are responsible for the projected slash in milk prices. It has been pointed out that 9 cent milk is available from independent sources not employing members of the union and that the union driven wagons must meet this price.

Predicts 9 Cent Milk.

Regular dealers, who say that they are not making money under the present conditions, have been eager to gain a more favorable position against these independents. Frank H. Kullman, chairman of the board of the Bowman Dairy company and chairman of the milk dealers' committee, said last night:

"The dealers will pass on to the public the cut union labor has taken. It is reasonable to anticipate that in the near future we may see 9 cent milk in Chicago. We must not forget, however, that negotiations still must be conducted between dealers and farmers and that the dealers must decide how much of a cut they can take and still remin in business."

Inside union workers in the dairies, who number about 2,000, are not included in the wage reduction voted last night. It is believed, however, they will follow the drivers and accept a cut. No time was set for the drivers' reduction to go into effect, and presumably—officials would not comment on this—it will not be until the agreement on reduced milk prices is reached.

Cut Urged by Officials.

For several weeks the officials of the union, including Robert G. Fitchie, president, and Steve Sumner, veteran business agent, have been urging the men to take the slash in pay as the best way out. A great deal of opposition developed at the meetings and it was decided to hold the secret ballot.

"We believe the union vote will be beneficial to the whole milk trade," said Fitchie. "A lowered price will result in increased consumption, taking up the surplus supplies. Drivers, with increased sales, probably will be able to earn somewhat larger commissions as an offset to the pay cut."

Drivers who opposed a lowered income have maintained that their $45 scale is not a $45 scale at all. From it $1.50 a week union dues and $2 a week unemployment benefit payments are deducted. The driver also must absorb losses on customers who fail to pay their bills.

Blames Outlaw Union.

Sumner said yesterday that inflammatory literature urging the drivers to vote no on the proposition had been posted in many dairy barns. He attributed the posters to the outlaw union element headed by "Three Fingered" Jack White and Murray Humphries. It was said that this element, which has control of a number of teamsters' unions, hoped to have the regular union stand pat on the $45 scale and 11 cent milk so that their teamsters could get jobs selling the 9 cent milk.

HUSBAND SLAIN, BRIDE SHOT WHEN SHE JOINS FIGHT

John Lynch, 28 years old, a successful candidate in the recent police examinations, was shot and killed last night in a fight with a watchman, and Lynch's bride of three months, Eva, 22 years old, was probably fatally wounded. The shooting occurred in front of the Walgreen company warehouse at 500 East 40th street, where Lynch, a driver, and Harry Hartnell, the watchman, were employed.

Police were told Lynch had been drinking and that after altercations with two or three men in the warehouse he went outside where he met Hartnell.

Lynch and Hartnell started another fight during which Mrs. Lynch, accompanied by her brother-in-law, Martin Lynch, arrived to notify her husband of his success in the police examination and to inform him that he was to report to the Burnside station tomorrow morning.

She ran to the two men and took one gun away from Hartnell and struck him on the head with it. Hartnell then drew his other gun and fired at Lynch and his wife. Martin Lynch charged his brother was on the ground when he was shot. John Lynch was killed instantly, with two bullets in his head. His wife was taken to the Chicago hospital. Hartnell, who is 27 years old and lives at 756 Bowen avenue, pleaded self defense.

REVEAL QUEBEC IDLE USING DOLE TO BUY LUXURIES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

QUEBEC, Que., Nov. 25.—Silk stockings, silk corset covers, and curling irons are among the "necessities of life" purchased by the idle in the province of Quebec at government expense. This was revealed here today. Instructions were issued that all purchases were to be strictly checked and luxuries scratched off the lists.

Quebec grants direct relief in the forms of bonds which are redeemed in cash. Millions of dollars have been spent by the provincial government since last March, when the law came into force. Residents of rural districts have been taking advantage of this modified dole to purchase luxuries and send in the bill for payment by the government.

Old debts, teachers' salaries, road work, house rental, and other items have been charged up to the government. A sweeping investigation has been promised.

Toyland Folk Parade Today in State Street

Santa Claus is king and State street his playground today! The jolly old gentleman from the arctic regions has been summoned from his snug retreat among the icebergs to reign this morning over the merriest Christmas fantasy with which Chicago ever greeted the holiday season. His triumphal parade down through the heart of the shopping mart is scheduled for 10 o'clock sharp, starting from the assembly point at Wacker drive and State street.

Yesterday, the day after Thanksgiving, traditionally inaugurated the Christmas shopping season, and swarms of shoppers, eddying and swirling into the traffic tangles at principal State street corners, testified to the burgeoning of the holiday spirit.

All Children Free to Gather.

School's out for the week, so that all the younger generation may be counted on to be ranged in cheering sections all along the line of march—down to Congress street on the west side of State and back up to Wacker drive on the east side. But though they arrive by the tens of thousands it would be folly to suppose that the older folks will leave the gay and glamorous spectacle to the children. It will be first come—first see.

Joe Bren of the Music Corporation of America, who brought back news from Europe of the carnivals there and persuaded the State street council to sponsor a "Parade of the Toys," told yesterday of some of the features that will interest the throng.

Right behind the chugging platoon of motorcycle police that will lead off the procession will come a band in colorful costume, tootling the kind of tunes that start feet tapping. Twirling a baton in front of the group will be the strapping drum major who made history during the world war, when Sousa was bandmaster at the Great Lakes Naval Training station and "the Peacock of the Navy," John Kelly, was the champion drum major of 'em all.

Girls to Be Wooden Soldiers.

Ten girls will follow the band in the starched movements and red, white, and blue uniforms of "The Parade of the Wooden Soldiers," white trousered, red jacketed, and with plumed blue shakos atop their curls.

A toy train with engine bell jangling will be in the line of march; so will a large band of clowns representing a varied assortment of characters; so will queerly shaped animals that have stepped right out of the comic sections.

Toy manufacturers have designed and made mammoth papier maché heads of different characters, some of fairyland origin, some from the cartoon strips of newspapers, and have entered them in the parade either on floats or walking. Of course, when they go into action alone, a man or boy supplies the motive power by climbing under the vast head and wearing the matching costume.

Chime Music for St. Nick.

Monarch of all he surveys, St. Nick will roll down the thoroughfare on a special float from which hidden chimes will ring out the old Christmas melodies. These chimes were obtained for the occasion with considerable difficulty and expense, and are expected to prove one of the major attractions of the event.

One of the floats, sponsored by THE TRIBUNE, will be occupied by Little Orphan Annie and Sandy, her dog; Moon Mullins' irrepressible kid brother, Kayo, and other characters from TRIBUNE comics.

A circus calliope right from the sawdust lot, operated by a man who knows his holiday carols, will bring up the rear of the parade and signal the spectators that the toy departments await their inspection.

Expect Bigger Crowds Today.

Today's undoubtedly will exceed the crowds of yesterday in the aisles of all the great merchandise houses—the most resplendent displays of Christmas merchandise and the most diverting new ideas to be found along that highway in years.

Rob Rancher of $91000—He Informs Police

Police last night were investigating the reported loss of $91,000 in cash in which the victim was a visiting rancher from Tulsa, Okla. The rancher—A. A. [Jack] Drummond, who saw service in France as a captain of infantry—says he was robbed. Police say they believe he may have been fleced by confidence men.

First complaint of the loss was made about 10 o'clock yesterday to the manager of the Hotel Sherman, where Drummond was registered. Police were notified by the hotel man. Investigation of the loss continued throughout the day until Drummond, desiring, he said, to "forget the matter," checked out of the hotel last night. He was found early this morning at the home of a friend, Samuel J. Robinson, 2649 Greenleaf avenue, an official of the Atlas-Robinson company, a mail order house.

Tells of Disappearance.

Drummond told police that the money disappeared from his hotel room some time between Thursday night and 10 o'clock yesterday morning. It was in bills of $500 and $1,000 denomination, he said, and was contained in a money belt. He had taken the money belt off before retiring because, he explained, he was "chock full of turkey." He said he did not see any one commit the theft nor have any idea of how it was done. All he knows, he declared, was that he had the cash went he went to bed and that somebody else obviously had it when he woke up.

Sergts. Edward McVeigh and Joseph Mallow of the detective bureau questioned the rancher. They were disinclined to believe his story at first because of the large amount of money that he said he carried. This doubt was removed when Drummond somewhat indignantly put in a long distance call from his room for Elmo Thompson, vice president of the Exchange National bank of Tulsa. Sergt. Mallow talked with the banker.

Banker Tells of Cash.

"Drummond left here about three weeks ago," Thompson said, "carrying $37,500 in cash. He left by plane with two bodyguards for Pittsburgh, where, he told us, he hoped to close a big deal."

Satisfied, then, that the rancher did have at least $37,500 in cash, Mallow and McVeigh became more interested and they listened further to his story.

"I left Tulsa less than a month ago," said Drummond. "I drew out $37,500 from the Exchange National bank, and later, when in Kansas City, I got $10,000 more from the Kansas City Fidelity Trust and Savings bank. I continued on to Pittsburgh. I also went to St. Louis and I went to Cleveland. I left Cleveland Thanksgiving eve and arrived in Chicago early Thanksgiving day. I registered at the Sherman about 7 o'clock. Later I called on Mr. Robinson, and then, during the day, to celebrate the holiday, I went to a downtown restaurant and ate lots of turkey.

Money Belt Taken, Too.

"I ate so much turkey that when I got to my room that night I had to take off my money belt which I always wore. I laid this out on a little stand used for suitcases and went to sleep. When I woke up the belt and money were gone."

When Mallow and McVeigh ventured the opinion that Drummond probably wasn't robbed but the victim of slickers the rancher retorted:

"If that mob got the money, officers, forget the matter, for I'll get it back better than you will."

This answer led the policemen to question him more directly about possible confidence men. Drummond then admitted that in all his touring of St. Louis, Kansas City, Pittsburgh, and Cleveland he had met almost continually with several men who apparently had followed him around. These men were stockmen, he said. On this information and Drummond's retort about "that mob" police said they could understand that he had been victimized and not robbed.

Telegraphic advices from Tulsa state that Drummond is married and has a daughter about 11 years old, that he frequently carried large sums of money, and stood in good repute with business and banking men. He now owns a ranch of 35,000 acres in Osage county. In his own statement he said he owned about 1,500 head of cattle and that he bought his ranch for $750,000.

Moderate Cold Wave Forecast for Today

Yesterday's mild weather is scheduled to be pushed out of Chicago by a moderate cold wave today, according to the official forecast. The new cold wave is sweeping down from western Canada, where temperatures of zero or lower were registered at daybreak yesterday. Tomorrow, it is expected, will be fair and cold.

PUBLISH NOTES TELLING EUROPE TO PAY ON DEBTS

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 25.—[Special.]—The state department made public today the text of the notes addressed to the British, French, and Belgian governments declining to postpone the 125 million dollar war debt payments due Dec. 15.

In these replies, however, Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson informs the debtors that President Hoover "is prepared to recommend to congress" the creation of an agency similar to the war debt funding commission to discuss with each debtor individually the modification of its obligations to the United States.

Demands Dec. 15 Payment.

"As to the suspension of the installment of the British debt due on Dec. 15, which is one of the objectives in your note," wrote Col. Stimson to British Ambassador Sir Ronald Lindsay, "no authority lies within the executive to grant such an extension, and no facts have been placed in our possession which could be presented to the congress for favorable consideration."

The American foreign minister concluded his reply with the observation that the importance "attached by our government and people to the maintenance of the original agreements in force" by the December payment outweighs "any reasons now apparent for its suspension."

He ended with a hint that the debtor that makes its payment will receive more favorable consideration in subsequent negotiations than otherwise.

Borah Attacks Hoover Plan.

At the moment the text of the replies was being made public Senator William E. Borah [radical Rep., Idaho] loosed an attack on President Hoover's suggestion that the debtors be allowed to make their payments in their own currencies of guaranteed value.

"The proposal that payments be made to our account in foreign currency and so forth," said Mr. Borah, "is a diluted form of a moratorium. I can see nothing to be gained in dealing with this matter in that way or in dealing with it partially and incompletely.

"With a program which includes an adjustment of the postwar problems which are now conceded to stand in the way of world recovery I would include the consideration of the debts. But unless these problems are to be taken up and adjusted so that the world markets may be reopened and foreign trade and commerce reëstablished, nothing can be gained, it seems to me, by postponements and moratoriums."

Replies to Reparations Argument.

All of the debtors in their notes to the United States cited the action of the Lausanne conference in extending the moratorium on payment of German reparations as a precedent for the requested extension of the moratorium on war debts. Passing over this argument in the British note, Mr. Stimson told the French and Belgians that their point was not well taken, for the reason that the Lausanne conference of creditors had before it an experts' report on payment of reparations, whereas the American government is without such information bearing on the payment of war debts.

Mr. Stimson's reply dwells on the exclusive right to deal with the war debts which congress has reserved to itself, leaving the executive the power of recommendation only. He then reminds each debtor that in proposing revision of the debt settlements it is going far beyond what Mr. Hoover contemplated in the Hoover-Laval memorandum, which was only a temporary readjustment of payments during the depression. Moreover, even so limited a suggestion as this was rejected by congress, Mr. Stimson points out.

For such reasons, the secretary of state says, the debtors could not justifiably say, as they did say, that they proceeded to scale down German reparations because of assurances from the American government at the time of the Hoover-Laval conference that the war debts would be scaled down commensurately.

As for the hard times plaint of the debtors, Secretary Stimson informs them that American taxpayers have been as hard hit by the depression as have European taxpayers.

For the most part the replies are identical, even in language. The note to Great Britain, however, is shorter than the others for the reason that in the replies to France and Belgium is incorporated the following argument that the war debts are wholly unrelated to German reparations:

"Furthermore, from the time of their creation under President Wilson this government has uniformly insisted that, in its handling of these obligations running to itself, they must be treated as entirely separate from reparation claims arising out of the war.

Got No Spoils of War.

"Its insistence upon this difference is quite natural in view of its refusal after the war to accept reparations for itself and also in view of the difference of its position as a creditor from that of all other nations. Not only did this government not receive any compensation in the form of territory, economic privileges, or governmental indemnity at the close of the war but from the fact that it owed no obligations of any kind to others, treatment of the debts and reparations as though they were connected could only operate to the disadvantage of the United States.

"No concession made in respect to a payment owed to it could either in whole or in part be set off or balanced against claims owed by it to any of its creditors. On the contrary every such concession would result in the inevitable transfer of a tax burden from the taxpayers of some other country to the taxpayers in our own without the possibility of any recoupment from others.

Calls Settlements Fair.

"The debts owed to the United States thus naturally fell into the category of ordinary debt obligations between individual nations and were treated as such. The American congress has made, with each of its debtors, settlements which were intended to be and were deemed to be liberal and wholly within the capacity of the debtor to pay without jeopardizing its finances and currency or preventing it from maintaining and, if possible, improving the standard of living of its citizens."

SIX NEWARK, N. J., EMPLOYES HELD FOR POLL FRAUDS

Newark, N. J., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Six of the eight police and city employes indicted in the theft of ballots from the city hall at the last election were arraigned today before Common Pleas Judge Dallas Flannagan, who fixed $135,000 as their total bail.

The highest bail was set for Max L. Stegman, suspended executive clerk of Comissioner Charles P. Gillen and Democratic leader of the 2d ward, where vote frauds were alleged. Stegman pleaded not guilty and his bail was fixed at $30,000.

Police Lieutenant Charles H. Byrne, another key figure in the inquiry, was held in $25,000 bond. The other four men—Patrolman Peter J. Duffy, city hall doorman; Patrolman Francis P. Lalor, a ballot guard; Patrolman Harry J. Doyle, and Philip P. Tully, suspended assistant city hall custodian—all pleaded not guilty.

All eight men were arrested in connection with the looting of the city hall ballot boxes. No arrests have been announced in the theft of poll booths from the hall of records. The two thefts destroyed virtually all evidence of fraud on election day.

SWIMMING MAIL MAN QUITS JOB IN SOUTH SEAS

HONOLULU, Nov. 25.—(AP)—G. S. Ramsay is quitting his job as the swimming mail man of the south seas. For eleven years he says his job has been to swim out to ships from the island of Niuafoou, in the Tonga group, through surf too rough for a boat to stand, and tow back mail for the island in a 40 pound biscuit can while sharks swam alongside.

His "route" was about a mile. Swells beat against the rocky shores of the island with such force, he explained, that it was "impossible" to take out or bring back any sort of a craft. Arriving today aboard the liner Niagara, Ramsay said he was on his way to Vista, Cal., to raise chickens. Ramsay, a slightly built 40 year old Australian, was asked if he had not feared the sharks when swimming to and from the mail ships.

"They always seemed playful," he said. "They never molested me."

He recalled, however, that "last May several Tonga native boys were fishing off shore and one of them was snatched into the water by a shark. He never reappeared."

TWO MEN HELD FOR THE MURDER OF OHIO WOMAN

West Union, O., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Two men, former boarders in the home of Mrs. Josephine Hawes, 40, whose nude, decomposed body was found in an abandoned well at Peebles, were charged today with first degree murder for her death.

The body of Mrs. Hawes, a bullet wound in the skull, was discovered late yesterday by two hunters. A heavy cord was wrapped tightly about her neck. Mrs. Hawes soon was to have become a mother for the seventh time.

Coroner L. M. Purdine expressed the belief her body was placed in the well soon after she disappeared last June 28 in company with two men.

The men charged with her murder by Sheriff Harry Ogle are Virgil Yankee, 22, and Robert Ford, 28. Annie Hawes, 15 year old daughter of the slain woman, is held as a material witness.

Britain Bares Huge Growth in Social Service Costs

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 25.—The enormous growth in Great Britain's expenditures on public and social services during the past 40 years is shown in a "white paper" issued tonight. It details that in England and Wales the total sum rose from 100 million dollars in 1890 to two billion dollars in 1930. Expenditure in Scotland rose from $12,500,000 to 278 millions.

U. S. Note to British on Debts

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 25.—[Special.]—Following is the text of a note handed to the British ambassador in Washington by the secretary of state on Nov. 23:

"I fully appreciate the importance of the proposal contained in your note of Nov. 10 and the seriousness of the situation upon which it is predicated. The mere fact that your government suggests the necessity of a review of the intergovernmental financial obligations now existing between our two nations presents a circumstance which must be given most serious consideration. In a matter of such importance there must be allowed no opportunity for misunderstanding or failure to reach conclusions satisfactory to both governments and peoples.

"With this end in view, you will permit me to recall very briefly some of the essential conditions and limitations which would control on the part of this government such a review and might affect its result.

Congress Holds Control.

"Not only is there reserved to the congress of the United States the ultimate decision in respect to the funding, refunding or amendment of these intergovernmental obligations under consideration, but the congress in the past has itself provided the machinery in the shape of the world war foreign debt commission for the investigation of the facts and for making recommendations upon which such action might be taken. The executive might recommend, but the facts and evidence were submitted to and the decision made by the congress, acting through this machinery.

"You will also appreciate that your present suggestion of a general review goes far beyond anything contemplated or proposed at any time in the past, either by President Hoover or by this government, and that even the suggestion quoted in your note was not adopted by the congress of the United States.

"In view of these facts and in the light of the historic position of the United States that reparations are solely a European question in which the United States is not involved, I am sure that no inference can be intended that the settlement of German reparations at Lausanne was made in reliance upon any commitments given by this government.

Knows Times Are Hard.

"I appreciate the importance of the step mentioned in your note which has been taken by the governments at Lausanne in respect to the reparations due them from Germany and the possible effect upon those creditor nations of the loss of that source of income.

"I am not oblivious to the fact that the world-wide depression and the concurrent fall of prices have increased the weight of debts in many parts of the world; nor to the fact that the decrease in international trade has increased the difficulties of obtaining foreign exchange. I also recognize the relation in which these facts may bear to the process of recovery.

"On the other hand, it must be remembered that these incidents of the depression have also fallen with great weight upon the American people, and the effects upon them directly as taxpayers or otherwise of any modification of an agreement with respect to debts due to this country cannot be disregarded. I assume that it was for the purpose of deliberately and carefully giving due weight to such conflicting elements in the world situation, differing as they would in various countries, that this government adopted the system which I have described.

Sees Little Hope.

"I confess that I cannot see any presentation in your note which would be likely to induce the congress of the United States to act upon the question any differently now from the manner and the principles upon which it has acted in the past.

"The attitude of the President, therefore, is that for any suggested study of intergovernmental financial obligations as now existing some such agency as I have referred to should be created to consider this question individually with each government as heretofore. The President is prepared to recommend to congress that it constitute an agency to examine the whole subject.

"As to the suspension of the installment of the British debt due on Dec. 15, which is one of the objectives in your note, no authority lies within the executive to grant such an extension, and no facts have been placed in our possession which could be presented to the congress for favorable consideration.

"Such importance is attached by our government and people to the maintenance of the original agreements in force by the payment on Dec. 15 as to far outweigh any reasons now apparent for its suspension, and by such payments the prospects of a satisfactory approach to the whole question, in my opinion, would be greatly increased."

WOMAN INJURED SEVERELY WHEN AUTO HITS POST

Mrs. Alma Mattox, 24 years old, 2440 North Kedzie avenue, was severely injured yesterday when the automobile in which she was riding crashed into a light post at 16th street and the inner drive. Her husband, George, 27 years old, who was driving, and another passenger, Miss Lucille Hart, 16 years old, escaped serious injury. Mattox had been drinking, according to police, and was held at the South State street police station.

Constantine Schreiber, 53 years old, owner of a store at 2901 North Springfield avenue, died yesterday in the county hospital. He was struck by a hit and run motorist on Nov. 20 at Diversey and Hamlin avenues. His death brought the 1932 Cook county motor toll to 1,014.

John Rowski, 21 years old, 4411 Iowa street, was placed on probation for one year yesterday by Judge Howard Hayes on a charge of driving while intoxicated. An automobile driven by Rowski struck and slightly injured Sergt. William Swenson of the Chicago avenue police station Thursday at Augusta boulevard and Kedzie avenue.

Barry Barnes, 26 years old, 1844 Lake street, and Ernest Johnson, 25, 1900 Maypole avenue, Negroes, were arrested last night by Sergt. John Haska of the detective bureau as the occupants of an automobile which killed an unidentified man at Polk street and Ashland boulevard late Thursday night. The man's body was found in an alley in the rear of 2249 Maypole avenue. Barnes and Johnson confessed, police said.

Street Car Kills Boy, 6, Playing in Aurora Park

Leland Billings, 6 years old, who was playing in a park in Aurora, was struck and killed there by a street car yesterday. The accident happened where the car line enters the park. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Billings of Aurora.

NEGRO WHO KILLED BANK ROBBER MADE MAJOR BY GOVERNOR

Oklahoma City, Okla., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Gov. W. H. Murray announced today a reward of $500 for any one who kills a bandit in the act of robbing a bank and $250 "to anybody killing the fellows who stand outside and hold the horses."

The previous reward was $250 for a bank robber, dead or alive. This sum will be paid to H. C. McCormick, Negro bookkeeper who killed George Birdwell, one of three robbers shot down Wednesday on a raid on the Bank of Boley, a Negro village.

Gov. Murray today signed a commission making McCormick a major on his staff.

LADY ASTOR IS REBUKED AFTER WAGE COMMENT

Lawrence, Mass., Nov. 25.—[Special.]—A sharp rebuke to Lady Astor, American-born member of the British parliament, for declaring in an interview in Boston that she understood women worked 54 hours weekly for $3 or $4 in Lawrence was expressed through the Lawrence Chamber of Commerce today.

"It is evident," said John J. O'Rourke, secretary of the chamber, "that Lady Astor was misinformed as to the matter of wages. For it is a well-known fact that Lawrence labor has to compete with labor wages paid in other cities, especially in the textile and industrial centers of the state. When other industries increase their wages Lawrence industries will not lag behind in the matter of the wage question.

"It would seem that Lady Aster might well state the labor conditions in England, where wages are much smaller than paid in this city and where England is now off the gold standard."

MACDONALD STILL HOPES FOR NEW DEAL ON DEBTS

British Premier to Push Fight for Revision.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 25.—Prime Minister MacDonald and his first lieutenant, Chancellor of the Exchequer Neville Chamberlain, made pronouncements on the war debts impasse tonight.

The premier, in a speech at Retford, struck a note of hope that the United States may yet grant an extension of the moratorium.

"If there is a real meeting together, if both sides put themselves in the shoes of the other," he said, "I do not believe that no solution can be found to enable Dec. 15 to be passed and new agreements made between men of good will who understand what the present unfortunate financial situation means to the world.

"We have asked no cancellation, we have asked no reduction, we have asked nothing but that the legal date of payment, which is Dec. 15, be postponed while we had an opportunity of exchanging views on the general situation.

Believes It "Good Business."

"We believe such a suspension would be good business from the standpoint of every nation, including America. The British government feels that the governments of common sense ought to come together to discuss this difficult economic problem and reach an agreement which would be satisfactory and enable the world to go around again on its economic axle.

"The way to begin is to free the world from the crushing load and impenetrable entanglements of war debts, which, while legal operations, were tantamount to economic madness. Every nation in the world, large and small, is suffering today from the way war debts are handled. The loss of trade outweighs ten or twenty fold in some respects the actual amount of those debt payments. Confidence in credit cannot be restored until an end has been put to these attempts to force the stream of capital to run uphill."

The premier declared the present discussions with America are arousing no bad feelings between the two countries. Britain's policy, he explained, is to find a comprehensive solution of an "admitted world error" which affected Britain, Europe, and, unfortunately, America itself.

Sees New Income Tax Boost.

The war debts position was described as "absolutely insufferable" by the chancellor of the exchequer in a speech at Birmingham. Mr. Chamberlain foresaw a boost in the already high income tax burden on the British public if the United States insists upon payment of the war debt. The present tax is five shillings in each pound earned, or 25 per cent.

"We never contemplated a state of things in which we might be asked to make payments equivalent to another shilling in the pound upon our income tax while at the same time we are receiving nothing from our debtors," he said. "That would be a position which, alike from the point of view of justice and from the point of view of the possibility of maintaining the prosperity of our industry, would be absolutely insufferable."

Referring to President Hoover's statement, the chancellor said:

"I am glad to see President Hoover recognizes that the request for a fresh discussion upon this debt question is a reasonable one and that he is apparently not averse to some means whereby it may be once more the subject of conversations."

Britain Framing Reply.

Britain is framing a reply to the American note, the chancellor said, and in that reply the government would take occasion to develop in somewhat greater detail the reasons which led it to make the original request. Then he added:

"I think we should do well for the present to abstain from any hasty conclusions as to the final attitude of the American congress, either on the question of suspension of payments next month or upon the larger question of the debt itself."

Britain's attitude at the Lausanne conference, which resulted in scaling down Germany's reparations, Chamberlain explained, was dictated by a sincere desire to bring the world out of a condition of uncertainty and anxiety in which it had so long remained. Britain's request to America for a fresh discussion of war debts and suspension of next month's installment, he continued, was made because she felt any attempt to reopen the Lausanne settlement must mean throwing Europe again into chaos, which, he said, would not stop at Europe.

Pound Skids to $3.21.

The pound slipped down to $3.21 for a time today, the lowest since 1920, when it reached $3.18. Later in the day it recovered to a fraction over $3.22. Dealings in London were very small and were said to be largely confined to importers who had to buy dollars to pay American bills. Confidence of an early recovery, however, was shown in the fact that future pounds were more than 2 cents higher than today's rate.

Herriot Sounds Out French Chamber on Debt Attitude

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 25.—The possibility that some definite course of action in the debt problem is under consideration by the French government was indicated tonight, when Premier Herriot unexpectedly summoned his cabinet to the Quai d'Orsay for a meeting.

At the same time, it is not believed that any final decision is likely for several days. Diplomatic conversations with the British are continuing, and at the same time Herriot has been quietly sounding the pulse of the chamber of deputies to see if he would have any chance of putting through parliament a credit for the December payment if so desired.

Consider World Bank Proposal.

The suggestion put out this morning by the diplomatic reporter, Perthax, that payment be made to the Bank for International Settlements and be held in a blocked account there pending revision of the debt agreements is being weighed, but it is not yet known whether it will ever be officially submitted to Washington. That depends on what the French consider the chance of its being accepted, or at least of drawing counter proposals.

A study of the declarations of prominent politicians for home consumption reveals an interesting fact. While all unite in denouncing Hoover and insisting that revision is necessary, there is a certain diversity on the question of making the December payment. A vast majority of deputies have declared flatly in favor of repudiation, but with the exception of the influential Socialist, Vincent Auriol, these were not men of any great influence.

Party leaders and chairmen of the powerful committees, with the exception of some diehards on the extreme right, have adopted a more cagy stand, refusing to commit themselves on whether or not they would consent to make the December payment.

Poland to Pay $3,070,980.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

WARSAW, Nov. 25.—Following President Hoover's refusal of a new moratorium, the Polish government is ready to pay $3,070,980 interest on its war debt to America on Dec. 15.

Last week Poland asked for postponement of this payment and a general revision of the debt settlement concluded in 1924. Under that agreement the Poles have to pay $3,000,000 in principal and $6,000,000 interest annually, calculated on a basis of 3.3 per cent per annum.

Three months ago the Poles asked for postponement of the December principal payment, which was granted.

WED TO THIRD OF BROTHERS; DIVORCES TWO

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 25.—(AP)—The Examiner says in a copyrighted story Harryette H. Post, socially prominent daughter of a Denver millionaire, is honeymooning today with the third of three brothers, two of whom she has married and divorced within the last 13 years.

This strange matrimonial mixup, the Examiner says, was revealed by Mrs. H. H. Post of Denver, mother of the bride, and Mrs. Maude de Tarr of Los Angeles, mother of James Major de Tarr of San Francisco; Noble Arthur de Tarr of Wilmington, Del., and Beverly K. de Tarr, the three brothers, two of whom are former husbands of Miss Post, and the third her present spouse.

Editor Accused of Stealing News Sends Duel Challenge

HAVANA, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Aldo Baroni, editor of the afternoon edition of El Pais, sent seconds today to Miguel Ordorica, general manager of the Heraldo de Cuba, demanding satisfaction because the Heraldo had printed charges of news stealing against his paper. The laws of Cuba prohibit dueling. The challenger was represented by Alberto Barreras, president of the senate, and Carlo de Cespedes, secretary of public instruction. The senate president said he thought the matter could be settled peaceably.

GERMANY AGREES TO THRASH OUT EQUALITY ROW

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Nov. 25.—Disarmament stock went up today with prospects of a four or five power conference being held next Friday to thrash out Germany's equality demands. Premier Herriot of France and Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain have given tentative assurance they will be here. Foreign Secretary Baron Konstantin von Neurath of Germany has also agreed to return.

Progress is discerned in Germany's willingness to participate in these conversations without a previous unconditional admission of the right to equality, inasmuch as the French still insist they will not grant the principle of equality without clear insurance as to the consequences. It is felt now that France and Germany have agreed to sit down together, there is some hope of agreement.

Mexico Opposes Hoover Plan.

GENEVA, Switzerland, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Mexico registered some opposition to the Hoover disarmament plan today in a letter presented to the league secretariat. The proposal for reducing land armaments by one-third is inacceptable and the plans for fixing police forces unsatisfactory, the letter sets forth.

CISTERN KILLER TO ESCAPE CHAIR, STATE DECIDES

Boy Who Slew Mrs. Saxe Faces Life Term.

The electric chair will not be asked by the state for Bert Arnold, 16 years old, it was learned yesterday after the boy had been indicted for the murder of his grandmother. The state, it was indicated, while not asking the extreme penalty because of the defendant's youth, will oppose any petition to make the sentence less than life imprisonment.

The indictment against young Arnold was returned at 11 o'clock yesterday morning after four witnesses had testified before the grand jury. Mrs. Charles B. Arnold, stepmother of the boy, established the corpus delicti of the victim, her mother, Mrs. Ellen Saxe, 60 years old, whose body was found in a cistern behind the Arnold home on the night of Nov. 18.

Policemen Are Witnesses.

Chief of Police Clarence C. Neubauer of Riverside, Sergt. A. A. Vickery and Policeman William Crowe were the other witnesses. They told of finding the body, of the subsequent search for young Arnold, who was missing, and of bringing the boy back from Stockton, Ill., where he was arrested. The confession, in which the boy admitted striking his grandmother with a hammer in a quarrel over the use of the family automobile, was then read to the grand jury and the indictment voted a few minutes later.

Assistant State's Attorney Harry S. Ditchburne announced that the youth will be arraigned at 1 p. m. Monday before Chief Justice John Prystalski. He said that the boy's father and stepmother have shown no desire to see young Arnold go unpunished for his crime and predicted a short trial and early sentence.

State to Demand Prison.

"The state will not ask for the electric chair because of the youth of the defendant," he said. "But any attempt to prove him insane or procure him a sentence less than imprisonment for life will be strongly opposed."

That the defense will seek to prove the boy's insanity was indicated when Dr. James Whitney Hall, psychiatrist engaged by Arnold, Sr., made public a report in which he stated that the youth was suffering from hebephrenic psychosis, or adolescent insanity, and did not know what he was doing when he killed his grandmother.

Two state alienists, Drs. H. Douglas Singer, and Francis A. Gerty, have expressed the opinion that the boy is legally sane. Dr. Harry Hoffman, director of the Criminal court behavior clinic, said he will study the boy for several days before he will announce an opinion as to his sanity.

Arnold Learns Jail Habits.

Young Arnold has already become sophisticated in his attitude towards the authorities, an incident yesterday revealed. His parents had expressed a wish to talk to him. Word was sent to the county jail to bring him over to the state's attorney's office. The message came back that the boy refused to leave.

"I'm through having anything to do with the state's attorney's office," the boy told his jailers.

Even a request from Attorney David Jacker, his lawyer, was not obeyed by young Arnold and the parents were forced to go to the jail to see him.

Mother Sheds Tears.

The interview lasted two hours. Mrs. Arnold wept copiously and the boy was also reported to have shed some tears.

"He looks as if he'd lost 10 or 12 pounds since he was arrested," was Mrs. Arnold's only comment when she left the jail. She and her husband were then closeted with Prosecutor Ditchburne for some time. When they had left, the latter remarked:

"They seem to realize for the first time that the boy actually did murder Mrs. Saxe. They apparently want to get the case over and settled."

BREWERY UNION DECLARES WAR ON RACKETEERS

Protection Pledged to Legal Business.

At several Chicago breweries, where all is in readiness to serve the public with real instead of near beer the first minute such service becomes legal, there was little apprehension felt yesterday over possible competition with hoodlums and gangsters, but word from Cincinnati, where the American Federation of Labor is in convention, that the Brewery Workers' union has taken action to forestall the racketeers was welcomed.

The men who plan to spend large sums in outfitting breweries said they are placing their reliance on Mayor Cermak, who for years was the head of the United Societies, an organization of all brewing interests, and the fact that he will have a friendly governor and state's attorney working with him. Considerable dependence is placed on Thomas J. Courtney, who will become state's attorney on Dec. 5, and who has said he will not let the racketeers and gangsters rule, brewery officials said.

Police Pledge Protection.

Mayor Cermak's assurance to the brewing industry came in the statement yesterday of Police Commissioner Allman, who said:

"When beer is legalized it will get the same protection other legal businesses get."

Joseph Obergfell, secretary-treasurer of the International Brewery, Flour Cereal, and Soft Drink Workers' union, sent the message from Cincinnati. He said the union already has decided to expel any member discovered to be associated with racketeers and that congress would be asked to pass legislation permitting only citizens of good character to receive permits to operate breweries.

"Our union has understood for some time that Chicago gangsters plan to get their clutches on the brewing industry," Mr. Obergfell said. "One of the most important questions now before our executive board is this very issue.

"If the underworld gets control it will wreck the industry and wreck our union. The business must be operated on a high plane.

"We must keep the brewing industry a legitimate industry. We saw the underworld crowd grow as a result of the great mistake of prohibition. Our union has fought for fourteen years for restoration of good beer. Now, on the eve of victory, we don't propose to let gangsters ruin everything."

Oppose U. S. Sales Tax.

Cincinnati, O., Nov. 25.—[Special.]—Besides the action taken by the united brewery workers to prevent gangster control of the beer business when it is legalized, other features of the American Federation of Labor convention here today were the following:

Opposition was voted to a federal sales tax on the ground it is a "soak the poor" tax.

Officials were instructed to begin a campaign to unionize all employés of chain stores.

Approval was expressed of the proposal that all laundry and hotel workers be unionized and that hotels whose employés are not unionized should not be patronized by unions for meetings.

Reject Food Union Plan.

Rejected a proposal to make a trade union division of all workers dealing with food preparation and handling.

Discussed unemployment insurance, decided against asking a constitutional amendment on a 30 hour week for workers, and gave consideration to matters pertaining to nationalization of banks and more rigorous income taxation.

Entertain Consul

Rene Weiller, French consul to Chicago, was the guest of honor last night at a dinner given in the Medinah club by the "Blue Devils," French society. M. Weiller spoke briefly after the dinner and presented to Mrs. M. Perot a flag. Members of the society have adopted a distinctive uniform modeled after that of the Diables Bleus of the French army and will act as guides and hostesses to French visitors attending the Century of Progress exposition next year.

ATHENS RUMOR SAYS INSULL IS SWINDLE VICTIM

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ATHENS, Greece, Nov. 25.—Fantastic rumors appearing in the Greek press recently that Samuel Insull had received $1,000,000 in bank notes via Salonika were followed tonight by another rumor that he had been "rolled" for 1,000,000 drachma [$5,800] sent from England. A report is circulated that he entrusted the sum to be exchanged for Greek money and never saw it again.

Insull said tonight that he knew nothing about the affair. His British lawyer, Arthur Douglas Page, said: "I never talk for publication. If I knew anything about it, I would make no comments."

Insull walked for an hour and a half in the garden of Aretaeion clinic today. He appeared to be in excellent health. He said he was all dressed up and had had a haircut to go out for Thanksgiving dinner yesterday, "but at the last minute there was a hitch."

LEAGUE PLANS AN INVESTIGATION OF GRAN CHACO WAR

GENEVA, Switzerland, Nov. 25.—(AP)—The league of nations committee considering the dispute between Paraguay and Bolivia over the Gran Chaco proposed today that the league council recommend sending an international military commission to make an inquiry at the scene of hostilities.

The committee also recommended that the council call the attention of governments which are not parties to the dispute to the importance which arms shipments play in aggravating the conflict.

The council approved both recommendations and will pass them on to the neutral committee now in session at Washington. Both the Bolivian and Paraguayan representatives on the council joined in the approval.

KILLER CALLS 30 WITNESSES TO PROVE INSANITY

Mayor on List Sought by Varecha's Attorney.

Thirty witnesses, among them Mayor Cermak, will be called by the defense in the trial of James [Iggy] Varecha, 17 years old, confessed killer and rapist, for the murder of Frank F. Jordan. Defense Attorney Joseph Nosek appeared yesterday in the Criminal court and obtained that number of subpoenas from Chief Justice John Prystalski.

"I intend to call a number of people to show that my client is mentally incompetent," Attorney Nosek said in answer to the remark of Judge Prystalski that the attorney sought an unusual number of subpoenas.

Mayor Hears Confession.

Attorney Nosek previously said he would seek the testimony of the mayor to show that Varecha did not "react in a normal manner" at the time of his confession. Mayor Cermak was at the detective bureau when Varecha admitted killing Jordan during an attempted robbery, and confessed the kidnaping and rape of Miss Lillian Henry, and several other robberies.

Another crime was laid to Varecha yesterday. Joseph J. Beran, 658 North Oakley boulevard, viewed him at the detective bureau and declared he was the youth who had robbed him and Miss Mary Harsey of St. Louis on Oct. 30.

According to Beran, Varecha stepped into his automobile at Wilcox street and Hamlin avenue and compelled him to drive about through the streets for more than an hour. He made advances to the girl, robbed her and Beran, and boasted of his importance as a gangster and of his record as a criminal.

The next court appearance of Varecha is scheduled for Dec. 7.

Assistant State's Attorney Walker Butler appeared before Judge Prystalski and asked for an order to prevent defense alienists from examing Varecha except in the presence of the prosecution alienists.

Delays Ruling on Alienists.

"I have heard that Dr. Orlando Scott is going to perform an examination for the defense," the prosecutor said. "I ask that no alienist be allowed to examine the defendant except in the presence of all other alienists in the case."

Attorney Nosek objected on the ground that defense examination in the presence of the prosecution would place Varecha in the position of testifying against himself. Judge Prystalski ordered both to present legal authorities on Monday. In the meantime, the court ruled, none but the alienist attached to the court behavior clinic will be allowed to see the prisoner.

Dr. Hulbert "Not Interested."

Attorney Nosek had been quoted as saying that he "expected to employ both Dr. Orlando Scott and Dr. Harold S. Hulbert for the defense of Varecha." Dr. Hulbert, however, declared last night that he had not authorized Mr. Nosek to use his name.

Frank Varecha, 19 year old brother of the killer, was arraigned yesterday before Judge Harold P. O'Connell on a charge of conspiracy to obstruct justice, placed after he confessed that he disposed of the pistol used in the slaying of Jordan. The case was continued to Dec. 15 to allow the police time for further investigation and bond was set at $1,500.

RAINEY WITNESS AT FRAUD TRIAL; INVESTS $7,500

Tells of Purchasing "Gold Brick" Stock.

New York, Nov. 25.—[Special.]—Representative Henry T. Rainey of Illinois, Democratic floor leader, appeared today in federal court to tell Judge Alfred C. Coxe and a jury how stock salesmen for the Southern City Supply corporation induced him to buy 500 shares of "gold brick" stock for $7,500.

The corporation, according to John S. Pratt, special assistant attorney general who is prosecuting two of its officers for alleged mail frauds, received $1,700,000 from investors.

Representative Rainey pointed out Lynn E. Wolfe, one of the defendants, who was president of the corporation and formerly an accountant for the estate of Joseph Pulitzer, as the man who was largely responsible for his loss.

On Trial Second Time.

Wolfe and Murray H. Olt, a broker and his associate, are being tried for the second time, a jury having failed recently to agree on a verdict at their first trial, which Mr. Rainey did not attend.

The company, in which he had bought $7,500 in shares, owned shale lands and a plant near Birmingham, Ala., sold brick, according to its circulars, as well as stock, and its salesmen made the statement that work had begun on the foundations of new ovens in its plant. There was also mention of a request for bids on 3,000,000 bricks needed in the construction of eleven cotton plants.

Mr. Rainey described in court the details of his purchase of 200 shares of stock in 1928 for $3,000. Soon afterward he received notice of a two cent a share quarterly dividend. He then wrote to Wolfe, he said, and asked for confirmation of representations made by salesmen. A representative of the promoter called on Mr. Rainey and induced him to buy 300 more shares, for which he paid $4,500.

Fell for It Quickly.

Referring to the salesman's prophecy of quick returns, Mr. Rainey said: "That proposition was so appealing to me that I fell for it very quickly."

Later he said his suspicions were aroused and although efforts were made to sell him additional stock he refused to buy it.

Wolfe, he testified, called on him twice at Washington and offered to sell him a block of stock at $11 a share "to let him in on an extra dividend." In July of 1928 he received notice of the regular quarterly dividend of 20 cents and an extra dividend of 10 cents. In October he received notice that the quarterly dividend had been deferred. The January dividend was also omitted and in February, 1929, he was informed that "dividends were cumulative and would be paid when earned."

Later in the day Mr. Rainey departed for his home in Carrollton, Ill.

Held as Bandit Who Shot, Robbed Bank Manager

Evansville, Ind., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Walter Dille, 45, of Greensburg, Ind., was arrested last night as a suspect in the shooting and robbery of Walter Bischoff, 34, bank branch manager, here last Saturday. The gunman obtained $14,000. Police said Dille, a monument salesman employed at Indianapolis, had been sought since the holdup for questioning. Witnesses of the robbery will view him today, they said.

CITY COSTS FACE 45% CUT FROM THE PEAK OF 1930

Mayor Names Committee to Suggest Consolidations

A rough idea was formed yesterday of the budget cuts which local governments must make if the citizens' committee on public expenditures accomplishes its announced purpose of reducing the total 1933 tax levy in Cook county to $200,000,000. This objective of the committee was announced on Thursday by its chairman, Fred W. Sargent.

If the tax levy is cut to this basis the various governments must finance all of their activities except bond and interest payments on 57.7 per cent of what they levied in 1930, which set the high water mark for Cook county tax bills. They must cut their levies, exclusive of those for bonds and interest, to 77 per cent of the level which the committee set for 1932 levies last May, when it started its economy drive. It did not accomplish the full reductions it recommended at that time, however.

Invite Horner to Conference.

Further details of the Sargent committee's recommendations are expected to be made known at a meeting Monday morning at the Union League club. Mayor Cermak, members of the school board and heads of other taxing bodies have been invited to be present. Gov. Elect Horner has also been invited and will be asked to state his opinion on the consolidation, for economy's sake, of some of the county's 410 taxing units.

Mayor Cermak will be able to report some progress in cutting the city budget at the meeting Monday. He called a cabinet meeting yesterday and told his department heads that if they do not take the initiative in reducing their appropriation requests he will make the cuts himself. He appointed a committee of five of his aids to consider retrenchment and the consolidation of city's departments and bureaus.

Extent of Retrenchments.

The estimate of the extent to which these retrenchments and those of other local governments must be carried to accomplish the Sargent committee's recommendation was obtained in the following manner: In 1930, the last year for which taxes have been extended, the total levies in the county were $290,283,776. Of this 82 per cent, or $240,495,842, was levied by the major local governments—the city, public library, municipal tuberculosis sanitarium, schools, county, forest preserve, three large park districts and their joint pension fund, and the sanitary district.

On the same basis of 82 per cent these governments would get $164,000,000 from a proposed total levy of $200,000,000 for 1933. But no reduction can be made in their fixed charges for bonds and interest. Placing these charges at the 1932 level of $58,490,000, the governments could levy only a little over $105,000,000 for all other purposes.

Comparison of Levies.

The levies which they will be able to make on this basis, with the 1930 tax extension and the Sargent committee's recommendations for 1932 levies, which were not wholly followed by the taxing bodies, follow:

Government.	1930 tax Extensions.	Proposed 1932 levies.	Estimated 1933 levies.
*City	$62,706,231	$49,463,000	$38,068,000

Totals	240,495,842	194,888,000	163,594,000

*Includes city corporate, working cash, judgment and pension funds.

The estimated 1933 city levy includes other funds than the corporate fund, which is generally considered separately in budget making. Upon the same basis the city corporate fund levy would be only $33,880,000. In his preliminary estimates for the budget given Mayor Cermak Wednesday City Controller Szymczak figured on a corporate levy of $43,032,000.

Mr. Szymczak estimated corporate fund appropriations, exclusive of 10 per cent loss and cost in tax collections, at $48,219,000. The department heads' estimates totaled $52,671,000.

Aside from its tax levy the corporate fund has miscellaneous revenue from licenses and fees which is estimated at $12,705,000. Making a 10 per cent deduction for loss and cost from the estimated levy under the Sargent committee proposal, the city would have only $30,493,000 in tax revenue and $12,705,000 in miscellaneous revenue, a total of $43,197,000, to run its corporate fund activities in 1933.

Would Mean Heavy Cuts.

This would necessitate a cut of $5,022,000 from Mr. Szymczak's estimates, or a $9,474,000 reduction from the present estimates of the department heads.

The committee appointed yesterday by Mayor Cermak to consider retrenchments consists of Corporation Counsel Sexton, Controller Szymczak and Commissioner of Public Works Sprague, representing the department heads; John F. Cullerton, supervisor of employment, representing the mayor, and John A. Richert, head of the finance committee staff.

"I have appointed the committee to analyze the estimates as submitted by department heads with a view to revamping the entire budget to conform with the estimated revenue," Mayor Cermak said.

It is expected that Assessor J. L. Jacobs will be able to furnish the taxing bodies with an estimate of the 1931 assessment totals by next week. Since the 1931 roll is a reassessment, the 1933 assessments on which the tax levies will be based are not expected to differ greatly.

Nonessential Services.

The retrenchment committee is expected to make its first budget cuts in what are deemed to be nonessential city services. First, of course, it must determine what services are nonessential. Mayor Cermak served notice on his cabinet members that if they do not coöperate in reducing appropriation estimates he will make such cuts as he believes will be least injurious to the health and safety of citizens.

While other departments are apparently scheduled for cuts, it is believed that an attempt will be made to add several hundred patrolmen to the police department, which has had no replacements for three years.

According to present administration plans employés will be asked to take no greater pay cuts than the 78 days' reduction, amounting to a 21 per cent reduction, which was in force this year. Further reductions, if any, in pay rolls will be accomplished by dismissing employés.

Mayor Cermak said yesterday that he believed estimates of 10 per cent for loss and cost of tax collections are too low. The same thing was said by D. F. Kelly, a member of the citizens' committee. It was pointed out that the 1928 taxes, in collection two years, are still 13.01 per cent uncollected while the uncollected portions of the 1929 and 1930 levies amount to 29.25 and 45.26 per cent respectively.

Encouraging News.

City and school officials received an encouraging item of news yesterday Mayor Cermak, in commenting on the conference Monday with the citizens' committee, said that he understands that Chicago banks, if they can enlist the coöperation of New York bankers will buy sufficient tax warrants to enable the city and school board to avoid defaults on their bond and interest payments the first of the year.

These payments on Jan. 1 and Feb. 1 total nearly $22,000,000 for the two bodies.

PUBLIC DEBTS IN COUNTY OVER HALF A BILLION

Figures on Tax Warrants and Bonds Revealed.

The six major branches of government in Chicago and Cook county owe to banks and other holders of bonds and tax warrants a total of $513,465,382, according to financial statements issued yesterday. These are the city (including board of education and other funds), county, sanitary district, and the three large park districts, west, south, and Lincoln parks.

The $513,465,382 represents debts in addition to the 40 million dollars owed in salaries to 45,000 employés, although a small part of it includes tax anticipation warrants given employés in lieu of cash for salaries. The huge debt consists of $390,512,754 in bonds outstanding, some of which are in default, with interest on those that have matured, and an aggregate of $122,952,628 in tax warrants held by banks or other concerns or individuals.

This public debt of more than a half billion dollars does not include what is owed by the smaller taxing bodies—small park districts in the city and village, town, and township obligations in the county, and school boards outside Chicago.

COURT DECIDES A BRIDGE CLUB IS NOT NUISANCE

New York, Nov. 25.—[Special.]—A bridge club in an apartment is not a nuisance in the legal sense of the term and, therefore, tenants in adjoining apartments are not entitled to vacate, according to a decision filed by Judge George L. Genung in Municipal court today.

Judge Genung's decision was on an action brought by the Edgar A. Levy Leasing Company, Inc., against Miss Anna M. Van Norton to recover rent for last June and July on an apartment in West 57th street.

Miss Van Norton admitted not paying the rent, but declared that the peaceful possession of her apartment was disturbed after an adjoining apartment was leased to persons who used it as a bridge club.

She testified that those who frequented the bridge club made an undue amount of noise and commotion, often until a late hour at night.

Judge Genung ruled that Miss Van Norton was not entitled to vacate without paying the rent.

YOUTHFUL RADICALS MAKE THREATENING DEMANDS IN MICHIGAN

Lansing, Mich., Nov. 25.—[Special.]—A delegation of juvenile communists, numbering fifty or more and ranging in age from 6 to 18 years, waited upon Gov. Wilber M. Brucker at the capitol today to present relief demands which, the governor said, their tutors in radicalism were "too cowardly to present."

The governor, after listening to the tearful and at times profane and abusive appeals of the youngsters, urged them to return to their homes. The delegation came by truck from Detroit, Grand Rapids, and Muskegon, and was made up of children of both sexes and of both whites and Negroes. They were accompanied by a few adults, both men and women.

The young visitors said they were members of the Youth Sector, "United Front Conference," and that they intended to join the projected "hunger march" on Washington, the Michigan mobilization for which is scheduled for tomorrow. They carried tin posters upon which were painted in red their "demands" upon the state government.

The spokesmen for the delegation at times even threatened personal violence on the governor, but burst into tears when restrained by police. Tom Byrd of Detroit, apparently the chief leader, demanded the right to speak so many times that he was finally forcibly silenced. Several of the children pleaded that they had been unable to get food from their local welfare organizations.

Gov. Brucker advised the children "not to allow present discomforts of life to so poison your hearts and shape your lives that when you are older you cannot love your country, its flag, and its government."

"Apparently many of you boys," he told them, "have become so imbued with hatred taught by the communists that it will be difficult or impossible to correct your minds in later years."

TRYING TO KEEP SON OUT OF THE FOREIGN LEGION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 25.—The French war office and American consulates throughout France have been notified by the consulate general in Paris to be on the lookout from Harry Wahlberg, 25, Milwaukee, to prevent him from carrying out his intention to enlist in the Foreign Legion.

In a frantic appeal by Wahlberg's parents in Milwaukee to American authorities here they said he disappeared from home Nov. 1 after declaring he was coming to France to enlist in the North African unit about which so much romance has been built.

A description of Wahlberg was forwarded all over France, but so far no trace of the adventure seeker is reported. Once in the Foreign legion it will be difficult to get him out before the five year enlistment term is served.

MOVE FOR HOUSE TO APPROVE BEER BILL BY JAN. 1

Democrats Are at Work on Measure.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 25.—[Special.]—The long brewing question of whether repeal or beer shall be taken up first came to a head today.

While Republican leaders at both ends of the capitol came out simultaneously for adoption of a repeal resolution ahead of beer, Democratic leaders disclosed that according to their plans submission of repeal to the states for ratification may wait until the 73d congress meets in December, 1933.

Speaker John N. Garner [Dem., Tex.] confidently predicted that the house would pass a bill legalizing beer before Jan. 1, but he seriously doubted whether a resolution providing for the repeal of the 18th amendment would get through either chamber in the "lame duck" session.

Despite Mr. Garner's agreement that he would recognize Republican Leader Bertrand H. Snell when the latter rose to propose a repeal resolution, the impression persisted that the Democratic plan does not contemplate repeal at this session. It requires a two-thirds vote to adopt a resolution for an amendment to the constitution.

No Special Session for Repeal.

In the opinion of Democratic leaders who were called into conference by President Elect Franklin D. Roosevelt during his visit here early in the week, Mr. Roosevelt at present does not contemplate calling a special session of congress for the single purpose of submitting prohibition repeal to the states if a satisfactory beer bill becomes a law this winter.

For the moment at least repeal has become the "forgotten man" of the Democratic legislative program, but the house managers with the approval of Speaker Garner have prepared to force a beer bill to a vote in the first two weeks of the short session.

Representative James W. Collier [Dem., Miss.], chairman of the ways and means committee, ordered the bill drafting service to prepare a beer bill with the alcoholic content and federal tax left blank for presentation the day congress convenes.

Under the prearranged program the ways and means committee immediately will begin hearings to determine the amount of tax, while the judiciary committee simultaneously decides what degree of alcoholic content may be authorized with least danger of inviting the disapproval of the United States Supreme court.

Rush Bill Back to House.

The bill when completed will be rushed back to the house and given preferred status by the Democratic controlled rules committee to assure a vote and probably adoption before the Christmas holidays.

To this program vigorous opposition is expected from the Republican side, led by Representative Snell. Although a dry throughout his long career in the house, Representative Snell came out for the immediate submission of repeal to the states. The house Republican leader reserved his decision whether he would vote for a beer bill, but was emphatic that it should not take precedence over repeal legislation.

"The legislators of all but four states will be in session this session," Representative Snell said. "Many of them will not meet again for several years. If we pass a repeal resolution, as I am confident this congress can, the state legislatures can order the necessary constitutional conventions and prohibition undoubtedly will be repealed.

"But if we only pass a beer bill we will get nowhere, because the question of its constitutionality undoubtedly will hang fire before the Supreme court for many months. I am satisfied from the last election that the country wants a chance and will order it without delay."

Speaker Garner, along with other house leaders, was not so optimistic over the prospects for passage of a repeal resolution by this session.

Senator Charles L. McNary [Rep., Ore.], Republican whip, supported Representative Snell's demand for repeal legislation first.

MICHIGAN BEER WOULD PROVIDE JOBS FOR 30,000

Lansing, Mich., Nov. 25.—[Special.]—Return of legalized beer to Michigan will provide upwards of 30,000 jobs, according to an estimate based on pre-prohibition statistics compiled with the collaboration of state officials.

The estimate contemplates reëstablishment, however, of public drinking places similar to old-time bars. Adoption of a liquor store system or some other liquor control plan eliminating the saloon might alter the figures considerably.

According to records of the auditor general there were 3,800 licensed bars and 69 breweries in Michigan in 1914. State prohibition became effective in May, 1919. The number employed in bars in 1914 was placed at 15,200, and in breweries 2,662.

At that time the state's population was 3,230,000, as compared with 4,800,000 in 1930. If per capita consumption of beer remains at the 1914 figure, breweries and beer dispensaries would employ about 27,000, and the remaining 3,000 would constitute a conservative estimate of the additional jobs provided by other phases of the business such as transportation and manufacturing and distribution of auxiliary products.

ATLANTIC SHIP LINES TO BOOST TRAVEL RATES

LONDON, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Steamship lines represented in the Atlantic conference decided today partially to restore the passenger rates which were effective before heavy reductions were made early this year. The decision was regarded as a victory for the French line and the Canadian Pacific, which have withdrawn threats to leave the conference on this issue.

The increase will be about 6 per cent in the first and second cabin classes. The tourist increase will be $5.50 and third class $5 westbound, $7.50 eastbound. There also will be slight increases in the luxury accommodations.

The four week summer season also will be reinstated and during that period first cabin and tourist rates will go up 5 per cent. The present reductions for round trips will be maintained. These changes will take effect Dec. 5.

CAR LINES' TAX TOO LOW, APPEAL BOARD IS TOLD

Jacobs Defends Valuation of Personalty.

When attorneys for the allied Surface Lines companies appeared before the board of tax appeals last evening to protest a $42,923,000 valuation of their personal property on the 1931 tax rolls Assessor J. L. Jacobs demanded that the valuation be increased by $18,000,000. Presenting new information to the board, he asserted a proper assessment would be $60,662,325.

The hearing was the second before Fred W. Brummel and George F. Nixon, the appeals board members, during which counsel for the companies produced evidence to substantiate the $12,000,000 sworn schedule which they filed with the assessor. For two hours the lawyers, John R. Guilliams and Thomas D. Huff, argued with the assessor. At times their remarks became an exchange of personalities.

Appraised at 265 Millions.

The assessor gave the board copies of an appraisal of all the property of the Surface Lines which was made by three appraisers appointed in 1925 when the city council committee on local transportation was attempting to discover the value of the companies to be used as a basis for a unified traction system. These appraisals fixed the values of all the lines' property at $265,000,000.

The assessor explained that with allowances for capital stock, depreciation and real estate, all of which are deductible from the total value, he found that the personal property of the companies amounted on April 1, 1931, to $165,000,000 full value. With the equalization factor of 37 per cent applied to this figure the assessed value of $60,662,325 results.

Attorney Huff asked who had made the appraisal and was informed that it was the combined conclusions of Maj. R. F. Kelker, city engineer; William J. Hagenah, and William B. Parsons, appraisal engineers.

Jacobs Explains Figures.

They asserted that the report was so old that it could have no bearing on the present values of the lines. They added that their own engineer, Milton B. Moultby, who made a subsequent appraisal, had found the value of the Surface Lines to be less than 150 millions of dollars. Then they demanded that the assessor show how he calculated his assessment.

"Yes," interrupted Nixon, "show us, Mr. Jacobs, just how you reached that appraisal of $42,000,000 which originally was protested here."

Jacobs said the capital account of the lines, as shown by their own report to the Illinois commerce commission for 1931 was $166,711,586. He deducted $22,915,520 for real estate and intangible property and an additional $27,000,000 as the amount of a replacement fund, leaving $116,209,690 as personal property. When the 37 per cent factor was applied to this amount the assessment of $42,997,588 was reached.

Attorney Huff then asked what property the assessor had included as personal property.

Assails Lines' Figures.

"Mr. Huff seems to have the impression that my office is operating to furnish him with information which it is his duty to give the assessor," replied Jacobs hotly. "He has several times ordered me to give him information. But I don't see why I should.

"Now the information presented to the board by my office is a reliable report, not gained from the Surface Lines but from another appraiser. It is on a basis I believe it ought to be."

Nixon and Brummel then adjourned the meeting, asking Attorneys Guilliams and Huff to prepare a statement showing just what they consider personal property. A continuance until Dec. 7 was granted.

CERMAK SCORNS INVITATION OF SCHOOL BOARD

Suggests to Trustees They Call Prosecutor.

Mayor Cermak yesterday declined the invitation of the school board that he sit in on its 1933 budget sessions in an advisory capacity. In his reply he charged the school trustees with extravagance, recalled that some months ago, when he urged them to retrench he was told to "mind his own business," and suggested that the proper person to look into their affairs is State's Attorney Elect Courtney.

The invitation to participate in school budget sessions was extended to the mayor, representatives of banks, and the citizens' committee on public expenditures in a resolution offered Wednesday by Trustee Joseph P. Savage, one of the holdover Republican members, and passed unanimously by the trustees present.

Reminds Schools of Waste.

"What they should have done was to invite myself and the advisory committee at the beginning of this year when I asked them to," said Mayor Cermak. "The advisory committee asked permission to make a survey, but this was refused.

"When I took office I found that my predecessor had spent approximately 40 per cent of the appropriations in the first three months of 1931 and yet I was able to save $8,000,000 by the end of the year. If the board of education had done the same thing it would not be calling for help now.

"They got themselves into this trouble. Now let them swim out. The invitation is an insult to any man's intelligence. They wrecked the whole school machinery and now they are asking us to help set it up again. They should invite in the new state's attorney.

"I'm for any saving, but they didn't try to save. As a result, they have no money and are spending promises."

President Lewis E. Myers of the school board refused to comment on the mayor's statement. He was not present at the meeting at which the invitations to the budget sessions were extended.

Teachers Ask for Food.

Twenty members of the Chicago High School Teachers' association called on Mayor Cermak yesterday and asked his aid in obtaining an immediate pay day.

One of the teachers, E. R. Leach of Austin High school, asked if it would be possible for teachers to get food from the emergency relief commission and to pay for the supplies when they get their pay checks. Mayor Cermak replied that he has several such plans under consideration, including one to protect unpaid teachers from eviction for nonpayment of rent.

The announcement of the Fred W. Sargent committee on public expenditures yesterday that the twenty-eight junior high schools in the city should be turned into senior high schools recalled to the mind of school officials what several of the board members had said several weeks ago when the report reached them.

Scorn Architects' Views.

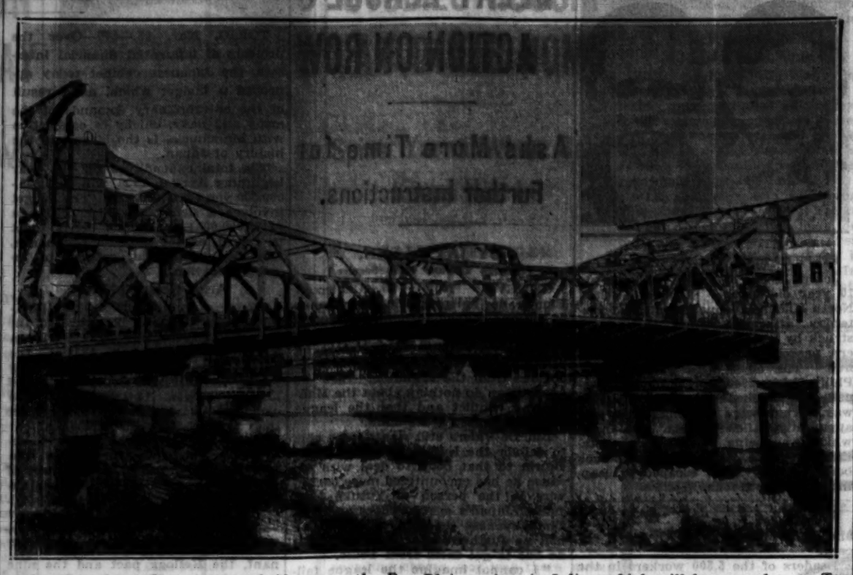
At that time it was said that Ernest Graham, a member of the Sargent committee, recommended the converting of the junior high schools into senior high schools and that no more junior high schools be built.

"What do these architects know about educational policies?" asked Trustee Joseph P. Savage. "Nobody asked them for their advice on educational policies and besides they aren't qualified to know. That matter is up to our trained educators."

The Strayer report recommended the building of more junior high schools when the board is able.

Superintendent of Schools Bogan announced yesterday that representatives of the citizens' committee on public expenditures will visit every school in the city to make an independent estimate of the school seat shortage.

JOLIET WATERWAY BRIDGE TO BE OPENED TODAY



The new Jefferson street bridge over the Des Plaines river in Joliet, which will be opened to traffic today. With this bridge in use workmen will start tearing away the temporary bridge at Van Buren street, the last obstacle to navigation of the Illinois waterway. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Mayor to Speak

Exercises dedicating the new Jefferson street bridge in Joliet, crossing the Illinois waterway, will be held today. Mayor William A. Hennessy is to be the principal speaker. He announced yesterday that he would not accept the bridge from the state, as the sidewalks and approaches are not yet up to the grades specified, but would extend congratulations on the progress made so far. The mayor's position is that he will take no chances on having the state leave the bridge until all the construction agreements with the city of Joliet have been fulfilled.

COURT TO SPEED HEARINGS ON TAX FUNDS IN TRUSTS

County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki yesterday ordered all banks and trust companies holding tax funds in trust for taxpayers who have filed objections to the 1928, 1929, or 1930 tax levies to come into court and have their cases adjudicated. His order was given after an attorney for a closed bank announced he had almost $100,000 in such funds in trust for payment of bills now awaiting trial of objections.

The lawyer was Harry L. Stripe, counsel for the People's Trust and Savings bank. He paid approximately $20,000 on 1930 taxes after the judge overruled a score of small objections. Then he informed the court that he had several hundred more similar cases for earlier years. He asked that they be put on the judge's call for immediate disposal.

"This is the sort of thing which all banks and trust companies ought to do," commented Judge Jarecki. "It is fine to see some one with a sense of civic duty and I will be glad to accommodate you.

"I happen to know of one trust company which is holding $2,000,000 in trust for unpaid tax bills. Every month these bills remain unpaid adds 1 per cent of their total to the amount the property owners eventually will have to pay."

Boulder City School Is Closed by Influenza

Las Vegas, Nev., Nov. 25.—(AP)—A spread of influenza in Boulder City, headquarters for the construction of Boulder dam, has resulted in the closing of the school there as a precautionary measure, although other public centers remain open. Government authorities said that although several persons were ill, the situation was not serious enough to cripple construction work.

5 ARE DROWNED AS CRAFT SINKS NEAR LAKE PIER

Wreckage Is Searched for Bodies.

Grand Marais, Mich., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Five members of the crew of the fishing tug Lydia were drowned here tonight when the vessel was capsized by heavy waves whipped up by a 60 mile northwester on Lake Superior.

The dead are: Capt. Louis Larson of Racine, Wis., commander of the tug; John Tomkiel, the engineer, and Alex Manilla, both of Grand Marais Fred Haysen of Racine, and Thomas Larson, adopted son of the tug's captain.

Search for Bodies.

The Lydia was swept over by waves while she was at the pier near the entrance to the harbor. Coast guards searched the shore for two hours, finding wreckage from the tug but no bodies.

Two other vessels, earlier believed in distress off Caribou island, later were reported in sheltered waters behind Michipicoten island. They were the Isabella, commanded by Capt. James McDonald of Grand Marais and the Joseph Addison, commanded by Capt. Palmer Masse, also of Grand Marais. Coast guards were ready to aid the vessels if necessary.

Fruit Boat Is Overdue.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 25.—(AP)—The South Shore, a sixty foot fruit boat owned by the Lawrie Transit company, Milwaukee, and carrying a crew of three or four men, was unreported and overdue here tonight.

The boat left Garden, Mich., last Saturday carrying a 30 ton cargo of potatoes. The passage ordinarily is negotiated in not more than three days. A sister craft, the North Shore, left Garden Wednesday and arrived here Friday.

Despite the failure of coast guards at Green Bay and Two Rivers to determine the South Shore's position in an all day search, Capt. W. J. Lawrie, president of the transit company, said he felt no concern for the vessel. He explained the crew was probably making a leisurely journey.

SMITH REYNOLDS' COUSIN SHOT; FACTS IN CASE A MYSTERY

Winston-Salem, N. C., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Robert C. Critz, a first cousin of the late Z. Smith Reynolds, was shot through the head and seriously wounded in the bathroom of his home here tonight.

Relatives and authorities were uncommunicative, the former saying they did not know whether the 35 year old tobacco buyer and amateur aviator was "accidentally or intentionally shot."

Critz, who is married and has one child, was reported to have been alone in the bathroom when a shot was heard. He did not lose consciousness immediately, but refused to make any statement.

Critz' mother was a sister of the late R. J. Reynolds, tobacco magnate, who left an estate now estimated at $100,000,000 to his four children.

Smith Reynolds was fatally shot July 6. His widow, Libby Holman, and his chum, Albert Walker, were indicted on a charge of murder, but the charge was dropped ten days ago.

Hunt Confidence Man Who Swindles Recent Widows

Benton, Ill., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Sheriff Browning Robinson is seeking a confidence man who has swindled women who have just become widows. The impostor, the sheriff said, would call on the women and advise them their husbands had taken out insurance shortly before their deaths and, after receiving what he called a notary fee, departed, promising to mail insurance checks. The checks were never received.

OCEAN AIR LINES AWAIT PASSAGE OF REGULATIONS

Builder Warns of U. S. Loss if Congress Delays.

Action on the McNary and Crosser bills during the forthcoming short session of congress to convene on Dec. 5 is imperative if the United States is to have an airship merchant marine without undue delay and unnecessary expense, P. W. Litchfield, president of the Goodyear Zeppelin corporation, said yesterday. Mr. Litchfield was passing through the city en route from Akron, O., to the southwest.

"This legislation is intended to create a merchant marine of the air," Mr. Litchfield said. "Two transport companies have been formed to operate airship lines over the Atlantic and Pacific oceans under the regulations of this proposed code. We are ready to go ahead with this program if the legislation is enacted. One of the bills has been passed by the house and is reported favorably out of a senate committee.

Warns Cost Will Increase.

"If this legislation should fail of passage the United States cannot expect to have a merchant marine of the air for the next five to ten years and at a cost two or three times as great as is now possible. We are completing the U. S. S. Macon at our Akron plant for spring delivery to the navy and could start to build commercial airships most economically."

Mr. Litchfield also pointed out that delay in the creation of a merchant marine of the air at this time would leave the field open to the enterprising Zeppelin interests of Germany, which have already operated a line between Germany and Brazil successfully. Delay would also mean the disintegration of the staff of experts, headed by Dr. Karl Arnstein, that has designed and built the U. S. S. Akron and Macon for the navy.

Works for Six Hour Day.

Mr. Litchfield is also much interested in the move for a six hour day in industry. He heads a committee of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States that is working for the adoption of the six hour day. Its application in the Goodyear Tire and Rubber plants has been quite satisfactory, he remarked. Mr. Litchfield visited the World's Fair grounds during the morning and complimented officials of the fair on their appearance.

Harvey Firestone, president of a tire and rubber company, who arrived in the city from Akron, O., yesterday, declared he can see no definite change in business affairs coming in the early future. He declared the unemployment situation is the key to present conditions.

EDWINA BOOTH, FILM ACTRESS, ILL, VICTIM OF TROPICAL MALADY

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Edwina Booth, blonde motion picture actress who played in "Trader Horn," the picture of life in the African jungles, is seriously ill, the victim of a complication of tropical disorders that kept her from pursuing her film career and that for a time puzzled medical specialists. Only a few of her friends knew until today that she had been confined to the home of her mother for the last seven months.

Mrs. Josephine Woodruff, mother of the actress, said her daughter is the victim of the rays of the equatorial sun and of poisonous insects of the jungles, where filmsily clad she made scenes for the jungle story.

Only once during the seven months has Miss Booth been able to leave her bed, and then she suffered a relapse, Mrs. Woodruff said.

TAXI LICENSES CAUSE INQUIRY IN CITY COUNCIL

Charges of "Monopoly" Fly at Hearing.

The city council subcommittee on taxicabs yesterday held the first of a series of public hearings intended to bring about a revision of the city ordinance governing the operation and rates of taxi cab companies in the city. As a result, the city controller will audit the books of the Yellow, Checker, and Public Taxi Service companies.

The subcommittee determined to ask Commissioner Allman for a report on investigation of the charge that eight of the incorporators of the Lake Shore Mutual Insurance company, which bonds Checker cabs, were city policemen, assigned to the traffic bureau, which licenses cabs.

McLaughlin Demands Action.

The meeting was adjourned by Ald. John Toman until next Tuesday amid considerable disorder. Lee Daniels, attorney for the Public company, insisted on being told whether his company could operate.

Robert E. McLaughlin, chief incorporator of the Century Cab company, which plans to have 1,500 cut rate cabs on the street by spring, added his voice to the uproar.

"The taxicab hearings in New York went on for two or three years," he pointed out. "If that policy is followed here, when will we get our relief?"

Another matter brought before the meeting by Ald. John Hoellen was a request for an investigation to determine how much cab companies pay hotels for the privilege of an exclusive cab stand. The alderman announced his determination to make an issue of the matter and said that he would advocate the removal of cabs from in front of hotels.

Charges were made at the meeting that the Yellow and Checker cab companies are controlled by the Parmalee Transportation company, which is controlled by the Checker Cab Manufacturing company. Attorney George Barrett, for the Yellow cab, answered the charge with the statement that five of six Yellow cab directors in Chicago live in the city. He said that the Yellow company here is controlled, operated, and dominated by Chicagoans.

Calls Security Too Low.

Attorney Daniels told the committee that the Yellow Mutual Insurance company, which bonds Yellow cabs, has securities worth $80,000 at present market quotations on deposit with the state department of insurance. He said that the Yellow Cab company operates 2,300 cabs, making the average security back of each cab $34. In the case of the Lake Shore Mutual Insurance company, Daniels said, the securities on deposit gave each Checker cab a security support of $400.

NEW YORK WASHINGTON BICENTENNIAL BOARD HAS $76,254 DEFICIT

New York, Nov. 25.—[Special.]—The George Washington bicentennial commission is seeking an Alexander Hamilton to balance its budget. In its official report, made public tonight, the city's commission admitted a deficit of $76,254.74, exclusive of the construction costs of Federal hall in Bryant park and Mount Vernon in Prospect park, which are covered by special contract between the commission and Sears, Roebuck & Co. The commission hopes to wipe out its loss by appealing for contributions from its individual members and participating organizations as soon as the emergency unemployment relief fund drive is over.

CIRCUS TO HELP THE NEEDY HARKS BACK TO BARNUM

To Be Given by Women's Group of Salvation Army.

When the pink and green handbills heralding an old time Yankee circus fall into the hands of the older generation of Chicagoans it is expected that a boom in the ticket sale at the Chicago Stadium will follow. And that will mean that the women's division of the Salvation Army will turn over a sizable amount to the Emergency Welfare Fund of Cook County to aid the needy. The circus will be given in the Stadium on Dec. 16 and 17.

Harking back to the days of P. T. Barnum, the handbills announce that there will be "an unprecedented assemblage of merry madcaps in an artful aggregation of comical cutups and sparkling sprees." There will be "agile acrobats in flying flipflops bounding blithely over the hordes of horses and armies of elephants," while the human butterflies will show the "graceful gyrations of gorgeous girls suspended only by their teeth.

An Indian Encampment.

Usarda and his tribe will appear in "a night at an Indian encampment! Hair raising sports and pastimes of the denizens of our western plains." Ponies, dogs, monkeys, the world famous Nelson family, Mlle. Rosina, tight wire artist, and Mme. Lorette, who slides from the lofty top of the Stadium to the ring suspended by her hair, will all be there, as will Harriet Hodgini, "America's premiere equestrienne, the queen of the arena."

"We want to show what a circus at the time of P. T. Barnum was like so that the younger generations will have an idea of the good old days, even to the acrobats in pink tights," Mrs. William S. Monroe, chairman of the circus, explained yesterday. "But we are also going to add some modern acts such as a personal appearance each evening of the Black Horse troop."

The Opening Pageant.

The grand opening spectacle will be a "mammoth, mastodonic, magnificent pageant of transportation from the ox-cart to the auto, from the covered wagon to the limousine." This will be led by the drum and bugle corps of the Board of Trade post of the American Legion. In this pageant will be surreys, double and single buggies, high bicycles, tandems, a stage coach, tallyho, road coaches, automobiles of 1897, and the latest model in folding airplanes.

The opening night will be Army and Navy night, with Rear Admiral Wat T. Cluverius of the Great Lakes Training station and his staff and Brig. Gen. Frank Parker and his staff of Fort Sheridan as special guests. The next night will be Governor's night. Governor Elect Henry Horner has expressed his wish to attend.

Poster Contest for Pupils.

A poster contest is now being conducted in the public and parochial schools for children above the sixth grade. The winning poster will be used on the circus program. The Chicago Art institute plans to exhibit circus paintings and prints in the children's room during the first two weeks in December.

Many are contributing to a special fund which will be used to send crippled and underprivileged children to the circus. There will also be parties from the public schools, parent-teacher groups, Girl Scouts, parochial schools, Big Sisters, and others. The Kiwanis club has reserved 2,500 seats and several boxes.

"We will have huts similar to those the Salvation Army had in France during the world war, and doughnuts, apples, and potato chips will be sold. There will also be fortune tellers," Mrs. Monroe said.

90 Year Old Pulpit Bible Stolen from Pastor's Car

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 25.—(AP)—A huge pulpit Bible, its pages yellowed by ninety years of service, was stolen from the Rev. C. W. Maus today. The minister left the volume in his automobile in front of a hospital while he and his son, A. E. Maus, underwent blood transfusion operations to save the life of a member of the pastor's congregation. When they returned it was missing. Mr. Maus is pastor of the Sewickley Presbyterian church of Milbeil, Pa., which was founded in 1774.

Young Reinhardt Arrives in U. S. to Study Broadway

New York, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Gottfried Reinhardt, 20 year old son of Max Reinhardt, German theatrical producer, came to America today with a determination to follow in his father's footsteps. "If I can do half as well as he has done I shall be happy," he declared as he stepped down the gangplank. The youth, who bears a strong resemblance to his father, already has two German productions to his credit. He will study Broadway, then Hollywood.

Pilot and Woman Killed as Plane Falls in Arkansas

Marianna, Ark., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Two persons were killed tonight when an airplane crashed 12 miles northeast of here. The dead are K. E. [Doc] Yoder, 38, pilot of the plane, and his passenger, Mrs. Spencer Wise, divorcee, of High Point, N. C. Mrs. Wise obtained a divorce decree in Little Rock this afternoon.

CORK IS BURNED IN AIR OR WATER BY NEW SOUND

Screeching Noise Made by Nickel Tube.

New York, Nov. 25.—(AP)—A new screeching sound which chars to cinders the centers of corks, even under water, is reported today in Physics, the scientific journal of the American Physical society.

The discovery is a new tool, both scientific and practical, described by Newton Gaines of the University of Texas.

The corks are burned by sound alone. Sound energy transforms into heat so fast that in about 25 seconds hot gases burst a hole in the cork. In two minutes the entire interior up to a thin outer shell is cinders. This happens both in air and water.

The sound is made by a small nickel tube, about as big around as a policeman's whistle, but several times longer. It is straight and hollow, one end closed like a drum with a nickel plate. This plate vibrates to make the screech, when an electrical current is applied to the other end with proper instruments.

Blows Cause Erosion.

The drumming motion is so rapid that the plate is eroded by its hammer-like blows against water. The erosion forms an eight or nine pointed star. The vibrations move at the rate of one-tenth the acceleration of a bullet in a rifle barrel.

The new thing in this screech is audibility. Hitherto the strange, killing effects of "sound" have been obtained with inaudible, that is "supersound" waves.

But these long sound waves of the Texas whistle kill perhaps even faster than "supersound." When immersed in liquids its victims are frogs, smaller animals and bacteria. The latter die by millions.

There seems no prospect of this tube bringing true the creations of fiction which forecast killing masses of men with noise machines. On close up is the whis" deadly.

Noise Painful to Hearing.

The cork must be fastened to the drum. A finger, however, will "burn" with pure sound if held very close in water without touching. The water, moreover, is kept chilled. The noise is painful to hearing, but cotton in the ears enables investigators to work in comfort a few feet or even inches distant.

Mr. Gaines suggests that the instrument may be of practical value in testing the strength of metals, that is their wearing qualities, in studying erosion, and in biological research. It has already been used to sterilize milk.

Los Angeles Water District to Sell $2,000,000 Bonds

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 25.—[Special.]—Directors of Metropolitan Water district, made up of Los Angeles and sister cities, today voted to advertise for bids for the first $2,016,000 block of bonds for expenses of the $220,000,000 Colorado river aqueduct. Bonds cannot be disposed of unless the bidders agree to take 5 per cent interest or less; but the Reconstruction Finance commission is an assured bidder, since the water district recently obtained an agreement with the R. F. C. to buy up $40,000,000 worth of the $220,000,000 bonds.

KILLED BY FALL.

Sherburne, Minn., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Mrs. E. H. Gower, 66, wife of the pastor of the Federated church here, was killed last night when she slipped on a rug and fell downstairs in her home. Her neck was broken.

Chicago-Twin Cities—Generally clear; strong north to northwest winds, gales at high levels.

Chicago-Omaha—Clear, except some scattered to broken high clouds; mostly strong north to northwest winds except northeast extreme west.

Chicago-Kansas City—Generally clear; strong north to northwest winds extreme northeast extreme south portion.

Route forecasts for 12 hours ending at noon:

Evansville-Atlanta—Overcast, probably rain Saturday morning, except broken clouds near Evansville.

Cleveland-New York—Overcast, with occasional rain Saturday forenoon, except broken clouds becoming overcast near Cleveland with possibility of light rain or snow Saturday morning.

RIDING FOR FUN IN PLANE HELD AS RIDER'S RISK

Judge Rules Negligence Must Be "Wanton."

Only through wanton negligence amounting to recklessness can the owner of a private airplane, not used for hire, be held responsible for the injury or death of a passenger in the plane, Judge Joseph B. David ruled yesterday in the Superior court.

The ruling was entered in dismissing the suit brought by Benjamin L. Bird, Highland Park broker, against his brother-in-law, Albert E. Louer, for $10,000, growing out of the death on Sept. 14, 1929, of Mrs. Louer in a plane belonging to her brother.

Three Others Are Killed.

Three other persons, the pilot of the plane in which Mrs. Louer was riding, the pilot of another plane, and his passenger, were killed in a collision between the two planes. Aviation authorities blamed Charles Kron, an unlicensed pilot who was flying the other plane, for the tragedy.

"When a carrier for hire is negligent at all, then the negligence might be construed as willful and wanton, which is necessary to obtain damages, since a carrier for hire in a plane has to show far more care than even a railroad or bus line," Judge David ruled. "But in this case the woman passenger was taking a ride for fun. When that is true the passenger takes a chance on what is going to happen, except for very obvious, willful, and wanton negligence, which would amount to recklessness."

Appeal Agreed to.

It had been agreed previously that an appeal is to be taken from Judge David's ruling. The suit is being defended by an insurance company. Lawyers said that the case is important because it sets a precedent in the field of aeronautical law, on which few decisions are now available. Representatives of the department of aeronautical law of Northwestern university were in court to observe the trial of the issue, for that reason.

MAYOR WILL GO BEFORE R. F. C. IN NEW FUND PLEA

Officials and Relief Heads Going to Washington.

Mayor Cermak and President Emmett Whealan of the Cook county board will accompany the leaders of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission to Washington next week to apply for another loan from the Reconstruction Finance corporation for relief of the idle. This was announced following a meeting of the relief commission yesterday. The relief commission will be represented at the capital by its chairman, Edward L. Ryerson Jr., and Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary.

The R. F. C. already has loaned $20,303,000 to Illinois, which is almost half of the maximum which may be loaned to any state.

De Witt Billman, legislative adviser to Gov. Emmerson, and Corporation Counsel William H. Sexton also will appear before the R. F. C. in behalf of the request for the new loan. While a definite amount for the proposed loan has not been set, it was pointed out that the relief commission's funds are virtually exhausted and that it needs $6,505,000 to carry on through December. The appeal is expected to be placed before the R. F. C. on Tuesday morning.

Mayor Cermak and President Whealan attended the weekly meeting of the commission in its offices at 10 South La Salle street and continued the conference in the mayor's office. It was understood that one of the subjects under consideration was the sale of 17 million dollars of county relief bonds authorized by the legislature this week.

Acute Need for Relief.

It was because of the acute need for relief in Cook county, and because of the difficulty anticipated in disposing of the bonds, due to the fact that the county is now in default on some of its bonds, that Mayor Cermak and Mr. Whealan decided to accompany the relief commission officials to Washington.

The county board yesterday ordered the $17,000,000 bond issue printed and took up the matter of advertising the issue for sale. The board also recommended to Joseph L. Moss, director of the bureau of public welfare, that because of the destitute condition of some county employés who have not been paid for five months, a bureau be opened at which they can draw food, coal and clothing orders similar to those given the idle. These orders would be charged up against their unpaid salaries.

The board also ordered Frank Chambers, supervisor of public service, to let a contract for 115,000 pairs of shoes to the lowest responsible bidder, without regard to the recommendations of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission. The bids under consideration are the second set, as the first were thrown out at the suggestion of the state relief commission because shoe manufacturers said they were too high.

$2,492,502 Welfare Fund.

The Emergency Welfare Fund of Cook County, Inc., which is conducting a public campaign for $7,500,000 with which to continue established charity work other than relief to the jobless, reported a new total of $2,492,502 yesterday afternoon.

The new total of subscriptions to the fund represents an increase of $362,044 over the total previously reported and brings the fund to 32.3 per cent of its goal. The group of workers which is seeking large donations from wealthy individuals announced its latest collections yesterday noon at a meeting in the Chicago club.

Joseph T. Ryerson, chairman of the trades and industries division of the drive, announced the standing of the divisions of workers as follows: The section led by Clarence W. Sills, $638,628, or 46.3 per cent of its quota; F. O. Hale, $567,364, 39.5 per cent; J. L. Beven, $393,997, 34.7 per cent; George W. Young, $219,723, 33.2 per cent; W. O. Batchelder, $425,993, 25.7 per cent; and F. H. Massmann, 248,794, 24.6 per cent.

Leaders of the 5,500 workers in the drive will report additional contributions next Tuesday and Friday.

The public drive for the Emergency Welfare fund is closing its second week. Contributions are expected to increase when the donations of employés' groups come in, according to Robert A. Gardner, director of the campaign.

CITY TO OBSERVE ARRIVAL HERE OF MARQUETTE

Chicago will celebrate the 258th anniversary of its settlement by Father Marquette on Dec. 4, with a city wide series of activities. Eighty thousand birthday cakes will be displayed in the city and later distributed to charitable institutions.

Plans for the observance are being arranged by a committee headed by Thomas A. O'Shaughnessy and comprising executives of the Chicago Association of Commerce, World's Fair, Northwestern, Chicago, Loyola and De Paul universities and the city administration.

The largest cake, 6 feet in diameter and 4 feet high, will be one of the features at the principal celebration at the World's Fair Hall of Science on Dec. 4. Mayor Cermak and other civic leaders will pay tribute to Father Marquette.

Students of Loyola university will honor the Jesuit explorer with special exercises at the original mouth of the Chicago river at Michigan avenue and Wacker drive. A parade will march later to the site of the Marquette camp on the shore of the river at Robey street.

150 SCIENTISTS HEAR DISCUSSION OF COSMIC RAYS

More than 150 scientists of the eastern and central states gathered yesterday at the University of Chicago for the first session of the 180th meeting of the American Physical society.

Part of the discussion centered about cosmic rays, concerning which important researches are being made by Prof. Arthur H. Compton of Chicago. A paper prepared by Abbé G. Le Maitre of the University of Louvain and M. S. Vallarta of Massachusetts Institute of Technology tended to support the theory that these cosmic rays are strangers, which come to the earth's atmosphere from interstellar space. It also supported the belief that these rays, the shortest known, are electrically charged particles.

The meeting will continue today. The sessions are presided over by W. F. G. Swann of the Bartol Research Foundation, president.

KILLED BY TRAIN

STEPHEN BIRO. JOSEPH BIRO.

Joseph Biro, 13 years old, and his 10 year old brother Stephen, of 2858 North Kildare avenue, were killed yesterday afternoon when they were struck by a Chicago and North Western passenger train at Belmont avenue. The boys, with a companion, Philip Tobie, 2946 North Ashland avenue, had climbed up on the right of way. They were walking south and apparently failed to hear the train, which was being backed to the station downtown. The rear coach struck both. Young Tobie escaped by leaping from the tracks.

JAPAN'S TACTICS DELAY LEAGUE'S ACTION ON ROW

Asks More Time for Further Instructions.

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Nov. 25.—Chairman Eamon de Valera guided the league of nations council through the barbed wire of procedure as erected by the Japanese to a point today where he was able to announce what has been obvious from the beginning—that the council can do nothing about the Manchurian conflict and that the league assembly must try its hand.

But De Valera still wants to be able to deliver the Lytton report on Manchuria to that body to deal with because he has encountered more barbed wire in the person of Yosuke Matsuoka, Japan's special representative. The Japanese delegate said that he had no further instructions and that he has to get them from Tokio.

"I cannot imagine the league failing to secure the consent of both parties in such an important matter," De Valera said, recalling Japan's reservation on the competence of the assembly to act on the Manchurian question.

At length De Valera set the hearing for next Monday.

The Lytton commission, which had hopes of disbanding today, will remain intact for the assembly meeting ten days from now.

De Valera, after suppressing a forlorn hope for a change of attitude, pronounced the warning that "it would be an intolerable defiance of public opinion if the league's peace machinery is in any way impeded."

Matsuoka today accused China of not fulfilling and being able to fulfill its obligations under the league covenant, the Kellogg pact and the nine power treaty. He again referred to the creation of the independent state of Manchukuo as a natural phenomenon, one that cannot now be altered, and again asked that "peace be based on realities, not merely on paper."

"I recommend the recognition of Manchukuo as the solution of the difficulty," he concluded.

Dr. Wellington Koo, China's representative, inquired if the league were here to deal with realities alone, "brushing peace and justice aside?"

Japan Rejects New Proposal.

TOKIO, Nov. 26 [Saturday].—(AP)—A foreign office spokesman said today that Japan would reject any proposal at Geneva to transfer the Manchurian question from the league of nations to a conference of signatories of the nine power treaty of 1922, on the ground that the treaty no longer applies to Manchukuo.

"Our Geneva reports indicate that certain quarters are preparing to introduce such a proposal at the coming league assembly," the spokesman said. "We will reject it just as we will reject all attempts to find a formula to permit powers other than Japan, China and Manchukuo to participate in negotiations concerning Manchukuo's status."

Japan Adopts Biggest Budget in History; Millions for War

TOKIO, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Over the protests of influential financial interests, the Japanese cabinet today approved a budget which, as a result of the extraordinary demands of the army and navy, chiefly in connection with Manchuria, is the largest in the history of Japan.

The total expenditure for the year beginning April 1, 1933, will be 2,239,000,000 yen [$447,800,000]. The budget involves a deficit of 897,000,000 yen [$179,400,000] for which bonds must be issued, as the minister of finance, Korekiyo Takahashi, refused to increase taxation.

Army Gets $89,000,000.

The army gets 448,000,000 yen [$89,000,000] in the new budget, and the navy 373,000,000 yen [$74,600,000]. In the last normal year, 1930-31, the army appropriation was 184,000,000 yen [$36,800,000] and the navy received 221,000,000 yen [$44,200,000]. The army and navy had asked for more than $100,000,000 each this year.

The combined army and navy appropriations include 185,000,000 yen [$37,000,000] to cover the expenses of another year's occupation of Manchuria and 237,000,000 yen [$47,400,000] for the "replenishment of arms." Much of the replenishment item will go to expansion of the air force.

The Japanese press has expressed alarm over the condition of the national finances. A typical commentator is the Osaka Asahi, which said: "It is a shocking condition when the combined military appropriations are 820,000,000 yen [$164,000,000] and the total proceeds of taxation only 692,000,000 [$138,400,000]."

Warns of Inflation.

Baron Seinosuke Goh, president of the Japan chamber of commerce, declared before the new budget was made public that the government policy of depending on bond issues was greatly increasing the national debt and was threatening currency inflation and a further decline in the yen, leading toward a condition similar to Germany's post-war collapse.

To this Gen. Sadao Araki, war minister, replied that economic questions should not receive primary consideration until conditions in Asia have been stabilized.

"The economic and financial foundations of Japan will not be weakened by a temporary outlay of one billion yen [$200,000,000] or more, which the army may require for an emergency," he said.

VON HINDENBURG TO PICK HIS OWN CABINET TODAY

Expect Von Papen to Win Chief Posts.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 25.—President Paul von Hindenburg will appoint a new chancellor tomorrow, according to an official communique issued tonight. The best informed circles expect the president to bestow the chief posts of the government on members of Franz von Papen's aristocratic and militaristic clique.

Von Hindenburg decided to form a presidential cabinet after the prelate, Dr. Ludwig Kaas, Catholic Centrist leader, had reported it was impossible for him to form a cabinet which would command a majority in the reichstag. Dr. Kaas, who had interviewed other party leaders at Von Hindenburg's request to try his hand at forming a government, declared that both Dr. Alfred Hugenberg, Nationalist leader, and Adolf Hitler, National Socialist chieftain, had refused to coöperate with him.

Interviews Nazi Leader.

Hitler, with whom the Centrist leader conferred for almost three hours, announced that he was ready to coöperate "in principle," but that "after weeks of experience I have failed to see the possibility of satisfactory progress since influential authorities will refuse to coöperate to the fullest of their ability."

Dr. Hugenberg, the "kaiser's henchman," who controls a small but crafty group of fifty members of the reichstag, refused to coöperate with a government which wants to work with parliament.

"The reign of the parliamentary system must be ended once and for all," he said.

Dr. Hugenberg favors another dictatorial government headed by Von Papen or a member of his group.

Hitler's request for the chancellorship was discarded yesterday by Von Hindenburg because the Nazi leader was unable to secure the reichstag's support.

Cry "We Want Bread."

Meanwhile hunger disorders broke out in Berlin today. In Potsdamerplatz, in front of THE TRIBUNE office, several hundred youths tried to organize a demonstration. They sang the Internationale and shouted, "We want bread." Within a minute police riot cars were on hand and a dozen demonstrators were arrested. Under the emergency decrees they face severe jail sentences.

Von Papen's "business cabinet," which is carrying on until a new one is formed, today defined the republic's stand on the question of settlement of international debts.

"No matter what consequences the former reparations creditors of Germany seek to draw from America's attitude in the war debts question, Germany was freed of reparations payments once and for all by the Lausanne agrement," said a communique in an attempt to soothe public opinion, which is alarmed by the French threat to reinstate reparations payments if France must pay her debt to the United States. "Germany's only interest in the matter is that recovery of world trade hinges on a final solution of the problem of interallied debts."

Capt. Hermann Goering, Nazi president of the old reichstag, today ordered the newly elected reichstag to meet on Dec. 6.

LOOP SEES ITS FIRST COW IN HALF CENTURY

Northwood Susan VI., prize winning milking shorthorn, made her bow in the loop yesterday, the first cow to be seen there for more than half a century. Before thousands of staring, giggling people she made a dignified promenade down a passageway in a loop building which is still reserved as a cowpath, even though Northwood Susan clearly didn't regard it as such.

Policemen cleared a path through waiting crowds in front of the 100 West Monroe street building before a wagon drawn by six champion horses was driven up to deposit Susan and her 3 weeks' old calf, Buttercup. It was not the way her predecessor had arrived at the path in 1833 when the owner, William Jones, had purchased the cowpath along with the rest of of a lot on the southwest corner of Clark and Monroe streets.

Susan's appearance was an invitation to city dwellers to attend the International Live Stock exposition, which opens today in the Union stockyards, and see for themselves how rural life has departed from the simple days of 1833.

This cowpath areaway, 10 feet wide, 177 feet long, and 18 feet high, over which the 100 West Monroe street building looms, having usurped the air rights over the strip, is valued at $177,000. Mr. Jones, who bought it back in 1833, began to sell strips of his original $200 lot in 1844. But in each case he reserved the right to continue to use the cowpath, allowing the purchaser to likewise use it for his own cow. As stores and other buildings began to grow in place of cowbarns on the lot, the cowpath rights were respected and the complicated deeding of the land necessitates that it be maintained.

Three Youths Confess to South Side Holdup

Three boys, one out on federal probation, were arrested as confessed bandits by Hyde Park police last night. They are James Speros, 17 years old, of 514 East 61st street, who was put on two years' probation for violation of the Dyer act some time ago; John Scheele, 18 years old, of 6502 Greenwood avenue, and Thomas Foster, 18 years old, of 6232 Greenwood avenue. Policeman Joseph McCabe and James Battles arrested Speros and Scheele after they found them armed. Later they seized Foster at his home. All three confessed a number of south side holdups, the police said.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 25.—Señora Lednor Llorente de Calles, wife of Gen. Plutarco Elias Calles, former president of Mexico, died at 2 p. m today. She was 30 years old and the general's second wife and the mother of two small children.

Señora Calles' last public appearance was made last January when, with Gen. Calles and the then president of Mexico, Ortiz Rubio, she went for a holiday at Cuyutlan, a seaside village in Colima province. She was stricken with a brain tumor last spring and was rushed to Boston in June for an operation in an attempt to save her life.

She had been critically ill at Calles' home in Colonia Anzures ever since her return from Boston. The funeral will be held tomorrow.

CHICAGO "G. O. P. CAPTAIN" IS HELD AS BANK ROBBER

Peter Baum, alias Jake Stein, who told Minneapolis authorities that he was a Chicago politician, was held there yesterday as the man who robbed a bank in Lublin, Wis., of $900 on Tuesday. Police said that a letter found on him bore the signature of Senator James Hamilton Lewis addressed to Lawrence Richey, secretary to President Hoover, requesting that the bearer be shown through the White House. Baum asserted he was a Republican precinct captain.

Baum gave his address as 4748 North Springfield avenue. Records here at the detective bureau show that a Peter Baum, 32 years old, of the same address was released on probation last June by Judge Leon Edelman on a charge of carrying concealed weapons.

Minneapolis police said they would hold him for possible identification by other bank robbery victims in Minnesota and Wisconsin. Baum denied any connection with the Lublin bank robbery, although officials of that town said they would seek his return to Wisconsin.

GOV. ROOSEVELT STUDIES RUSSIA AT DIXIE HOME

Spins Yarns When Rain Keeps Him In.

JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Picture on back page.)

Warm Springs, Ga., Nov. 25.—[Special.]—When it rains down here in Georgia the heavens just open up generously and keep on pouring indefinitely, and after thirty-six hours of this President Elect Roosevelt this afternoon called in the newspaper correspondents who followed him down here and told them stories.

"Well," he said cheerily, as he sat in the "little White House," before a snapping log fire, with the rain drops battering heavily on the roof above, "it's a nice sunshiny day."

This went over without any responding cheers, nor was there more enthusiasm when the governor remarked he had been at Warm Springs sometimes when it rained for two weeks straight.

Visitor Sizes It Up.

"One of our visitors at that time put the situation rather neatly," the governor said. "He said, as the rain persisted into the fourteenth day, that 'there is no place to go but out, and no place to stay but in.'"

The President elect has been most of the time in his white colonial pillared cottage on the rim of Pine mountain, but this morning he did go for two hours of exercise to the swimming pool at Warm Springs. He swam vigorously in the warm energizing water.

Returning to the "little White House" the governor returned to his attack upon great piles of correspondence and papers. Among his recent reading has been included a large sheaf of material on the questions surrounding the problem of whether soviet Russia shall be recognized by the United States.

Open Minded on Subject.

It was learned that Mr. Roosevelt is open minded on the subject; that although he has conferred with some industrial and political leaders on the question, as well as with some Russians and a leading newspaper correspondent stationed in Moscow, he has as yet not arrived at a decision as to what shall be done.

Until the governor has access to the great masses of material assembled by the state department which will be available to him, of course, when he assumes the presidency on March 4, he will maintain a judicial mind on the proposition, it was made plain. It was learned that several industrial leaders have visited the governor urging recognition of Russia as a Roosevelt policy.

It was also learned that one visitor promoting the American recognition of Russia had come posing as an American industrialist and was later discovered to have been an active agent of the soviet government.

Grangers to Call Today.

Tomorrow the governor will receive a delegation from the executive committee of the National Grange, the delegation being headed by Fred J. Freestone of New York, and will listen to a farm program sponsored by the grange.

Beginning next week the governor will be receiving visitors every day, most of them congressmen who will confer with him concerning the Democratic policy in the coming short session of congress. One group will include members of the house agricul-ture committee to discuss farm aid plans.

Asked concerning the manner in which his stand on the war debts was received, Gov. Roosevelt said he had received no direct reports, and that he hasn't been able to get morning papers from metropolitan cities to make any observations.

Must Have Appointment.

Visitors to the "little White House" must first pass inspection at a small traffic tower installed at the gate to the governor's grounds. A secret service agent stands inside the tower, inquiring from all comers the nature of their business, and none without an appointment is admitted.

Mrs. Roosevelt and her daughter, Mrs. Anna Roosevelt Dall, are taking full advantage of their holiday, despite the rain. They were half drenched this morning when they went horseback riding with Marvin H. McIntyre, the governor's press representative. Later they joined the governor in his swim.

VIRGIN ISLANDS DEFEND COST TO U. S. OF $400,000

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 25.—[Special.]—The federal government's annual expenditure of $400,000 for support of the Virgin Islands was defended today by Gov. Paul M. Pearson with the assertion that the United States is obliged to maintain the islands because ownership of the United States deprived them of "revenues and advantages which they formerly had."

In his annual report to Secretary of the Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur, made public today, Gov. Pearson listed several sources of revenue in the islands which were lost when the United States assumed sovereignty through purchase from Denmark. He minimized, however, the importance of the revenue lost to the islands when the 18th amendment prohibited the manufacture and sale of the famous Crucian rum made on the island of St. Croix.

In recent years, said the governor, exports of Crucian rum had diminished until in the years preceding prohibition it formed only 5 per cent of the total exports of the islands. Since prohibition, he said, bay rum and commercial alcohol have supplanted Crucian rum in the islands' exports.

The liquor laws of the United States, said the governor, have deprived the harbor of St. Thomas of considerable revenues, due to the fact that foreign cargoes containing liquor, destined for other Caribbean countries, are now trans-shipped at other ports because they cannot be unloaded in dry United States territory.

The islands' most serious social problem, according to Gov. Pearson, is that of "the young women from 15 to 20 years of age who are pushed out of the one room houses in which they were born and who have no place to go and no way in which to make a living."

"The result is that many of them go to live with men for a time," he said. "A large number of children are born of such arrangements and a considerable percentage of the young women and the children become charges on the municipality."

Mob of Hungry Mexicans Raids Japanese Food Shop

JUAREZ, Mexico, Nov. 25. — (AP) — Shouting "We are starving," "Down with foreigners," and "Feed the Mexicans first," forty persons today marched to the grocery store of J. S. Matsumato, Japanese merchant, and attempted to take food from its shelves. Police dispersed them without making an arrest.

TODAY IS THE DAY. Be sure to bring the children downtown this morning at 10 o'clock to see "The Parade of the Toys." Presented by the leading State street merchants this colorful parade features a fascinating pageant of Bands, Floats, Chimes, Clowns, Animals, and Santa himself on his throne. State street, Wacker to Congress, promptly at 10 this morning.

BOOKS

Fourth Volume of 'Our Times' Tells of 1909-'14

Mark Sullivan Continues Story of America.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Our Times, the War Begins, 1909-1914," by Mark Sullivan. [Scribners.]

WHEN Hendrik Willem Van Loon was here a few weeks ago he told me about the next book which he plans to do, a history of the world written from the point of view of the common men who tilled their fields or ground their lenses or watched their flocks while history was being made within eyesight and earsound, the record of man's rhythmic every day life through the centuries. There is something so much closer to us in the history of everyday life than in the record of the great events which it takes the perspective of time to sort in their relative greatness. The history of every day life is the intimate plain from which the grander, more spectacular peaks of great events rise with the passage of time.

MARK SULLIVAN.

In the three previous volumes of "Our Times" Mark Sullivan has gorgeously shown us America from 1900 to 1909 not as it appears even in 1932, but as it appeared to men and women living those nine years. In this volume the intimacy of that picture is made more obvious by the contrast of the first chapter which describes the calmness of the country—Rocky mountains to Pacific coast, mid-America and the eastern borders asleep while a shot was fired in Sarajevo, a shot which was destined to change the life and thought of the civilized world.

"In the American newspapers of June 28, 1914, and the day following," says Mr. Sullivan, "there was no suggestion of the 'thunder on the left' that was Rome's warning of impending storm, no hint that the day was to be one of the half dozen epochal dates in civilization, dividing modern history into pre-war and after."

It is common enough to read history studded with epochal dates and emblazoned with their influences, but it is rare to be actively thrown into the current of the everyday life which was so much less the cause of those dates than the result. With such a startling beginning, Mr. Sullivan reviews the calm and peace of the days before the war. [Incidentally, it seems a great shock that no American newspaper should have commented on the international possibilities of that shot, for only a week or so ago I read in Marshal Joffre's memoirs the complete plans for the war with Germany—including the knowledge that Germany would violate the neutrality of Belgium, or that France would have to—and those plans were on paper in 1911 and discussed internationally.]

Every detail of the everyday life of America is set down in "Our Times," the dances, the art, the music, the books—of which Mr. Sullivan says, "Hardly any book written by an American author during the period was rated, twenty years later, a permanent or indispensable addition to literature"—the clothes, the slang. By the way, a mistake in this printing will label yours as a first edition if, on page three, the "Nude Descending the Stairs" is credited to Picasso. The painting was the work of Marcel Duchamp and was called "Nude Descending the Staircase." Since my untrained eye caught the error I am sure that many experts will have already called Mr. Sullivan's attention to the slipup, and the correction will be made immediately.

Mr. Sullivan graphically, with word and illustration, describes all of the influences of the day, personal, social, industrial and intellectual, personified in such names as Henry Ford, Andrew Carnegie, Mrs. Pankhurst and her daughter, Christabel; Bernard Shaw [whom he doesn't think much of—for a whole chapter—except as an iconoclast of conventions], Frederick W. Taylor, the father of scientific management.

The author keeps a godlike aloofness from his facts until he writes of the Roosevelt-Taft friendship and enmity. Then he writes analytically and does it so brilliantly that that part of "Our Times" probably will take its place in the vast literature of Roosevelt as the ultimate statement of the relationship between the two men. If for nothing else, the average reader will want to own this volume.

For any one really wanting to know his land, for the writer, the artist, any one interested in portraying accurately the United States, "Our Times" is a gift of the gods, for Mr. Sullivan has, besides writing a fascinating book, literally provided the world with a reference book of every possible detail of the surface life and thought of the period. I wouldn't miss owning "Our Times" any more than I would do without a dictionary.

Two quaint books which are records of the intimate life of periods more remote than 1909-'14, but which contain material which seems no less comically old fashioned than some of the things in "Our Times," are "The American Keepsake," by Russell Crouse [Doubleday Doran], and "A Passing America," by Cornelius Weygandt. Mr. Crouse has amusingly gathered together bits from the literary gems of another day, "keepsakes, mementos, garlands," the "fireside companions," and "manuals of etiquette" and put them all under one attractive and alluring cover.

Mr. Weygandt writes of material things, brandied peaches, coach dogs, buckwheat, all sorts of charms of the days before "Modern Conveniences." They will make Mr. Sullivan's quaintnesses even more attractive by comparison.

Two Scholars Offer Another Biography of Mary Baker Eddy

Ernest Sutherland Bates and John V. Dittemore, scholars and men of letters, have written what is said to be the definitive biography of that enigmatic woman, "Mary Baker Eddy" [Knopf]. They have used hitherto unpublished material, thousands of her letters never examined before, her private diary and notebooks and the personal reminiscences of numerous friends. From these sources they trace the building up of the tradition and then point the way toward interpretation of her personality. Mr. Dittemore was for ten years a director of the mother church in Boston and a trustee of Mrs. Eddy's estate.

Evelyn Waugh Scores Again in New Novel

Critic Praises Confidence in Young Britisher.

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON.—[Special Correspondence.]—The outstanding success in London among novels published since Brett Young's "House Under the Water" [which continues to hold its own and which is probably the novel of the autumn season] is Evelyn Waugh's very different "Black Mischief." It is admitted upon every hand that Mr. Waugh is in reality one of the half dozen men of his generation; and considering that he has had the disadvantage of following into public notice a brother who has extraordinarily combined the infant prodigy with the mature and conscientious artist this is a remarkable feat.

EVELYN WAUGH.

Evelyn Waugh is not yet thirty. Each book he writes is better than its predecessor. His brilliance and impatience do not diminish; but his knowledge and certainty increase. He not only commands a wide public but enjoys also the respect of the highly exacting. If I were gambling in literary futures I should back Mr. Waugh as one of the few certainties, for I am sure that he is even yet only at the beginning of his career.

Two books which, although they are unlikely to find readers in numbers to equal either "Black Mischief" or "The House Under the Water," have received exceptional praise are Edward Thompson's noble and poetic "Lament for Adonis" and H. E. Bates' "The Fallow Land." Mr. Thompson is already widely known for his novels about the east ["These Men Thy Friends," published five years ago, is the best of them] as well as for work of a scholarly nature; and Mr. Bates, who attracted notice with a short novel, "The Two Sisters," has a number of cordial admirers. Mr. Bates specializes in rural scenes, and his new novel is more ambitious than anything he has previously written.

Nor must Harold Nicolson's political satire, "Public Faces," be forgotten. This book has just begun to make its mark, and it is appealing to all who are alert in their observation of political types and the general imbecility of mankind.

The imbecility of mankind is still a favorite subject with British writers, and Americans who wish to know how extraordinary the English are [in their extravagant foolishness] should not fail to read a most amusing book entitled "Just the Other Day," by John Collier and Iain Lang.

This is a companion book to Frederick Lewis Allen's similar study of American life called "Only Yesterday." "Just the Other Day" is not as calmly impartial as Mr. Allen's book, and it is not as clear; but it has a brilliance of its own, and [it is this moment published in London] it will probably cause a sensation. As an unsparing analysis of the most notable and most freakish features of English life since the war it would be hard to beat. It may be said to impale every absurdity.

But it is also serious, and some of its pictures of conditions and episodes are extraordinarily fine and true. Its purpose throughout is high, and if it is more scornful than "Only Yesterday" that is because the authors have an uncontrollable tendency towards satire, and the effect is very lively.

Lieutenant of Marines Writes Experience in Santo Domingo Rule

"Land of Checkerboard Families," by Arthur J. Burks [Coward McCann] is a ripsnorting tropical thriller of true adventure in Santo Domingo during its occupancy by United States marines. It's not, as one might guess from the title, a book of games or quiet home episodes.

Burks, a 200 pound, six foot second lieutenant of Leathernecks, was head of the United States intelligence department on the island until the excitement of capturing native murderers, gun runners, and criminal politicians wrecked his health and forced his retirement to a quieter life.

His Santo Domingo experiences are as wild and sinister as ever fell into the lap of a fiction secret service Sam. But this is real stuff; a smashing autobiography of adventure, well told; swiftly moving tales, some horrible, a few gruesome, many of them shivery, but all packed with the thrills that come from constant narrow escapes from a quick demise.

CENTENARY OF LOUISA ALCOTT

A hundred years ago next Tuesday Louisa May Alcott was born. Today her name is known to every child who, like Jo in "Little Women," wants "to buy 'Undine' and 'Sintram' for myself, I've wanted it so long," wants to own the books they love. Perhaps it was because Louisa May herself—the Jo of the Little Women series—loved books and yearned so for them that she was able to write books which have kept her name glowing in the world's memory. Why not celebrate the centenary of the best loved writer of juveniles by making some child happy with some book that he or she has "wanted so long?" That's constructive centenary celebrating!—F. P.

French Poet Is Editor of New Review

Eugene Jolas Publishes in Four Languages.

In Europe the "reviewlet" is a commoner phenomenon than in America and frequently of a genuine significance. Its modest cost of production makes the confinement of its columns to the ideas of an individual or a small group of sympathetically minded individuals feasible. To maintain it compromise of position or catholicity of outlook is not necessary.

It is put before the public because its proponents feel they have something to say which should be heard and because they feel that an organ of this sort is the only channel through which they will be able to express themselves with complete freedom. Such is evidently the nature of the latest arrival from Paris—a small four page news format publication containing contributions in four languages, entitled Vertigral.

In the names of its editor—Eugene Jolas, and two members of its editorial board, Hans Arp and Vincent Huidobro—we have a hint of its general direction and interests. Hans Arp was with Hugo Ball, Huelsenback, and Tzara in 1916, one of the founders of Dada in Zurich. After the demise of Dada super-realism in its turn claimed Arp.

Eugene Jolas is well known in America as a poet. Also as the editor of Transition which, besides publishing the work of the important younger American writers of the last decade and offering the world James Joyce's "Work in Progress," has done more than any other review toward introducing the literary experiments of the younger Europeans to the English speaking public.

From the creative work which constitutes at least seven-eighths of the first number of Vertigral, it is evident that the editors have found a common strain flowing through all the important experiments of the last two decades from those of Apollinaire before the war, through Dada, through Joyce, through Stein, through Switters and Merzism, into super-realism.

In Vertigral this common element inherited from the former movements has taken a new bent. The emphasis which is laid in the current number on the final mystical phase of Hugo Ball's work gives an indication of it. Also Leon-Paul Fargue's line.

"On a été trop horizontal. J'ai envie d'être vertical." [One has been too horizontal. I wish to be vertical.] The title of the paper itself in its rather Joycean compost of "vertical-integral" with a stress on the final syllable calling up the associations of the German "Gral," suggests clearly enough an interest in "the hegemony of the inner life over the outer life." In Jolas' words: "There are still miracles and mysteries, if only in our minds. For the expression of this we need new laws—or perhaps no laws at all." Finally there is his blunt statement, "Perhaps we are looking for a God."

Vertigral primarily seeks "the wedding of reality with the automatic expressions of the subconscious, the intuitive—the dream." And the creative work in the present number is markedly of this character.

Whether in English, Spanish, French or German, the offerings are all provocative and on a high plane of sincerity. J. S.

And These Are The People Who Live in the World We Live In

IT SOUNDS incredible, but nevertheless it is true. If everybody in this world of ours were six feet tall and a foot and a half wide and a foot thick (and that is making people a little bigger than they usually are), then the whole of the human race (and according to the latest available statistics there are now nearly 2,000,000,000 descendants of the original Homo Sapiens and his wife) could be packed into a box measuring half a mile in each direction . . . .

If we transported that box to the Grand Canyon of Arizona and balanced it neatly on the low stone wall that keeps people from breaking their necks when stunned by the incredible beauty of that silent witness of the forces of Eternity, and then called little Noodle, the dachshund, and told him (the tiny beast is very intelligent and loves to oblige) to give the unwieldly construction a slight push with his soft brown nose, there would be a moment of crunching and ripping as the wooden planks loosened stones and shrubs and trees on their downward path, and then a low and even softer bumpity-bumpity-bump and a sudden splash when the outer edges struck the banks of the Colorado River.

Then silence and oblivion! . . . The Canyon would go on batdling wind and air and sun and rain as it has done since it was created. . . . A century from now, a little mound, densely covered with vegetable matter, would perhaps indicate where humanity lay buried. And that would be all.

SO Van Loon opens his epic story of Mother Earth—a book that will make an Olympian of its every reader, old and young.

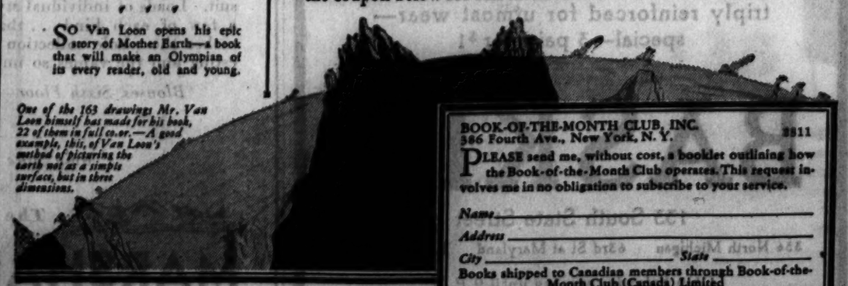
—to those who join the Book-of-the-Month Club at this time . . . it costs nothing to belong and you do not have to take a book every month

(Send the coupon below for full information)

ARE you aware that as a member you are not obliged to take a book every month; nor are you ever obliged to take the specific book-of-the-month chosen by the judges. You may buy it or not, as you please, after reading the judges' pre-publication report about it. Nor do you have to pay any fixed sum to be a member of the Club. You simply pay the regular retail price for such books as you decide to buy. What then is the advantage of joining?

There are many: first, book-dividends; for every dollar its members spend on books they receive back on the average over 50% in the form of free books. Second, without a penny of expense, you are kept completely informed about all the important new books, so that you can choose among them with discrimination, instead of having to rely upon advertising and hearsay. Third, the system really ensures that you will not miss the particular new books you are anxious to read, which now happens so frequently. There are several other advantages not readily measurable in money, that cannot be outlined here for lack of space.

Surely, within the next year, the distinguished judges of the Club will choose as the book-of-the-month or recommend as alternates, at least a few books that you will be very anxious not to miss and which you will buy anyway. Why not—by joining the Club—make sure you get these instead of missing them, get the really substantial advantages the Club affords (such as the book-dividends mentioned, if nothing else), and at the same time get a copy of VAN LOON'S GEOGRAPHY, free. Send the coupon below for full information.



One of the 163 drawings Mr. Van Loon himself has made for his book, 22 of them in full color.—A good example, this, of Van Loon's method of picturing the earth not as a simple surface, but in three dimensions.

Unquestionably the Great Political Book of the Year
BEVERIDGE AND THE PROGRESSIVE ERA
By Claude G. Bowers

NEWTON D. BAKER: "Fine as is all of the earlier work of Mr. Bower's, this seems to me to be the best he has done. I know no book upon on our own times which I am more eager to recommend for general reading."

THE NEW REPUBLIC, John Chamberlin: "Claude G. Bowers has carried through an extraordinarily important job with full-throated vigor and comprehensiveness. It takes us, for the first time, behind the scenes of the birth, rise and death agonies of the Progressive party."

THE N. Y. TIMES, John H. Finley: "It is difficult for me to write dispassionately of this enthralling book, about one whose spoken word is still remembered by millions and whose written words will be read by millions still unborn."

INDIANAPOLIS STAR, Meredith Nicholson: "No more fascinating biography has been written of any American. We have here not only a vivid portrait but a vigorous, remarkably interesting story of an important period in American history."

CARS RECOVERED EXCEED THEFTS FOR SECOND DAY

Police Give Autoists Advice on Protection.

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.
[From police records for 24 hours ended at midnight Thursday.]
Automobiles stolen, 87; recovered, 86; recovered stripped, 18.
Defendants sentenced to Bridewell Thursday, 1; held to grand jury, 9.

For two successive days the stolen auto detail of the detective bureau reported yesterday more stolen machines were recovered in Chicago than the number taken. Chief of Detectives Schoemaker was informed of this unusual circumstance by Lieut. Maurice Wall of the auto detail. On Thursday 87 machines were stolen and 86 recovered, while on Wednesday 80 were stolen and 96 recovered.

Lieut. Wall appealed to motorists yesterday to use more care in protecting their cars against thieves and "strippers" when they park. An astonishing number of drivers leave their machines unlocked and with the motors running while performing errands, he said, and have only themselves to blame if thieves take advantage of those opportunities.

Keys Easy to Obtain.

The lieutenant also discussed the ways and means by which these robbers ply their trade. A thoroughly locked machine presents no great problem to a clever auto thief, he said, because the thief can equip himself with a full set of duplicate keys which will unlock the doors and ignition of all standard autos, and still remain within the law.

Several key shops, members of the detail reported, sell sets of 68 keys "guaranteed to unlock any standard make of car" for $15 per set.

"Jumper" Starts Motor.

There is also a gadget known as a "jumper" which is indispensable to the auto thief. This is a contrivance which, linked to the ignition and spark plugs, will start a car motor. If the doors are still locked the window on the driver's side can be sacrificed to enable one of the gang to drive to the stripping place, where all movable parts and accessories are removed and sold to junk men and second hand dealers.

It was pointed out that by breaking the glass on the driver's side of the front seat and rolling down the ruined window the thief can drive the machine without attracting attention.

Locate Stripping Center.

The police believe most of the stripping garages are in the Maxwell street and Marquette police districts, on the near southwest side, which are the haunts of the "42" gang. These young hoodlums are believed to utilize many old barns and garages while they remove desirable parts from stolen cars.

When they are through this work, the common practice is to push the car a block or two down an alley and leave it, perhaps after removing the wheels for good measure.

Several times each week the police teletype records that two or three men have been surprised pushing a stolen car down an alley, and instructs police to watch for them. They are not often caught.

Lieut. Wall believes that out of town gangs operate to some extent in Chicago, stealing machines and driving them to cities several hundred miles away, where their accessories are replaced by others of a different type. The machine is then given a new coat of paint and the motor number altered before the machine is resold as a second hand car. It was pointed out that changing the motor number is not a hard task. A skilled mechanic with a file could transform the number "6" into "0" within a few minutes, it was said.

ROB BUTCHER SHOP OF $2,310.
Three bandits took $2,310 from the butcher shop of Edward Steinthal at 840 East 63d street yesterday after forcing three butchers to kneel while Steinthal opened the store safe.

Freed from Prison

CHARLES S. ROSENBERG.
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Charles Simon Rosenberg, leader of the gang which raided the Downers Grove mansion of Arthur Cutten on March 27, 1922, and left Mrs. Cutten and the family servants bound in a basement vault, where they narrowly escaped suffocation, was paroled on Wednesday from the Joliet penitentiary, it was learned yesterday.

Rosenberg was not captured until 1930, after an eight year search, in which Mr. Cutten spent thousands of dollars. He had fled from Chicago, married and had two children and held responsible positions in Detroit and Cleveland before he was arrested in the latter city. He pleaded guilty before Judge William J. Fulton at Wheaton on April 30, 1930, and was sentenced to serve from one year to life for robbery.

Mr. Cutten said yesterday that he had favored the parole of Rosenberg, believing that the prisoner intended to "go straight" because of his wife and children.

Peter Cuda, another member of the robbery gang, who was sent to prison shortly after the crime was committed ten years ago, was also released yesterday.

12 SENTENCED IN FAKE TAXICAB ACCIDENT PLOT

CRIMINAL COURT.
Lavina Lawliss, murder, sentenced to 14 years in the penitentiary; Luther Hines, robbery under the habitual criminal act, sentenced to life imprisonment in the penitentiary; Warren Johnson, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Michael Feinberg.

The two ringleaders in a conspiracy to defraud the Checker Taxicab company by means of fake accidents were sentenced to indeterminate terms of 1 to 5 years each in the penitentiary yesterday by Judge Michael Feinberg in the Criminal court. Ten other defendants, one of them a woman, were given minor fines and sentences for their participation in the conspiracy.

Frank Weintraub, South Haven, Mich., dealer in second mortgages, and Russell Heffner, former accident claim adjuster, were given the penitentiary sentences. Louis H. Blumenthal, Joseph A. Bagley and Harry Holtzman, former taxicab chauffeurs, were sentenced to 5 days each in the county jail; Sam Yuster, a "victim," was sentenced to six months in the Bridewell; Julius Rozenzweig, 62 years old, and August Frank, both "victims," 30 days in jail.

Mrs. Lillian Frank, wife of August, was fined $1 because she has a nursing baby. A. Phillips, who said he was a witness to an "accident," was fined $100. Schuler Fisher and Emil Murmal, who took minor parts in the plot, were given 10 day jail sentences.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

EXIT SMALL AND COMPANY.

The final canvass of the recent vote in Chicago finds that whereas Franklin Roosevelt ran 264,147 votes ahead of President Hoover, Judge Horner ran 399,991 votes ahead of Len Small.

The significance of these figures it is to be hoped will not be lost on Republican leaders in Illinois, if any. The Democratic landslide accounts for the Roosevelt vote, but not for the 135,844 votes in Chicago alone beyond Roosevelt's majority over Hoover. That was a special additional landslide against the head of the Republican state ticket. Len Small undoubtedly cost Hoover thousands of votes into the bargain. Independent voters and disgusted Republicans were fed up with what Small represented and threatened to bring into the government of Illinois. They were in a mood to make a clean sweep and they made it straight.

Illinois Republicanism is through with Small, Thompson, and their like, or Illinois is through with Republicanism. Small and Thompson, elected and reelected to the highest offices in state and city, demonstrated to the limit the possibilities of unscrupulous politics and public administration. For years they prepared the conditions which, culminating in this depression, are crippling or paralyzing the functions of government, breaking the back of private enterprise, emptying homes and crushing the citizens under taxation.

The placing of Small at the head of the Republican ticket was a revelation of insolence and disregard of the public weal which Illinois Republicanism will suffer from for a long time. It is true that Small was nominated by direct vote of Republican voters, but he could not have won the nomination without the deliberate support of Republican bosses and the futility of the Republican opposition. The promise of unconscionable spoils rallied to his mud spattered banner enough organization strength to scatter an opposition too small minded and neglectful of the party's honor or the public welfare to sink petty rivalries and unite against him.

The party as an organization cannot escape responsibility for this. Its leadership failed utterly. It must be replaced by men who represent decent standards of politics and government and can be relied upon to be faithful to them. What has passed for leadership has proved its incompetence and lack of public conscience, and a new leadership must be found before the Republican party is entitled again to offer itself to the people as a possible agency of government. Small is buried under a landslide of public condemnation. His allies should be buried with him, and also the petty bosses who, while they could not stomach his rank record, would not waive their little jealousies, rancors, and ambitions for the honor of their party and the defense of the public welfare.

PASSING MARCHERS ALONG.

Milwaukee citizens whose cars are idle because they have paid their taxes and are unable to buy gasoline in addition must be edified at the sight of municipal tank trucks supplying jolly parties of foreign drivers with gasoline and oil to proceed to Washington to demand alms of the national treasury.

The Wisconsin metropolis has just been generously hospitable to a delegation of several hundred from Minnesota and upper Michigan who visited there while on their way to become nuisances at Washington. Ald. William H. Tesch engineered an appropriation of $200 to supply them with meals, lodging, and gasoline, and a good time was had by all.

The visitors left loud in their praises of the city's open handed treatment, many of them promising to return. It is a promise they are all too sure to keep. Better than that, the good word will be passed among the comrades. Three meals, a night's warm lodging, a tank full of gas, and a car filled with oil is plenty of inducement these days to start almost any one headed toward Milwaukee.

The guests described themselves as hunger marchers, although they were neither hungry nor marchers. They rode in automobiles which were not by any means dilapidated nor decrepit, and their appearances and attitudes were of joy riders rather than desperate seekers for their common needs.

While Milwaukee probably was actuated more by a wish to pass its company along than any altruistic desire to entertain them, the aldermen have added nothing to a solution of a serious problem. Officials at Washington have made it known there will be no gracious reception there for organized groups concentrating to threaten the well-being of the capital.

If Ald. Tesch had made the city's hospitality contingent on the invaders returning where they came from he would have served them as well as the taxpayers of the community better than he did. If free gasoline is a Milwaukee slogan there are plenty of more deserving owners of unused automobiles to receive it.

RESTRAINT OF DEFECTIVES.

Before the crime of the youth Varecha is forgotten measures should be formulated and presented to the legislature to provide for the effective restraint of defective delinquents before they have committed murder, attempt at murder, rape, attempt at rape, highway robbery or arson when they may be sent to Chester. An individual who may be known to be defective and likely to commit such crimes may be sent to the Dixon State hospital, as Varecha was, or to Lincoln or St. Charles or the Parental Detention home. But none of these institutions possesses proper facilities to prevent escape. Their inmates are always escaping. Since Dixon hospital was established in 1918 nearly 250 have escaped, a third or more of them repeatedly. The other institutions have the same problem. In New York and Massachusetts they have special institutions for the defective delinquent, with walled inclosures, which are essential to prevent escape, to say nothing of the need of segregation and special treatment. Our conditions in Illinois are preposterous and should be corrected without more delay. They are a constant threat to the public. They are a heavy drain upon the public funds. They are breeding criminals of the worst type and poisoning the blood stream of the state.

Psychiatrists, judges and officials know these conditions and could make sound recommendations for correction. They should get together and formulate conservative measures which all can agree upon and which the press and civic organizations can unhesitatingly support. They must avoid controversial proposals and the fallacious sentimentalism of a minority of professional humanitarians. Within a frame of common agreement they can win public support for a practicable program of immediate reform. They must avoid recommendations which call for new expenditures. Dr. Hoffman, director of the behavior clinic of the Cook county Criminal court, suggests, for example, that by collecting defective delinquents in one of the existing institutions and spending only the cost of an inclosing wall the escape evil can be substantially diminished. Segregation of the sexes could also be provided for without extra expense, and both measures would be in fact a great saving in money alone. Another sound suggestion of Dr. Hoffman's is the appointment of a competent psychiatrist to the parole board. Even if this involved an extra salary, though it need not, it would be a saving to the state in the prevention of premature releases.

Certain changes in the laws are undoubtedly called for, but they need not involve controversial questions. Eventually we must face a thorough scientific reformation of present methods, but meanwhile we can improve the present intolerable, dangerous, and wasteful conditions by conservative corrections which need no argument with normal people. Governor Elect Horner may be depended upon to support sensible and attainable improvements.

The foregoing does not involve any assumptions in regard to the disposal of Varecha.

Editorial of the Day

OUR HISTORIC LESSON.

[Olney, Ill., Times.]

There is a historic meaning in the recent making of the country safe for democracy. America had become so commercialized, so devoted to the acquisition of property, to the exchange of liberties for gold, and so dominated by big business that for the first time in the history of the world in this or any other country it was decided in 1928 to try "the noble experiment" of placing an industrial engineer in full charge of national affairs and social objectives. It was thought that the motives and methods of private business could be introduced into national purposes. It had never been tried anywhere before. No other President—Jefferson, Lincoln, or Wilson—had been a captain of industry. We knew that every day common business practices would be corruption if carried into politics. We soon found that the business training which qualifies an industrial leader does not bring with it the emotions, vision, and understanding of the purposes of mobilizing industry which make a great social leader of a great and liberty loving people. Big business is not the objective of national life. Government is not operated upon the same principles and for like purposes as steel mills, banks, and stock brokerage concerns, or for their benefit. There is nothing in the training of a business engineer which educates him for the leadership of a great society. He is trained in a different way to work for "the insiders" and against "the idiots on the outside." The Times advances the thought that never again will the American people knowingly select a President whose entire private life and study has been devoted solely to the promotion of corporate interests and the making of money in and for big business. Business experience is helpful, but it must be the experience of a socially minded man who in private affairs has experienced other visions and ideals. A business man might be found who would make a good President in spite of an experience in big business, but not on account of it. There is where the mistake was made—namely: the thought that because of experience in big business Mr. Hoover was qualified as the social leader in our national life. We have learned a severe but historic lesson.

Rockefeller, Morgan, Insull, or Ford may be master minds in industry, but who would be so foolish as to think that any one of them would be fit for President? Nearly twenty-five hundred years ago Plato, the world's outstanding philosopher on civil government, in planning his ideal republic warned his pupils that "Ruin follows when the trader rules."

The President has become the originator and dictator of legislation and of all governmental policies. The most important change evidenced in this campaign is the manifest fact that the President is slowly but surely becoming an "absolute and uncontrolled" sovereign, and as such is being held responsible for all that transpires.

The Times takes no position in respect to this change. We simply note it as one of the historical incidents manifested in this campaign. By our scheme of government no real sovereignty was originally vested anywhere. It would be better if sovereignty had been definitely fixed in congress, as the English placed it in parliament. The President has been forced to assume responsibility because of the unworkable mass and number of the congressional body. If congress were reduced to about ten per cent of its present proportions and the senate organized upon a fair and equal representative basis, the supreme control of the government would soon gravitate back to where it belongs. In the meantime we are governed by a new kind of common law dictatorship. During the last four years there were a few senators of independent minds who functioned in their sovereign capacity and refused to take orders from the President. Such products of western soil as Borah, Norris, Brookhart, La Follette, Cutting, and Johnson refused to think whatever the President commanded them to think. They were the farmers' friends. And because they were self-assertive and would not mind the President with childlike simplicity they were read out of the party and subjected to all manner of abuse and opprobrious epithets. They were considered as low in the scale of humanity as a Democrat, and were called the "wild jackasses of the west." The President regarded his mandate as if it were a law unto itself. The election of a new President is a real change in sovereignty.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

GEORGE BERNARD SHAW in a public speech before the Fabian society in London said he had been making public speeches for forty-eight years and had not produced the slightest effect. After which he spoke on for half an hour over his allotted time. How nice if all our American public speakers would only reach the same conclusion as George and realize how futile their remarks are. But even if they did, like George, they would keep right on talking for a half hour or more past time for them to desist. But let us be charitable; public speaking is probably a disease and the public speakers have to keep right on making public speeches no matter what happens.

THAT SAGE AND AUGUST tribunal, the National Council of Teachers in English, in national convention at Memphis, after debating whether textbooks and dictionaries should be revised to conform to colloquial usage or the language of the people reformed to agree with the textbooks and dictionaries, finally approved of "it is me" and "had rather" as being so well dug in they could stay in. Which will be an awful blow to the Dictionary Is Sacred society and fill the noble souls of the Heavy Fines or Life Imprisonment for Those Who Split an Infinitive association with horror and dismay.

DAS DRAMA VOM GETRAINTEN SEAL.

Es war mal mit a Circus
A shwellgetrainter Seal
Wo auf der Zither spielen konnt'
Und yodeln, mit Gefühl.
Sei Act war shust a Riot
Und macht ihm plenty Coin.
Er hat (sei Notiss sagt) die Folks
Gepanickt in Des Moines.

But owing zur Depression
Da ging der Circus futsch,
Und ach, der shwellgetrainteh Seal
War suddenly in Dutch.
Es war kei Job zu haben;
Sei Savings rannten aus,
Und so—was soll er besser tun?—
Er driftete nach Haus.

Daheim hat er a Woch' lang
Sei Friends geentertaint.
"A Genius!" yoolotscheisten sie.
But 's hat ihn sehr gepaint
Wie, schon am nächsten Monday,
"Nau lissen," sprach sei Dad,
"Sechs Tage sollst du yodeln, but Den siebten cätschst du Shad."

Und auch die jungen Flappers
Die shifteten ihr Bearing.
"Du yodelst heavenlich, but, say
Wann treatst du zu a Herrings?"
Das hat sei Herz gebustet.
"Iss Art von no Account?
Ich sing und sie demandeh Fish!"—
So hat er sich gedrownt.

Die Moral von dem Drama
Die iss net hart zu guessen:
In flush Times featschert man auch Art,
In toffen Times, nur Essen.

IT SEEMS APPALLING to think what we of this day have got to learn or learn all over again with the fading away of the Sacred Eighteenth, the Volstead act, and the Jones 5 & 10. There's all the different kinds of wine—champagne, port, sherry, claret, chablis, reisling, sauterne, moselle, chianti, burgundy, zinfandel, cabernet, angelica, and hock. And there's all the different brands of American, British, Scotch, Irish, and Canadian whisky. And gosh! there's over one hundred and fifteen cocktails that's got to be memorized. And all we learned in the prohibition era was hootch and gin. Why, we didn't even have to remember the name of our bootlegger. Bootleggers were always named Max.

"FRENCH ANGRY at U. S. for Request to Pay."—La Trib. Well, we wouldn't say they were real angry, anyhow. Cross, possibly, and a bit peevish, but when the French get actually angry they go over and pull down the Colonne Vendome. When they hurl down the big granite Colonne Vendome then, of course, they're mad as all git out. But when they get over their anger they always put the Colonne Vendome back in place again. They should have adopted the suggestion of the Englishman who said the French throw down the Colonne Vendome so often they ought to keep a block and tackle attached to it to hoist it back in place easier after they tear it down.

They seem to be as highly cultured in Tennessee as they are in any other state, only in Pennsylvania sovereign voters got two bucks for their votes and in Delaware five. Outrage! Somebody's been holding out on 'em down in Tennessee.

SOMETHING ABOUT BRAN.

THERE is evidence that indicates that bran is due to come back into favor. The pendulum swings back and forth in all kinds and varieties of opinions. This is just as true in the field of medicine as elsewhere. Nor is domestic medicine an exception.

First it was the fashion to eat no breads and pastries except those made from highly milled grains, the flours of which were largely composed of starch. Beyond question, the pendulum had swung much too far to the left. There came the period in which the eating of bran became almost a fad. People were told bran was laxative, it supplied minerals and vitamins not present in white flour, it was very palatable, and finally it was not very apt to become musty on the grocers' shelves.

Then came the reaction. The pendulum had swung too far to the right. Spastic colitis became a favorite topic at afternoon teas. The colon was lined by a delicate membrane and bran was rough and scratchy. It contained too much roughage. The pendulum swung the other way.

A recent report offers evidence to prove that it has again indulged in the well known way of going too far. Mary S. Rose and associates at Columbia university report that bran has been overaccused. So, far from being a mass of coarse fiber and nothing else, that ingredient makes up only one-tenth of bran and, at that, it is not necessarily nor unusually coarse and scratchy. It softens under moisture. Furthermore, in the human alimentary tract there are usually bacteria that are capable of breaking down much of the fiber and converting it into starches, which are there digested by the digestive juices and absorbed and used as food.

Among the other ingredients of bran are starches and sugars, making up one-third of the whole, and just as much a food as any other starch. Nearly one-fifth of the weight is protein, while nearly one-twelfth is fat. It is twice as rich in fats as is good standard milk. It contains most of the minerals of the wheat berry and among these are iron, phosphorus, and lime. While it is not as rich in vitamin B complex as wheat germ is, it ranks high in a list of foods rich in vitamin B complex.

The experiments and clinical trials given by Prof. Rose and her associates show that bran has a very definite laxative effect and compares very favorably with milk of magnesia, cascara, senna tea, and vegetable-fruit pastes. Milk of magnesia was a little more disposed to irritate and cause a watery discharge—something that is to be avoided. There was no evidence in the experimental animals that the free use of bran caused any irritation of the lining of the digestive tract. The laxative action of the bran was found to be due in part to the vitamin B complex, partly to the fiber, and partly to the minerals.

They laid down something like doses of bran. A certain amount eaten daily would have about so much laxative action, though they did find considerable variation in the bacteria of the tract and, therefore, in the conversion of some of the fiber ingredients of the food.

DEMENTIA PRECOX.

M. V. writes: 1. What is dementia precox?

2. Is it curable?

REPLY.

1. A mental type, out of which there is likely to develop a mental disorder, or even an insanity.

2. Many cases are curable. Sensitive, lonely children can usually be trained away from precox. Many well developed precox cases can be trained to fit into society fairly well.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

Letters to this department must be signed with names and addresses of writers.

IS A CITIZEN.

Chicago, Nov. 20. — [Friend of the People.]—Our family emigrated to this country in 1922. My father received his second citizenship papers in 1929, at which time I was eighteen years of age. Am I a citizen by virtue of my father's naturalization? J. G.

Minor children of naturalized persons become citizens under section 2172 of the revised statutes of the United States which reads as follows: "The children of persons who have been duly naturalized under any law of the United States, or who, previous to the passing of any law on that subject, by the government of the United States, may have become citizens of any one of the states, under the laws thereof, being under the age of twenty-one years at the time of the naturalization of their parents, shall, if dwelling in the United States, be considered as citizens thereof, and the children of persons who now are, or have been, citizens of the United States, shall, though born out of the limits and jurisdiction of the United States, be considered as citizens thereof."

FRED J. SCHLOTFELDT,
District Director, U. S. Department of Labor.

CHATTEL MORTGAGE.

Chicago, Nov. 20.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A tenant owed four months' rent at expiration of lease. A new lease was made for one year. A chattel mortgage on tenant's goods and fixtures was incorporated in the phraseology of the new lease. This mortgage secured the back rent of old lease and also any unpaid rent on new lease. The mortgage was duly registered. Tenant now owes three months' rent on new lease. Tenant has been sued by another creditor, who secured judgment. This creditor has had tenant's stock and fixtures seized by sheriff and store has been locked. 1. Is the sheriff legally justified in his action? 2. Is chattel mortgage held by landlord a preferred claim? 3. Will proceeds of sheriff's sale be used to satisfy first the mortgage and then the judgment of the other creditor? 4. What should landlord do to protect his interests? J. A. S.

1. Your facts would indicate that the sheriff is proceeding on the theory that the phraseology creates no lien. This may be because of failure to record. We cannot advise to advantage without knowing the exact wording and the facts as to recording.

2. See 1.

3. Unless the landlord takes steps to interfere it seems probable that the other creditor will be paid first.

4. Go over all of your facts with an attorney. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

APARTMENT LEASE.

Chicago, Nov. 21.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I signed the lease to my present residence on April 1, 1932. Since that date I was married. Can my husband be held responsible for this lease? W. C. M.

He is not liable on the contract, but if you and he continue to occupy the premises, then the rent would be a family expense and under Illinois statutes both spouses would be held. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

NOVEMBER 26, 1916.

ATHENS.—The provisional government set up by former Premier Eleutherios Venizelos, following his revolt from the neutrality policies of King Constantine, today formally declared war against Germany and Bulgaria. The entente allies, acting through Admiral du Fournet, commander of the allied fleet gathered here, have given to the royalist government an ultimatum requiring the delivery of the Greek arms and ammunition to the allies. The ultimatum says that failure to deliver ten batteries of mountain guns before Dec. 1 will result in "measures being taken by the admiral." The rifles must be surrendered before Dec. 13.

LONDON.—The fate of Belgium and Serbia stares Rumania in the face. Her armies in Wallachia seem caught in a great Teuton trap. Even if they escape, the fall of Bucharest and the overrunning of the great oil and wheat regions by the Teutons appears to be inevitable. Hope that the Russians and Rumanians could make a firm stand behind the river Alt has been given up. Gen. von Falkenhayn has smashed the Alt line at one point and turned it at another, and Gen. von Mackensen has taken it in the rear.

BERLIN.—One British patrol boat was sunk and the fortified port of Ramsgate on the English coast was shelled by German warships on the night of Nov. 23, an official war report announces.

LOS ANGELES.—Mrs. Inez Milholland Boissevain, the noted suffrage leader, died here. She had been in a hospital for ten weeks suffering from pernicious anemia. Blood transfusion was resorted to at least seven times in efforts to save her life. Mrs. Boissevain was about 30 years old and famed for her beauty. Her breakdown is attributed to strenuous work during the recent campaign in behalf of suffrage. She won fame during the 1908 presidential campaign as "the girl who broke up the Taft parade" in New York when many fell out of line and listened to a speech she made.

EL PASO.—In a desperate assault on Chihuahua City Pancho Villa gained a foothold in the city, and hand to hand fighting was in progress in the streets, it was learned tonight.

WASHINGTON. — Although it is considered essentially a triumph for Carranza, the peace of Atlantic City, terminating the present quasi-hostilities with Mexico, is acceptable to President Wilson. Inasmuch as the Mexican commissioners obtained what they demanded it is expected that the protocol will be signed by both governments without delay. The President's satisfaction with the agreement is based on the assumption that a general war with Mexico has been avoided.

CHICAGO.—The egg boycott is on. Members of the Political Equality league of Chicago pledged themselves to buy no eggs and to eat no eggs until the price of 50 cents a dozen for "good eggs" goes down.

CHICAGO. — Minnesota crushed Stagg's Maroons at Stagg field by a score of 49 to 0. Other scores of the day were: Ohio State, 23, Northwestern, 23; Purdue, 0, Indiana, 0; Nebraska, 34, Iowa, 17; Wisconsin, 0, Illinois, 0; Notre Dame, 46, Alma, 0; Yale, 6, Harvard, 3; Army, 15, Navy, 7.

CONSOLIDATION.

Oak Park, Ill., Nov. 21.—I have read in this morning's TRIBUNE about Prof. Charles E. Merriam's suggestion for a consolidation of Chicago with Cook county.

Has Prof. Merriam ever lived in a suburb like Oak Park and made comparison of the difference between Oak Park police and the Chicago police force, or between the type of service rendered by Oak Park village officials and employés in comparison to what you get down at the city hall or county building?

It is possible there may be some advantages in consolidation, although I have my doubts, but I am sure there are many and greater disadvantages for the people living in Oak Park and other suburbs.

I don't believe that overlapping governments in the Chicago metropolitan area are so much to blame for our condition. The trouble goes much deeper than that, as most every one knows.

Never mind the schemes to place more control and power in the hands of one man or a small group. What we are more interested in seeing is that public officials are held to stricter accountability for their deeds and misdeeds.

A. M. BLIX.

THE WALKING FISH OF ILLINOIS.

Chicago, Nov. 16.—Dr. Lange Koch needn't go to Greenland for "fossils of four legged fish that walked ashore." We have plenty of those in Illinois, in the Mississippi river. We call them river pups. They bite on dead bait and only on the approach of spring. Only once have I seen the young ones and they were in a sandy water hole four miles from the river in a dry creek in midsummer. They have four legs, tail like an eel, skin like a catfish, mouth like a perch, but the skin on head folds over downward, giving the creature an odd appearance. If any professor is hunting for links or missing links to evolution, a dozen can be obtained alive for the Chicago Fair from kids and early spring fishermen above the Keokuk dam. Their weight at the dam is about 2½ pounds. Nobody eats them.

MARTIN JENSEN.

THE MUNICIPAL COURT ACT.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—Will some one please explain just what that amendment to the Municipal court act is? Last Tuesday we were asked to vote on that amendment, and as yet there has been no explanation to the voters as to the nature of the aforesaid. Into what politicians' hands have we played?

P. L. O'TOOLE.

SOUTH PARK POLICE.

Chicago, Nov. 11.—In driving through the south parks this morning I noticed the traffic officers are without their overcoats and I wondered if the depression had kept them from buying these for the winter, or if they felt hardy enough to withstand a temperature like today's without sufficient covering.

W. H. NELSON.

WHERE CHICAGO'S MILK COMES FROM.

Yorkville, Ill., Nov. 22.—Paul Potter says that Illinois supplies 60 per cent of Chicago's milk. Why didn't he say ONLY 60 per cent of Chicago's milk?

Wisconsin is always trying to destroy Chicago and yet Chicago buys a large percentage of its milk from that state.

Either the mayor or the governor should find some means to provide that Illinois farmers shall supply all the milk for Chicago. KENDALL COUNTY.

AMERICA'S POLITICAL PRISONERS.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 16.—In your editorial, "America's Political Prisoners," in today's issue you apparently express unreserved approval of the intention of Governor Elect Comstock of Michigan to pardon all prohibition violators.

I find it difficult to follow you. If the mere fact that prohibition has been repudiated by the people of Michigan were the only thing involved I could agree with you. But on the first page of the same issue I find a news item saying that a certain Chicago individual asked the police to lock him up until the return of legal beer. "This ether beer and varnish sold by bootleggers is not for me," he is quoted as saying. Exactly. The point I wish to make is that many, possibly a majority, of the convicted persons sold not merely liquor but rank poison. Not drinking the stuff myself, I am unable to say from experience that this is the case, but common reports, as well as the opinion of chemists, sustains me in the contention that most of the bootleg stuff is made under insanitary conditions and is either adulterated or "doctored" in a way that makes it highly dangerous to health. It is well known that the labels on most of this stuff are unreliable and false.

I have no sympathy with the crowd now in jail. GUY HATTHORN.

A WAY TO PAY THE WAR DEBTS.

Chicago, Nov. 16.—If the Germans will give us "The Sistine Madonna" from the Royal gallery in Dresden and the French will give us "The Assumption of the Blessed Virgin" from the Louvre, Paris, and the English will give us "The Holy Family" from the National gallery, London, we will tell them that we can afford gladly to cancel 90 per cent of our war debts. LILAH OLDER BELL.

A WAY OUT.

Chicago, Nov. 17.—The political bosses may be able to solve the tax situation by giving at least temporary employment to unemployed taxpayers, competent and willing to work, by such tax-paying employés making an assignment of their salaries for the payment of their back taxes. After the tax situation is adjusted in this manner the local government would perhaps become solvent and the real party men and women would be more likely to be paid. This, of course, would be real government economy and rather difficult to put in operation because of that time worn theory of "To the victor belongs the spoils." DEMOCRAT.

GIVES RECEIVERS' REPORTS ON 20 CLOSED BANKS

Cost of Liquidation Told by Auditor.

State Auditor Oscar Nelson yesterday made public the reports of the receivers of 20 more closed banks. The reports give the financial condition of the banks on Sept. 30.

The reports disclose the gross cost of receivership of the 20 banks together with that of 79 banks previously reported is 7.8 per cent of the money collected by receivers, and the net cost, after deducting the operating income of the banks, is 1.4 per cent.

Liquidation costs of the 20 banks reported yesterday are summarized by the auditor as follows:

GOVERNOR SIGNS CHICAGO SCHOOL BONDS MEASURE

Gov. Emmerson yesterday signed senate bill No. 33, which permits school tax anticipation warrants to be issued to provide funds for the retirement of bonds and interest. The Chicago board of education has $4,200,000 in bond principal and interest falling due on Jan. 1 and asked that the legislature pass the bill. The bill, which was introduced by Senator James J. Borbour, requires the city council, upon the request of the board of education, to order the warrants issued.

Hungry School Children Fund

There are 15,000 children who go to public school hungry every morning. A dime a day will furnish a substantial noonday meal for each of them.

I will contribute $....., weekly....., monthly, or the enclosed donation.

J. L. Duvall to Enter Race for Mayor of Indianapolis

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 25.—[Special.]—John L. Duvall, former mayor of Indianapolis, tonight announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for mayor in 1933.

THANKSGIVING'S MAIL BOUNTIFUL TO NEEDY PUPILS

$246 in Gifts to Lunch Fund Received.

Folks who had things to be thankful for on Thanksgiving gave the Hungry School Children's fund a basis for gratitude, too. For they showered the desk of the fund's accountant with donations totaling $246.25 on the day before the holiday. Because the postmen had a day off for their turkey dinners, the mail wasn't opened until yesterday, but the bounty to hungry boys and girls is far from being wasted. Needy children still have to eat, and food still costs money.

So the kindly gifts will go far, at an average of ten cents a meal, in meeting the necessity that exists in Chicago to keep these youngsters eating regularly. It's the regularity of the fare that counts, almost as much as the substantial food. For a feast once a week isn't nearly as effective as a square meal at least once a day, which is the aim of the fund. For hundreds of the children it is their main source of sustenance.

These are the contributions received in the Thanksgiving mail:

$25—G. F., Anonymous.

BOUND OVER AS ROBBER.

Howard Hardgrave, 59 years old, 5779 Ridge avenue, was held to the grand jury yesterday in bond of $10,000 by Judge Frank M. Padden on a charge of attempted robbery of Mathias Kasnel in his store at 1941 Orchard street on Nov. 12.

JUDGE QUASHES MOTION TO FREE STONE OFFICERS

Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward yesterday overruled motions for directed verdicts of not guilty in behalf of nine officials of H. O. Stone & Co., defunct real estate investment concern, on trial on charges of using the mails to defraud. On motion of Defense Attorney Charles F. Rathbun, the court pointed out that the ruling was no indication of the guilt of the defendants.

Closing arguments will be started Monday by the government and the case is expected to go to the jury late Thursday afternoon. John Washburn and C. H. Binney, vice presidents of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, were called yesterday as rebuttal witnesses by the government.

One of the defendants had testified that Washburn told Stone officials to sell as first mortgage bonds an issue on the Lawsonia subdivision, a Stone promotion, despite the fact that there was a first mortgage of $80,000 against the property. Washburn testified that he did not recall such a conversation. Binney, according to the testimony of defendants, told Stone officials not to worry about the mortgage. Questioned by the prosecution, Binney said yesterday that he did not remember making the statement.

PAY WIFE OR GO TO JAIL, ORDER TO S. C. FERGUSON

Stephen Corbin Ferguson, north side garage owner and one of three heirs to the $1,200,000 estate of his father, yesterday was ordered by Judge Philip J. Finnegan to pay his divorced wife $415 alimony, which is in arrears, or go to jail next Tuesday.

The former wife, Mrs. Genevieve Ferguson of 1233 Chase avenue, was awarded $250 a month when a decree was awarded her. She was accompanied by her attorney, who asserted that Ferguson was well able to pay.

Ferguson's attorney asserted on the contrary that the garage business was poor and that Ferguson was living on a scale of only $100 a month. The estate of his father, Charles W. Ferguson, Rogers Park realty man, has not yet been settled.

LEAVES 8 MILLION TO U. OF MICHIGAN SCHOOL OF LAW

Noted Attorney Also Gives Hospital $600,000.

New York, Nov. 25.—[Special.]—William Cook, noted corporation lawyer, who died on June 4, 1930, left a gross estate of $10,730,453 and a net of $10,123,967, the bulk of which is left to the law school of the University of Michigan, according to a transfer tax appraisal filed today. More than $700,000 is distributed in three other public bequests, and twenty individuals receive legacies.

Mr. Cook was graduated from the University of Michigan law school.

In making the residuary bequest of $8,711,116 to the law school, Mr. Cook stipulated in his will that he believed "that American institutions are of more consequence than the wealth or power of the country."

The law school also receives a piano and needlework valued at $2,875.

The Presbyterian hospital here receives property at Port Chester, N. Y., valued at $625,000; a legacy of $100,000 and personal property valued at $1,736. The Association of the Bar of the City of New York and the New York Law Institute each receives a legacy of $25,000.

Frank M. Cook, a brother, and Sarah Belle Frankhauser, a sister, each receives a life estate in $100,000.

Mr. Cook was an authority on corporation law and was widely known for his book on that subject, "Cook on Corporations."

3 BILLION COST OF MEDICAL AID FOR ALL A YEAR

Doctor Makes Report on 5 Year Survey.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 25.—[Special.]—Aspects of the problem of providing adequate medical care to all were outlined today by Dr. Olin West, secretary of the American Medical association, in advance of publication next Tuesday, of the report on the subject prepared by a committee after a five year investigation.

The cost of medical care for the entire nation was estimated by Dr. West as somewhat over three billion dollars annually. The average annual cost of medical care for representative families of different income levels, he said, ranges from $71 in the lowest income group to $311 in the highest group.

People "Most Concerned."

Commenting on the problem generally, Dr. West stated that "most concerned of all are th 123 million people who need medical attention and advice in health as well as in sickness."

"All taxpayers and public spirited contributors to hospitals are interested," he said, "for their investments in medical institutions are over three billion dollars and steadily increasing."

630,000 with Tuberculosis.

Special estimates of the prevalence of a few diseases and physical defects were made by Dr. West, as follows: Persons with tuberculosis, 630,000; blind persons, 120,000; school children with impaired hearing, 3,000,000; persons with speech disorders, 1,000,000; cases of malaria per year, 1,000,000.

In the United States, said Dr. West, there are approximately 6,700 hospitals, 3,000 clinics, and 60,000 drug stores. Of more than a million persons engaged in providing medical care, there were 142,000 physicians, 62,400 dentists, 213,800 trained nurses, 132,000 pharmacists, 20,200 optometrists, and 47,000 midwives.

LAUNDRY UNION AGENT GIVES UP ON BOMB CHARGE

Mortimer B. Cooke, 41 years old, 2133 Linden avenue, business representative of the Laundry and Dye House Chauffeurs union, was formally charged with malicious mischief at the detective bureau yesterday. The complainant, Philip Gilman, owner of the Portage Park laundry at 5328 Belmont avenue, alleged that Cooke was responsible for the explosion of a chemical bomb in his plant, which caused damage of $300 on Nov. 17.

According to Gilman, he had been warned by Cooke that unless he joined the union he would be unable to get wet wash service from a laundry he was patronizing. He added that pressure had been brought on him at least half a dozen times to join. When he was asked if he would sign the complaint, he agreed to do so only if he were guaranteed police protection. He was promised protection by Chief of Detectives Schoemaker.

Cooke, who surrendered when he learned the police wished to question him, denied having anything to do with the killing of Joseph Fishman, independent laundry driver, last week.

MISS HELEN HAY, FAMED AS NURSE, DIES AT SAVANNA

Savanna, Ill., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Helen Scott Hay, famous world war nurse and Red Cross worker, died here today.

Miss Hay was formerly chief nurse at Iowa State hospital, Clarinda, Ia. Upon America's entrance into the world war she served as director of home hygiene and care of the sick for the American Red Cross.

For her work in establishing a training school for nurses at the request of the queen of Bulgaria, Miss Hay was given the decoration of the first order by the Bulgarian Red Cross.

After the war she was appointed director of American nursing in Europe with headquarters in Paris. She retired in 1922 and came to Savanna to live.

Miss Hay was graduated from Northwestern university in 1893. Later she was superintendent of the Illinois Training School for Nurses and was the organizer of West Suburban hospital and School for Nurses at Oak Park, Ill.

WARRANT ISSUED FOR EX-EMPLOYE OF SCHOOL BOARD

A warrant was issued yesterday for the arrest of Robert D. MacLeod, until five weeks ago an accountant for the school board. The warrant, charging forgery, was issued by Municipal Judge Frank M. Padden when MacLeod could not be found to explain a shortage on his books of more than $5,000.

Police reported that MacLeod left his last known address, 654 Wrightwood avenue, on Oct. 1. Prosecutor Donald Thompson said that MacLeod had taken the money from the fund used for the transportation of blind and crippled children. The accountant, according to Thompson, made out fraudulent checks against the fund and forged the indorsements of school principals.

GOOSE ISLAND TRAFFIC LINK TO OPEN DEC. 9

Parades, speeches and other ceremonies will be held when the Goose island link of the Ogden avenue improvement is opened to traffic on Dec. 9. The preparations for the celebration were made yesterday by various civic and business organizations at the North avenue branch of the Y. M. C. A. The improvement consists of elevated approaches, an elevated stretch over the Chicago and North Western railroad tracks and a bridge over the Chicago river.

Among the organizations represented at the meeting were the Division Street Business Men's association, the North Avenue Business Men's association, and the West Side Commercial league. Otto Schulz, secretary of the latter organization, presided.

Rites in Milwaukee Today for Mrs. G. W. Des Forges

Funeral services will be held in Milwaukee today for Mrs. Florence Richelieu Childs Des Forges, who died on Thursday in the Passavant hospital. Mrs. Des Forges was a niece of the late George W. Childs, publisher of the Philadelphia Public Ledger, and had many friends in this country and in Europe, which she visited every year. She is survived by her husband, George W. Des Forges, book store owner, and a sister, Stella R. Childs, who lives in California.

Divorced for Trying to Throw Wife Out Window

Mrs. Ruth E. Love, 7803 Harper avenue, was granted a divorce yesterday from Mark Stevens Love, musician and radio entertainer, in the court of Judge Joseph Sabath. She testified Love once tried to throw her out of an eleventh floor window and that on another occasion he tried to run over her with an automobile. An award of $80 a month alimony was made the wife. The Loves were married in June, 1926, and have one daughter.

$50,000 ESTATE, WILLED TWICE, RESULTS IN SUITS

On last Aug. 18 Jefferson Davis Wright, 71 years old, a steamfitter who had been taken to the Augustana hospital nine days earlier, made an oral will bequeathing his $50,000 estate to three friends and a niece who lives in Hannibal, Mo. The following day, however, he executed a written will leaving $2,200 to three physicians in the hospital, three nurses who attended him, and a friend, and bequeathing the remainder to the hospital outright. Wright died in the hospital on Sept. 4.

Yesterday a conflict developed when the three friends, Charles A. Carlson and J. F. Knudson, both of 1216 North La Salle street, and William O. Gunther, 4707 Bernard street, attempted to file the oral will which they had reproduced in writing within 10 days of Wright's death. They found that the hospital, the physicians, Drs. John Christenson and Melville H. Swenson, 3179 North Clark street, and John Booher, an attendant at the hospital; and the nurses, Miss E. B. Olson, 4059 North Paulina street; Miss Mabel Josephson, 2026 North Clark street, and Miss L. Nicholson, 4031 Kenmore avenue, with Thomas Benson, 1142 East 64th street, the other friend, were attempting to file the second will.

Oscar S. Caplan, assistant to the probate judge, to whom the wills were presented for probate, set Dec. 7 for a hearing.

DEATH PENALTY FOR MOTHER FOR MURDER OF SON

JOHANNESBURG, Union of South Africa, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Mrs. Daisy Louise De Melker was convicted today of the murder of her son by poisoning and sentenced to death. She was acquitted of charges of murdering two former husbands. The handsome little woman of 44 went on trial Oct. 17 on the three murder counts.

The prosecution charged she poisoned her first husband, William Alfred Rowle, in 1923; her second husband, Robert Sproat, in 1927, and her son, Cecil Rhodes Rowle, last March. It was charged the two husbands died after having made wills in her favor and the son after having assigned to his mother an insurance policy of $500. Mrs. De Melker is now the wife of a famous South African Rugby player.

Identify Man Slain Nov. 18 as Railway Mail Clerk

The body of a man found shot to death on Nov. 18 at the rear of 3217 South Dearborn street, was identified yesterday as that of Frank F. Pinney, 48 years old, of Toledo, O., a railway postal clerk on the New York Central railroad. The identification was made by R. J. Flack of Toledo, a co-worker, who told police Pinney came to Chicago the day before he was found dead. Flack said Pinney was in the habit of carrying large sums of money and believes he was killed by bandits.

Shops Feature Many Items in Gift Packages

Toilet Articles Presented in Neat Boxes.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

IT WOULD take days and days to tell you about all the tricky small items that are the super-perfect Christmas gadgets to send through the mail, deliver in person or by special messenger. You'll be surprised at all the good looking things that come in small packages . . . rare perfumes, and, the best "find" of all, compactly packed manicure sets consisting of the entire get-together of bottles, emery sticks, files, and powders, scissors all stored cozily in a flat leather case that goes together with the inevitable slipper. This manicure set is the traveler's constant companion and reminder of the perspicacious shopper who found it and sent it out in the appreciative world.

Another package, just as compact, but a bit larger and longer than the rest of the small things, contains the cellophane wrapped half dozen clothes hangers. These nonskid hangers are covered with colored velvet, practically any color is available, and since clothes closets are as carefully decorated as any other part of the house, this fact is most important.

These are the temper saving hangers that really cling to a gown. No matter how slippery and scant the shoulder seams or straps, they are absolutely guaranteed to keep all your clothes off the floor.

Small boxed sewing kits sound hopelessly pre-war to some people, but lots of believers in the stitch that saves nine, or ninety, others will cherish such a domestic addition to their boudoir. Mending kits with enough mending cotton and assorted tints of hosiery colors are something else to think seriously about, especially the thin flat affairs that can be smuggled in the depths of a handbag ready for an emergency alarm by day or night.

The most exciting of all the boxed loot are the carefully bottled and boxed beauty aids. You can find very small flat boxes with enough of your favorite beauty preparations to see you nicely through a week-end, or you can buy the larger knockout combinations that will keep you in everything you always use at home while you circle the globe.

→

And the bath ensembles are something to rave over. A good sized box with bath salts, powder and a most generous sized puff to slap the stuff on with are assembled for male and female alike.

Other fragrant boxed combinations are the new two sizes of eau de Cologne, a guest room bottle and the larger container for your bathroom. If you know some lavender loving soul you can now present a grand box filled with toilet water, powder and soap of this crisp, delightful old fashioned scent. Other lasting scents of bygone days are the bottles of lemon verbena toilet water, rose geranium and mignonette, with soap and powder included in most cases.

→

You can also buy soap in boxes . . . wee little egglike shapes and small squares and boxes of soap in flower forms. Think of the fun of soaping your face with a pale blue cake of soap that looks just like a full blown rose, or perhaps you'll fancy a tea rose of soap or a pale green pungent pine cone of soap.

Or if you feel funny in the morning you might like the doggy soap, choosing a soapy Airedale pup one morning, a sprightly gay young terrier another morning and an impudent Boston bull for still a third choice. These soap dogs come assorted or all of one breed, six or twelve to a box.

Red Cross Appeals for More Volunteers to Sew for Needy

More volunteers are needed to aid the American Red Cross in making garments for needy families in the Chicago area. James T. Nicholson, manager of the Chicago chapter, said yesterday that cotton material is available to groups who may wish to give their time sewing on the garments.

Three million yards of material have been alloted to the Chicago chapter by the government. The first consignment arrived early in the fall and immediately a model work room was established in the Pure Oil building. Material was also turned over to many sewing groups throughout the city.

"We don't have enough volunteers to turn the finished garments out as quickly as we wish," Mr. Nicholson said. "Just as they were needed during the world war, so are women needed now to sew for the people who are desperately in need of clothing.

Stockholm Cheers Prince's Bride as Couple Reach Palace

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Prince Gustav Adolf, eldest son of the Swedish crown prince, today brought home his bride, Princess Sybille of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, and Stockholm accorded them a royal welcome.

After a day of festivities the bridal couple were honor guests tonight at a family dinner party at the palace, from the windows of which they could look out upon a great fireworks display signalling their homecoming.

Until late tonight the streets were filled with thousands of cheering Stockholm residents, and everywhere there were flags and bunting. The welcome festivities will extend over several days.

The royal couple, who were married a month ago at Coburg, Germany, rode in a four horse carriage from the railroad station through streets lined with well wishers.

King Gustav did not attend the wedding at Coburg, but was at the railroad station when the train came in. It was an exciting day for Princess Sybille, and she showed it.

Tomorrow night 1,200 guests will have dinner in the famous "white hall" of the castle, hitherto used only for the stately opening ceremonies of parliament.

Misses Marie and Lydia Swift Are Introduced

Cousins Make Their Bows at Joint Party.

Miss Marie Swift, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gustavus F. Swift, and Miss Lydia Swift, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alden B. Swift, were formally introduced to society yesterday afternoon at a reception given at the residence of the Gustavus Swifts at 1551 Astor street.

The two cousins presented an interesting study in contrasts. Miss Lydia Swift, a tall brunette beauty with classic features, wore a gown that bore out the very latest fashion trends, —a white rough crêpe model with sleeves that dropped from the V neckline of the bodice, leaving her olive tinted shoulders bare, and tapered toward the wrist from a soft fullness a little above the elbows. The skirt fell in straight lines from a narrow belt of green velvet and silver buttons, and dropped into a tiny divided train in back.

→

Miss Marie Swift, who has dark hair and eyes but a fairer complexion than her cousin, wore a quaintly youthful period gown of antique coral colored brocade patterned in gold thread embroidery. The dress had short puffed sleeves, a square neckline bound in gold brocade, and a full skirt with a narrow sash of gold. Both girls held large bouquets of American Beauty roses.

Although a large reception hall, the staircase, the library and dining room of the Swifts' English Tudor house were literally lined with floral tributes of every variety sent by friends of the debutantes' families, only tall standards of American Beauties and poinsettia were used in the drawing room, where the receiving line stood.

The two girls stood with their mothers before the tall stone fireplace, flanked on each side by high vases of the roses. Mrs. Gustavus Swift wore a blue lace dress trimmed with sable and her sister-in-law wore a blond velvet gown with bands of mink on the sleeves.

→

Miss Geraldine Swift, the Gustavus Swifts' oldest daughter, and Miss Narcissa Swift, who came home from New York for her sister Lydia's debut, assisted about the rooms. Miss Geraldine wore a black crêpe dress with a dine wore a black crêpe dress with a gold brocaded bodice and Miss Narcissa a black and white crêpe dress.

The attending girls included Miss Elizabeth Baum, a cousin of Marie Swift's; Miss Nancy Traylor, Miss Edna Doering, Miss Josephine Patterson, Miss Marjorie Goodman, Miss Jean Schweppe, Miss Mary Reed, Miss Mary Senior, Miss Jane Boyce, Miss Laura Thorne, and Miss Barbara Eldridge.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

"Okay, America!" accords rather sympathetic treatment to the gossip columnist. It shows him as a man who may have a very good reason for doing what he does, does, does.

This particular g. c., named Larry Wayne, had once been double-crossed by a woman. All the world had known him for the sap HE never dreamed he was—till a rude awakening. How he wished—how he WISHED that somebody had put him wise before he qualified as a compleat ass! Resolve by young Mr. Wayne: "Hereafter I will know all and TELL all so that no other sucker will bite the way I did. THUS I will make the world safe for decent people . . . !"

→

So—every bit as popular and courted as a skunk—he walterwinchells his way through Manhattan mazes spilling the beans. But Wayne differs from other columnists you've seen in the movies. He never lies, b'gum! When he promises a lady a story won't be printed—the story isn't printed. [Shame on you, Lee Tracy! Why couldn't YOU have been like that . . . !] His word is even good with gangsters . . . ! They tell him secrets, pull his leg, and keep him off the spit till Larry Wayne reverts from type, pulls a fast, heroic one in which the President of the United States is intimately concerned, and goes to glory whispering—you've guessed it—"Okay, America!"

→

The picture is entertaining and topical. It utilizes characters and events of current headlines in its background. It provides Lew Ayres with the most fitting rôle the talented young actor has had in a month of Sundays, and he performs it with intuition and good sense. Supporting players were well chosen.

The director was smart most of the time and has succeeded in keeping the suspense boiling.

See you tomorrow!

(Everything's going to be all right!)

Defend Insull in Reply to Mary Garden

Stock Quotes Goethe on Ingratitude.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Mary Garden's characterization of Samuel Insull as a "destroyer of opera" in her New York interview finds few echoes among the leaders of music in Chicago. A number of them declare themselves openly on the other side.

"Ingratitude is the curse of mankind," said Frederick Stock after the Chicago Symphony orchestra concert yesterday afternoon. "Goethe said it a long time ago, and it is still true. I am concerned with orchestra, not opera, and perhaps I should not speak, but the facts are plain.

"When Mr. and Mrs. McCormick [Harold F. McCormick and the late Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick] gave up their support of the Chicago opera it was necessary to find a man of great wealth, great force, and great prestige in order to keep the company running. Only one man in Chicago was willing to take up the task. He was Samuel Insull.

→

"If it had not been for his so-called retirement, there would be an opera season in Chicago today. His overthrow left no one to take his place. If he were still here the situation would be better for the whole field of music, not only the opera, but for the Fair, for the Chicago Symphony orchestra, for everything. At present musical conditions are disconcerting, not only here but everywhere in the country."

"Nevertheless, and in spite of what Miss Garden says," added Henry E. Voegeli, manager of the orchestra, "had Mr. Insull's plan worked out, it would have been a great thing for the city."

"That is what I should call a somewhat far reaching statement," said Rudolph Ganz, president of the Chicago Musical college. "Did she actually say that Insull destroyed the Chicago Opera, that he was a financier and not an opera director? One might answer it by saying that she was a fine prima donna but not much of an opera director herself when she had the chance.

"Seriously, I deplore that the downfall of Insull brought with it the temporary downfall of opera in Chicago. I am sure it is only temporary. I do not want to seem overoptimistic, nothing more than constructive, but opera must and will come back some day to the city.

→

"It may come back in a different form from any that we have known, but it is certain that it will come back. Chicagoans have the duty of seeing to it that the new organization is permanent. Temporary, unstable attempts to revive it do more harm to the cause than even Mr. Insull's downfall."

Several others declined to be quoted directly, but pointed out with some amusement that the season of Miss Garden's directorship, the year before the Insull Civic Opera company was organized, was the most disastrous from a financial standpoint that had been known at any time before or during the Insull régime. It was rumored then that the deficit of her management amounted to something like $1,100,000, and later statements have done much to confirm the rumor.

MINUTE MYSTERY CAN YOU SOLVE IT?

BY H. A. RIDLEY

Copyright, 1932, By Ideal Syndicate Co., Inc.

Dr. Fordney is professor of criminology at a famous university. His advice is often sought by the police of many cities when confronted with particularly baffling cases. This problem has been taken from his case-book covering hundreds of criminal investigations.

Try you wits on it! It takes but ONE MINUTE to read. Every fact and every clew necessary to its solution are in the story itself—and there is only one answer. How good a detective are you?

CLASS DAY.

"It's hardly fair to tell this one on Inspector Kelley's staff," laughingly remarked Fordney to his class, "but I want to see how you're deducing today."

"Deduce you say, professor?" exclaimed Jim Barry.

"I'll overlook that pun, Jim, if you get this. Now, Kelley learned Swanson, a notorious crook, implicated in the Stuyvensant robbery, had hired the MOONBEAM and her crew and left Kilary dock at daybreak. Part of the loot was on board. He also knew that the boat could not have gone more than fifteen miles up the river or fifteen miles down the river and that Swanson was planning on picking up the rest of the loot that night so he must have the boat quickly available for a hurried getaway.

"There were no natural hiding places along the banks of the Cheepokee and no boat houses large enough to conceal the MOONBEAM.

"I told Kelley to loan me the police boat and I'd have a try at locating her.

"'It's no use, Joe,' he remarked. 'I'm positive she's not been sunk but she's not on the river. My men have searched all day.'

"Anyway I persuaded him to let me have it and at midnight I called him on the phone and told him that the MOONBEAM and I were through playing hide and seek. That I had located her not five miles from Kilary dock!

"This one should really be easy! It's another illustration of the 'Purloined Letter.'

"Where did I find her? Quickly now!"

The above problem was sent to the professor by Suzanne B. Waters, Kansas City, Mo.

Perhaps you have one you would like to submit to his class. If so send it to the professor in care of this paper. He will be delighted to see what his students make of it.

[See solution on page 25.]

Holiday Party Dates Switched Because of Triangle Club Play

Princeton Group to Appear December 22—Society Rearranges Schedule to Leave Evening Open.

BY JUDITH CASS.

SUCH a switching of dates as the decision of the Princeton Triangle club to appear here on Dec. 22 has occasioned! The club has wanted that date all along, but the Chicago alumni wanted the performance to be given here later in the holidays, so there were many letters and wires between Princeton and Chicago and in the meantime two parties were scheduled for the 22d. At last that date was taken definitely by the Princeton Triangle club so the two parties were changed, all this taking place within the last few days.

The Louis K. Boysens will give the dinner dance to introduce their daughter, Bobette, at the "900" on the 26th instead of the 22d (before the Charles S. Deweys' dance at the Casino for Miss Louise Dewey); and the Laird Bells have changed their dance at the Casino from the 22d to the 20th. Their party is for their debutante daughter, Frances, and their debutante nieces, Miss Lucy Fairbank and Miss Jane Boyce.

The Triangle club will give its performance at the Auditorium, which really is a grand gesture on the part of the local Princetonians for most persons who are in charge of such affairs this winter have been afraid to take such a large theater. The Triangle club plays are so popular, however, I'm sure every seat will be filled that night.

John D. Ames writes that the name of this year's play has not been chosen, but that the action takes place during the time of the French revolution, which should give the clever boys who stage the show a chance for colorful scenery and costumes.

No Triangle club performance would be complete without a ball afterward and this year the boys will enlarge the stag line at a party Mr. and Mrs. Fortunato Jerace will give for Mrs. Jerace's debutante daughter, Miss Jean Dorothy McVoy, at the Blackstone hotel. The date for this ball had been set as the 27th, but it has been changed to the 22d.

Another changed date for a holiday party is the one for a dance the University School for Girls will give at the school, 1105 Lake Shore drive. It will be held on Tuesday, Dec. 20, instead of the night after Christmas.

Society to Enjoy Busy Week-End.

No one can complain this week-end of there being "nothing to do"—yes, there are some whom I've heard make that complaint this winter, strange as it may seem—for there are parties galore scheduled for today and tomorrow, some large, some small, but all sounding as if they would be amusing and entertaining.

Today's debutante is pretty young Dorothy Marshall, who is to be introduced formally to society at a tea given by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Howard Marshall, at their residence, 612 Sheridan road, Wilmette, from 4 to 7 o'clock.

The Marshall studio is noted as one of the most interesting places in or near the city, and the young people are delighted that the Marshalls chose to present Dorothy out there instead of in town.

Assisting will be the debutante's elder sister, Mrs. Richard Hill Fleming [Betty Marshall], and their cousin, Mrs. Edwin L. Brashears [Katharine Field], and the Misses Florence Carr, Barbara Graf, Jean Schweppe, Nancy Traylor, Betty Brawley, Eleanor Litsinger, Ethel Dixon, Eleanor Page, Suzanne Morris, and

A Job a Day

Every little improvement we make in our home right now helps us—and the other fellow, too.

We don't any of us care to see the wheels go around in our homes any more than we can help and full height screens, so placed that they can cut off a serving corner, a lavatory, a kitchenette, or a nursery from view, fill a need that is easily appreciated. Specific purpose screens, these may be called and, besides concealing utilitarian nooks and corners from general view, they are a protection from drafts. In many handsome styles, period, modern, conventional, or illustrative, their coverings may be as simple and inexpensive or as costly and elaborate as their purposes and surroundings demand. BARTER AND SAIL

By HENRY C. ROWLAND

SYNOPSIS.

Roberta Millbank runs away from a pair of gloomy relatives, Peter Gevan, trusted employe in her father's bank, until it failed and her father died, offers to drive her to her old school to apply for a job as athletic instructress. They run into a storm and are offered shelter by Capt. Henry White, sole occupant of an abandoned farm, who is the owner of a four-master, tied up through lack of business. Adam Eden, a young unemployed engineer, is also given a billet for the night. The captain shows the three strangers a page from a diary, given to him by a French captain named Mordecai, giving incomplete instructions for finding buried treasure. He is expecting some one who possesses the next page of the diary, which will complete the instructions. Ariette Mordecai, granddaughter of the French captain, arrives with an English woman of title, known as Ladybird. Capt. White invites his guests to participate in the treasure hunt. He knows a man who has made money in crazy schemes and believes in old fashioned trading, who might be interested in backing the venture. The captain tells them about Mr. Mordecai and the ship he sailed from Tahiti to investigate a certain pearl lagoon.

INSTALLMENT VI.

WISHING ON A NEW MOON.

Capt. Hiram went on: "He picked a crew he could trust and provisioned his little lighter for a long voyage and sailed off. It may have been luck or else his information was sound, but anyhow he went straight to an atoll that was fairly studded with oysters rich in pearls. Mr. Mordecai told me about all this on our voyage across, but I didn't hook it up until we came to say good-by."

"The directions he left don't tell such a lot more," Ladybird said.

"Well, he'd already told me a good deal more. Fact is, the little he wrote on Miss Ariette's page of the diary don't seem quite to make sense—but all that can wait. He told me that after a month's diving with considerable success they sighted a vessel heading in for the atoll and he thought best to scuttle his lighter and let her sink in about six fathom water. They'd already unshipped her spars and lashed 'em on deck so's not to be sighted by any passing ship. Sounds a little like they were poaching. He didn't say any more about that."

"What country owned the island?" Peter asked.

"He didn't say at the time, but it's now included in the Japanese mandate that takes in the Carolines, Marianas, Marshalls, and Pellews. Ceded to the Japs after the war by the league of nations."

"What was the vessel coming in?"

"One of the British patrols that cruise round looking for castaways. That worked all right, as Mr. Mordecai had a small boat and some stores, and he gave them a yarn that their schooner had opened up and sunk and they'd made this atoll. The yarn was never investigated, as when they got into Samoa the war had broken. Mr. Mordecai and his crew got back to Tahiti the men with him signed up. The plan was for them to go back to the atoll after the war and finish their cleanup."

Mr. Mordecai gave them a yarn that his schooner had sunk.

"Of the atoll, or what was left aboard the lighter?" Adam asked.

"Mr. Mordecai never made that plain," the captain said. "All he says in his directions makes it look as if he had sunk the lighter with a load of shell they hadn't time to open up. They were probably working fast to mop up the bottom and get away to sea before interrupted, then cut out when they were well clear of the place. This lighter might have been used as a fishing boat with a fish well in her so that the oysters would keep alive for a good while."

"Then," said Adam, "the idea is to go out there and salve the oysters out of the sunk lighter?"

"That's it. It must have been the pearls he had time to cut out that supplied Mr. Mordecai with the money to charter my three-master and fill her up with food."

"After all," said Adam, "it was a pretty good plan to sink her and not have all his eggs in one basket. He might have been searched or robbed, and nobody would spend the money to raise a lighter even if they found her there."

"Besides," said Ladybird impatiently, "he didn't want to spill the secret of the lagoon."

"So there's the proposition," Capt. Hiram said. "We don't know just what's aboard that lighter, but we know just where she is, and let me tell you it's a mighty long sail."

"But you've got a mighty big ship, Captain," Adam said.

"That's part of the trouble. She's still well found enough to last out a six months' voyage if she's kept out of uncommon heavy weather. I once sailed her home light from Cork, where I'd taken dry lumber, with only a young mate and four hands. Sailed her right into Blue Hill, Me., and loaded two million staves for Trinidad."

"Staves?"

"Yes, for asphalt kegs. Down there in Maine they set up little mills here and there in the woods and cut out the small stuff that is good enough for that."

"Well," said Adam, "if your friend Henery likes the idea, why not? I'm a mechanical engineer."

"I'm no sailor," Peter said. "But I think I could soon get on to it."

"That would give us four——"

"Five," said Ladybird calmly. "I grew up aboard my father's big yawl yacht. Made a voyage to Madeira after he'd retired, and he taught me navigation. Why not sign me on as mate?"

The captain said, "I'll bet there are lots worse."

"And I will cook," said Roberta.

The captain smiled. "The question is to get something to cook. There'll be other things we'll have to buy and we have no money. Henery's the only chance, and I don't know just how his relatives have got him tied up."

"I have two hundred dollars," said Roberta.

"Real money?" Adam asked.

She reached down and produced two one hundred dollar bills which she laid on the table.

Peter contributed eighteen dollars.

"Come in, everybody," said Adam, and laid down a dime and two pennies.

"We'll save our five dollars for a sinking fund," said Ladybird.

"About all I've got is some live stock and a small truck," began the captain.

"And your ship," Ladybird reminded him.

"Yes, and I'm wondering if it's justifiable to tackle this job on a rope yarn, as you might say."

Adam tilted back in his chair. "Captain, if you got hard aground on a low tide, what would you do?"

"Get all set to work off and on my way when she started to come, lad. If Henery can bear a hand we might tackle it at that. My grandfather used to tell how ships nothing like as good and no better manned put out from these ports and beat their way 'round the Horn to San Francisco in the gold rush of '48 and '49. But I wouldn't go that way——"

"Through the canal?" Peter asked.

"No. That would cost too much. The cheapest thing we'll have is wind. Round the other way. Our problem is mostly stores and gear, and, of course, we've got to have a diving rig." He looked at the old grandfather's clock with a rocking ship. There's a family heirloom might help a little only the sheriff's got it tied up. Well, it's late and you're all tired. I manage to keep two bedrooms all ship shape. You ladies had better turn in. Tomorrow we can drive down and talk to Henery Shepard."

He stepped to the door and looked out. "Come here, folks."

They flocked out after him. The storm clouds had drifted past and a cool wind from the northwest was blowing freshly. In the clear western sky the bright crescent of a new moon hung just above a distant ridge unobscured by twigs or foliage through a gap in the old trees.

"Make a wish," said the captain. "Sometimes it helps to be a little superstitious."

Doris Blake Answers

Too Soon for Love.

"Dear Miss Blake: I have gone with a fellow two months and see him every night. He has never told me he loves me; do you think he does?

"ALICE."

Maybe yes, maybe no. He may have just a crush, so don't be impatient.

Tit for Tat Goes Long Way.

"Dear Miss Blake: My friend says he loves me, yet he is very mean at times to me. I can't understand him.

"RED HEAD."

What's the matter with your red head? You ought to be able to raise the proper ructions with him when he's acting mean.

Miljan Reveals Some Customs of Mine Camps

Helps Nurse Brother in Serious Illness.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 26.—John Miljan has just got over one of his worst scares. His brother, "Buck," who works in the gold mining region near Johannesburg, Cal., where the two brothers used to own their own mine, fell sick in a mining camp. Well meaning but medically unsound cures failed to help. When he finally got so ill he couldn't travel on his own steam, "Buck's" friends long distanced Miljan, who had his brother rushed to Los Angeles, where the doctors found that Buck was technically a dead man from a week's diet of a dangerous medicine, but that as long as his heart was still beating, it would do no harm to try to pull him through. Miljan thereupon buckled down to help nurse his brother, and in another week Buck was recovering swiftly.

"They are a rude but rugged bunch in that mining camp," Miljan says. "I went up there once to visit my brothers, Buck and Monk, and there was some poor fellow that had been diagnosed as dying. All the other miners—really sentimental fellows—stopped work and tried to cheer him up and make his last hours pleasant, but when three days had passed and the patient was still dying, and everybody had lost three days' work, the other miners began to ask the dying man to 'be reasonable and get on with it.'

"Several more days went by and the other miners finally chipped in and bought a coffin and lay the man who could not recover in the coffin.

"They gave him blankets and relays of his pals read to him out of books, lighted cigarets for him as he lay there, and the patient seemed to be quite content while his best friend—a mining pal of 20 years—hammered nails into the coffin in between jests with the man whose wooden casket was closing about him.

"When the poor fellow finally did die they had to blast a hole in the solid rock to make a grave for the coffin."

Charlie Farrell and the Fox company have abandoned each other by mutual consent. Charlie hasn't been any too pleased for years to be the lesser paid and less featured member of the team of Gaynor & Farrell and he particularly didn't like the part in their last film, "Tess of the Storm Country," in which Janet was the daring heroine and Charlie the poor fellow whom Janet saved from drowning.

Joel McCrea declined to play the same rôle with Janet because he did not want to be rescued from drowning, and for Charlie, Cape Cod boy and filmdom's nearest to a professional seaman, to be saved by a 96 pound girl didn't somehow seem logical.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Offers Police Dog Puppy.

"I have a police dog puppy I'd like to find a good home for. It is a male, two months old, thoroughbred and a nice pet. I should like some one who has a large yard to get him.

"MRS. J. G."

Here's a grand offer for the individual looking for a new pet. This police dog has all the requisites of an ideal one and you'll be sure to like him. Write me if you'd like to have him.

Charlie Ruggles this week received a letter from a broker in titles, who said he was able to offer the actor a guaranteed and authentic 200 year old title of baron. He put the letter in his file of jokes.

Randolph Scott is cast for the lead opposite Kate Smith in her starring picture, as yet untitled, for Paramount. Jerry Tucker, child actor, and Charley Grapewin also are cast for this film.

Ninetta Sunderland, who in private life is Mrs. Walter Huston, today signed to play her first film part in "Sweepings," the story about the Chicago fire, at R-K-O. She is a young stage actress.

Sidney Fox is not going to keep on working for Universal when her contract expires. She's at present in Germany making a film with Jannings, on loan for the Universal company, but leaves their employ before Jan. 1.

Watercress Is Relatively Low in Calory Value

But It Makes Delightful Garnish or Salad.

BY MARY MEADE.

The first query today is from Mrs. R. D. H., who asks, "Will you tell me the nutritive value of watercress and suggest recipes for its use?"

Answer: Watercress has relatively little nutritive value. One-half cup or ten pieces supplies only 4 calories and cress is correspondingly low in protein, fat, and carbohydrates. It has a very small quantity of calcium and iron, and only traces of vitamins A, B, D, and E. It is used principally for its flavor, which is spicy and well liked. Use it as an edible garnish on molded salads, meat or fish loaves, or cold meat platters. Chop it fine and sprinkle over the top of cream soups just before serving. Blend one-half cup finely minced watercress with one-half pound butter, add two teaspoons of lemon juice, one tablespoon of water and a dash of peppery sauce and use as a sandwich spread. Or for a salad, crisp the cress and serve alone or under fresh fruit with a fruit French dressing over all.

Next from Miss F. Z., who says, "My mother makes wheat bread in her old fashioned way; she has no recipe for it, always using her own judgment. I've made it several times for her, but every time we make it the crust cracks and the bread does not rise properly. We grind the flour for the bread ourselves, using the whole kernels of rye and wheat and grinding them together. Then we add an equal part of plain bread flour, also water and yeast. What could cause the cracks and the flatness?"

I'm sorry, Miss Z., but it's almost impossible to put one's finger on a fault when "judgment" is used in the measurements and no tested, standard recipe. This may not be your difficulty at all, but as a rule bread cracks when the oven has been too hot at first and the dough has baked over the top before it has risen. Dough may fail to raise and give a good bulk in bread for a number of different reasons. The yeast may have been injured or destroyed by becoming too warm some time before baking. There may be either too little yeast in the bread or too little time given to proofing or raising it before it went into the oven, where the strong heat, of course, soon destroys the yeast plant. I am sending you a recipe for whole wheat bread in which you may still use your combination of flours, but can combine them more scientifically and with always the same amount of other ingredients, and always with the same method. Guessing on recipes is usually more costly in the long run than any other one mistake we make in cooking.

Another difficulty turns up in the kitchen of Miss D. D. She writes: "I have trouble when boiling milk with maple sirup or white corn sirup. The milk invariably curdles when the boiling point is reached. I use the best of ingredients and stir them constantly, but, like oil and water, they simply won't mix. Can you offer a suggestion?"

Yes, the reason that milk and maple sirup or corn sirup are likely to curdle when heated together is that the sirup is not as completely refined as is granulated sugar, and certain of the impurities in it remain in the form of acids. When the milk is heated these acids act on the proteins in the milk and, as we say in chemistry, precipitate them out of the liquid part of the milk. The answer is to counteract the acidity in the sirup. Soda is the best for this, one-third to one-half teaspoon being added at the start of the heating for each cup of sirup used. This amount may vary, since different sirups have different amounts of acid in them.

GASOLINE ALLEY—LOST AND FOUND

Switch Dates to Arrange for Princeton Play

Society Arranges Schedule to Leave Evening Free.

Jessie Bond of Lexington, Ky., who is visiting her sister, Mrs. Roy Carruthers of the Drake hotel.

James H. Douglas Jr. arrives from Washington this morning—Mrs. Douglas came Wednesday for the Bachelors and Benedicts' ball and to spend Thanksgiving with her parents, the Robert G. McGanns—and he and his wife will celebrate their fifth wedding anniversary with a dinner dance tonight for some of the "young marrieds" who have missed the Douglases since his duties as assistant secretary of the treasury took them to the capital last summer.

The party tonight is to be at Mr. Douglas' mother's residence in Lake Forest. The Douglases, who will return east on Monday, will not be in Chicago for Christmas, for Mrs. Douglas Sr. will spend that holiday with them in Washington, and the McGanns will be in California. They are leaving this coming week to spend the winter at their residence in Santa Barbara.

Dance Tonight for Debutantes.

The debutante set will dance tonight at the Casino where Mrs. Joseph E. Otis is giving a party for her niece, Miss Barbara Eldridge. Before the dance Miss Eldridge's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Eldridge, will give a dinner for their daughter at their residence, 1244 Stone street.

The Charles S. Deweys are having a few guests to dinner tonight at their residence, 1507 State parkway, for the Polish ambassador, Tytus Filipowicz, who arrives this morning from Washington to visit the Polish consul, Titus Zbyszewski, of 999 Lake Shore drive.

The dinner guests will be the Polish consul, M. René Weiller, the French consul, and Mme. Weiller, and the Chauncey McCormicks. The party later will attend a ball the Polish students of the city are giving at the Knickerbocker hotel for the benefit of their scholarship fund.

Today at noon Mrs. Dewey will act as hostess at a luncheon the University of Chicago will give in Judson hall for some of the prominent citizens of the city. After luncheon the guests will tour International house.

Many of the friends of the former Elizabeth Baker will be driving west to Geneva tomorrow afternoon to a tea that Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Fauntleroy will give for her and her husband, Dr. Inglis Folger Frost of Morristown, N. J., who arrived yesterday for a week's visit with the Fauntleroys.

Mrs. Frost, who is Mrs. Fauntleroy's daughter, was a popular member of the younger set in Chicago before she was married a year ago last July to the young eastern surgeon, and she was commissioner of the Chicago council of the Girl Scouts.

Assisting tomorrow afternoon will be Mrs. Gorton Fauntleroy, Mrs. Albert Newcombe, Mrs. William D. Bangs, Mrs. John E. Kuhns, Mrs. Walter Wood, Mrs. Joy Morton II., Mrs. Charles P. Rockwood and Mrs. George Overton, all of Geneva.

Luncheon for 'Larry' Doyles

Miss Harriet McLaughlin will be hostess at a luncheon at the Saddle and Cycle club tomorrow for the "Larry" Doyles of New York, who are visiting Miss McLaughlin's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Frederic McLaughlin II.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert B. Dewey Jr., who have been away from Chicago for more than a year, will arrive this morning to be the week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Byron S. Harvey in Lake Forest. They will attend the dinner dance which Roger Hyatt is to give at his Lake Forest residence tonight and tomorrow. Mrs. Harvey is to take them to the Onwentsia Hunt club at Milburn for luncheon.

Vicki Baum will repeat her delightful lecture entitled "Looking at Life" tomorrow evening for the members of the Arts club and their guests after a supper the club will give for the charming little German writer. Reservations for as many [about 200] as can be accommodated at the club were made almost as soon as the announcements for the party were out, testifying to the popularity of the guest.

Among those who will entertain guests will be the new president and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Barney Goodspeed [at whose table Mme. Baum will sit], Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Hamill, Miss Eleanor Holden, the Herbert Bradleys, Mrs. Pauline Palmer, Miss Agnes Foreman, Mrs. Welch Dickinson, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Stock, Mrs. Henry Reuss, Mrs. John F. Bass, Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Leight, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin M. Miller and Miss Emily Larned.

Tonight the Charles H. Chadwicks are giving a dinner for Mme. Baum at their residence, 209 Lake Shore drive, later taking their guests somewhere to dance, for Mme. Baum is very keen about dancing—"with good dancers," however, as she tells her hostesses in her charming manner.

The Renaissance society will give a tea tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock in Ida Noyes hall of the University of Chicago for Cyril Johnston of England whose firm created the Laura Spelman Rockefeller carillon just installed at the university. Mr. Johnston will speak, after which Kamill Lafevre will give a carillon concert.

Hats Stay On at Symphony.

How greatly the regular subscribers to the Friday afternoon symphony concerts approve of the action the board of directors of the Chicago Symphony orchestra took last week in rescinding the rule that all hats must be removed, was demonstrated at yesterday's concert for almost every woman in Orchestra hall left on her hat.

Members of the Friday audiences have been reprimanded several times by Mr. Stock for what he considered their bad manners—thereby causing plenty of discussion pro and con as to whether he was unjust in his criticisms—but yesterday those who were late and had to wait in the foyer until the end of the first number had to be "ssh-ed" in a very loud tone of voice by one of the management for the noise the two score or more women were making.

And there could be no difference of opinion about whether that criticism was justified for the women apparently had forgotten entirely that music was being played on the other side of the closed doors and everyone there felt guilty and that she deserved a rebuke.

The Army and Navy club's cabaret dinner dance tonight to mark the formal opening of the club's new quarters in the Lake Shore Athletic club will be attended by 300 or more members and guests of the organization.

Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, commander of the Sixth Corps area, and Rear Admiral Wat T. Cluverius, commandant at Great Lakes, will be special guests.

Among the groups which will be represented are units of the regular army and navy, the National Guard, the Army and Naval Officers' Reserve corps, the Military Order of the World War, Sojourners and Military Intelligence association.

The Alliance Française will meet at noon today in its quarters in the Fine Arts building to hear a lecture by M. Phillipe Soupault on "The New Tendencies of Art in France."

Skin Responds to Daily Use of a Good Nourishing Cream

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

"Skin specialists say the skin does not absorb creams and skin foods, or the ointments recommended," writes Meta. "But I wish they'd explain this phenomenon.

"I neglected my skin for awhile. It looked it, too. Then, one day I started in again. I washed my face with soap and water. I dried it. A few minutes later I put on what is known as a nourishing cream. I went on about my business, which happened to be listening to a radio speaker for about fifteen minutes. Then, I took a look at my face. The cream had disappeared somewhere. Certainly it didn't blow away. But it was gone and I'll eat my hat or it did penetrate the pores."

"The 'feel' of my face was soft and grand where before I put on that cream it was leathery to the touch. This isn't the first time this has happened. Maybe the skin specialists are right. Maybe it doesn't penetrate—but what becomes of it, then?"

I say with Meta, too—tell us what happens! I can't be convinced that it is only a superficial oiling we get out of the experiment. Any time you put a good, rich cream or a good facial oil on a dry skin—it disappears. Keep up the good work for days and the skin actually takes on a nourished look. It may be that it is only being oiled, after all—but, at any rate, something happens that makes the skin better.

Another defense of the face creams is the comparative state of faces used to its frequent application and those that are never treated to it. The latter, with few exceptions, look famished. At any rate, the creaming-neglected face does not have the soft, velvety finish the creamed face has. Of course, it may be that the massage required in applying the cream stirs up the blood and the nourishing work is done in this way. However, I don't think the argument so important as that we get results, and we women know that we feel results with the use of creams.

Fifty million of us dabbing away at this occupation couldn't be wrong, now, could we? My motto is: "Don't argue with our opponents. Go ahead and use the stuff so long as it makes us feel better—and look it."

WEDDING

The marriage of Miss Helen Anna Malloy, daughter of Mrs. Estelle Malloy of 935 Latrobe avenue, to David Aloysius Sprigings of Boston will be solemnized at 9:30 o'clock this morning at St. Odilo's church in Berwyn. After a wedding trip in the south the bride and bridegroom will reside in Boston.

A Few Families Cling to Prairie Ave. Splendor

Hold Out After Years of Many Changes.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

A warm afternoon the summer of 1893. Two dapple grays are pulled to an abrupt halt in front of George M. Pullman's Prairie avenue house. Six Victorian ladies stiff in white shirt waists and flower bedecked hats turn and gaze with one accord.

"And this, ladies, is what used to be known as millionaire's row." Bus John, a round faced little man with an unmistakable Killarney accent, was talking with the assistance of a home-made megaphone patriotically striped in red, white, and blue.

"Thar's the Pullmans. The Wirt Walkers used to live next door. Across the way, that's the Kimball house and Marshall Field's on down. He's a big merchant here in Chicago. Then there's the Armour house."

Even then, 39 years ago, Bus John was sounding the knell of the city's south side gold coast. So what of it six months hence when visitors will flock to Chicago from all corners of the globe for the Century of Progress? Will there be another Bus John to point out what "used to be millionaire's row?" Or will the last vestiges of the old glory have given way completely to rooming houses, chicken yards, hairpin factories, and publishing houses?

The recent death of Mrs. John J. Glessner, who for 50 odd years presided over the handsome granite residence at the southwest corner of Prairie and 18th, erased one more memory of the early days. Now there remain only Mrs. Robert B. Gregory, Lucius Otis, the Edwin L. Lobdells, Mrs. John E. Jenkins, Mr. Glessner, and Mrs. Philo Otis with her son, J. Sanford Otis.

And as Mrs. Otis—a woman vitally interested in the city's cultural development as was her late husband, the founder of the Apollo Musical club and trustee of the Thomas orchestra—remarked the other afternoon, "suppose we'll be leaving soon for we can't stay on indefinitely. But it's as Edgar Guest has written, 'It takes a heap o' livin' in a house to make it home,' and once you've made it home, you hate to leave—especially when it means a change from the south side to the north and from a house to an apartment."

When the Otises do leave Prairie avenue, no one will regret it more than the debutantes and younger marrieds who are entertained at Sanford Otis' parties. One young woman, an out of town guest, asked Mrs. Otis when she came to her "first" party if she might "just look."

She had never before found anything so completely Victorian—the house, four story red brick topped by a mansard roof, the high iron fence, and the carriage houses with room for at least three or four equipages. She liked the high ceilings, the golden oak finish, the green brocade walls, and the libraries on each of the four floors—and not least of all Mrs. Otis' handsome French engravings of the 16th century and her collection of old French and Russian crosses.

"Yes, there's everything from Noah to Adam in this house. It never changes but the avenue does, all of the time. In fact that is what makes life interesting down here," Mrs. Otis remarked as she looked out of the long east window of the drawing room across the corner to the foot bridge that crosses the Illinois Central railroad tracks at 18th street. With a flair of imagination—and Mrs. Otis never lacks it—she calls this the bridge of San Luis Rey.

"Why who would ever believe that we used to feed gulls in the back yard," she went on. "Just recently the Historical Society removed the Indian statue from the Pullmans' backyard [next door to the Otises]. There used to be an oak tree there that marked the site of an Indian massacre. When it died Mr. Pullman erected the statue to commemorate the event. For years it has been a landmark but it had become so weather worn the Historical Society decided to take it indoors."

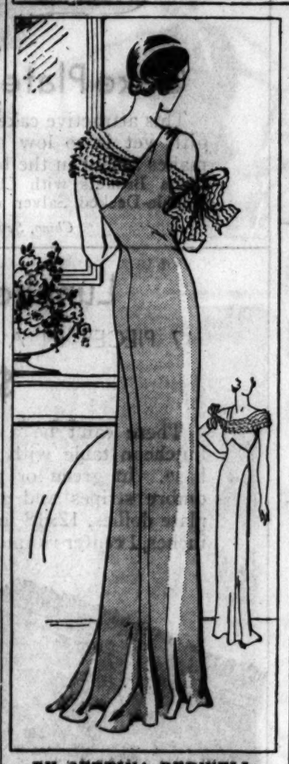
Paris Enlivens a Wine Red Frock for Evening with Flash of Vermilion



BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS. — [Special.] — Those who learn their elementary psychology in these modern times know that color plays an enormous rôle in our emotional and mental life. It might be said that color is power in the clothes we wear, and this complicates the problem of dressing for even the artist in dress. This is a season of color blending, and just the right mixture plays happily on the color sensibility of the observer of clothes as well as the one who wears them. There are three dimensions to this season's clothes color schemes, the coloring of the woman who wears them, the blending of shades in the clothes themselves and with her coloring.

Schiaparelli has been particularly adept in her color blending. She has a color harmony for evening clothes designed for the dark haired, warm skinned woman that is bound to do pleasant things to all who see it. She makes a simple, molded evening frock of wine red satin jersey. The bright luster of the material gives a subtle warmth to the color. Then she adds to this a flash of the most brilliant vermilion red, and when a dark haired girl wears this frock it proves the potency of color well assembled.

The dress, in these colors, is shown in our sketch. The bright red is given a place only on the ruffled band that makes a sort of bertha, tying over the right arm, while the rest is in wine color. The high front waistline, and the elimination of this line in back is a Schiaparelli feature.

Girl Wonders if Boy Friend Is Gift Giver

Brings Up Question of Christmas Presents.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"I have gone out with a young man since August and know him and his family well by now. There is no understanding between us that we are or ever will be engaged. Do you think he will present me with a gift for Christmas? If he does, what is the proper kind of gift for me to give him in return? I'd hate to give him something less than he'd give me and I'd hate to give him a gift at all if he didn't give me one.—E. R."

Now, that is putting gift giving on a basis that is utterly distasteful. Outsmarting the other one on his or her gift. It has nothing to do with the Christmas spirit. Nothing to do with any decent spirit.

But the subject of gift making to the boy friend is probably occupying feminine minds at the moment, or shortly will be. And we think there is need of a sermon on the subject. E. R.'s query about whether we think she'll get something from her boy friend indicates a common trend of the female mind. We have no way of knowing whether she is due for a gift or not. Probably not—since the average man's mind is not busily occupied with gifts for girls who pass merely as friends. Nor is there any obligation on his part to look on this distasteful "swapping" of presents in a favorable light.

Engaged couples exchange gifts. Tradition has made it an accepted custom, and finance puts the stamp of approval on this form of giving. But it is not right that girls plan on gifts from casual male friends or even from friends whose company they have shared more frequently. There is simply no rule governing the gift exchange season. But there is taste.

And taste demands that there be no embarrassing situation created such as a gift from a girl to a man who never thought of sending her one. No attention from a girl is quite so resented. We're talking not of the male synonym or the girl gift collector; we're talking of boys of character and of decent bringing up. There's no harm done if a boy voluntarily presents a girl with something and she has nothing in return to offer. Her thanks are all that are expected and required.

CHARITY GAME CHANCES FADE; PARENTS FIRM

Unite in Protest at Morgan Park.

The possibility of a Morgan Park-Mount Carmel post-season charity football game for the city high school championship became remote yesterday when the parents of 22 members of the Morgan Park public school champions informed Principal William Schoch that they would not allow their sons to participate in the contest. Only six fathers originally protested when the game was proposed last Monday.

Officials of both leagues and teams declined to state definitely that the game was off. The arguments of the officials during yesterday's conference follow:

1. That the Public School league and Morgan Park officials are willing to play, but cannot present a team against Mount Carmel because of parental objection. The two players able to represent Morgan Park would be Al Wuske and Joe Couch.

2. That the parents of Morgan Park's players believe the game should not be played because the boys have had enough football since early in September and are behind in their studies.

3. That the public school board, which approved of the contest last Wednesday, cannot force the parents to give permission.

4. That the parents also fear adverse weather conditions, which might result in injuries to the players.

Plan Final Appeal.

The meeting, held in the Chicago board of education offices, adjourned with officials agreeing that a final appeal be made to the fathers to permit their sons to play in an indoor arena. The 124th field artillery armory was proposed as a likely site.

"Dick Tweedie [Morgan Park athletic director] and I have done our utmost to bring together Morgan Park and Mount Carmel," A. H. Pritzlaff, secretary of the Chicago Public High School league, said. "Since last Monday we have had interviews with the fathers, but they have failed to relent.

"Principal Schoch of Morgan Park and the league officials are strongly in favor of the game, the proceeds to be donated to charity, but we cannot play without the fathers' consent."

Fathers File Objections.

It was revealed that the fathers met last Thursday night and yesterday morning presented their objections to Principal Schoch.

Thursday's meeting was held in the home of Gilbert Tompkins, 1718 West 104th street. Mr. Tompkins is the father of Tom Tompkins, Morgan Park quarter back.

3 BOXERS CLAIM IT WAS 3 OTHER FELLOWS IN OHIO

Piqua, O., Nov. 25.—(AP)—C. Gunther, boxing promoter, admitted today three boxers who appeared here last Wednesday night went under assumed names when three scheduled boxers failed to appear.

He asserted he did not become aware of the substitutions, which were not announced from the ring until the bouts were concluded. "They put a fast one over on me," he said.

The incident became known today when one of the missing fighters, Mickey Breen of Louisville, announced he was at his home recuperating from a blood infusion to a hospital patient at the time newspaper dispatches said he was knocked out at Piqua.

Confronted with that information Gunther let it be known that Joe Pagalina of Piqua also had been reported as knocking out Howard Jones of Huntington, W. Va., when neither fighter was in Piqua.

K. E. Shofstall, chairman of the Piqua boxing commission, said he received his first information of the substitutions today. He promised an investigation, saying neither he nor Gunther knew either Breen or Jones personally and therefore could not detect the change at the time.

Neither attempted to explain the failure to identify the man who replaced Pagalina.

JOE LAWS MOST VALUABLE PLAYER ON IOWA ELEVEN

His Runs Brighten Dismal Season.

Iowa City, Ia., Nov. 25.—[Special.]—Joe R. Laws, senior full back who may cheat the four year rule and play another season of football for the University of Iowa, has been chosen by his teammates as the most valuable Hawkeye player. He will receive the CHICAGO TRIBUNE white gold watch fob and becomes a candidate for THE TRIBUNE'S ninth annual silver football trophy.

After two years of experience on the varsity squad, Laws hit his stride last season and does not mean to be deprived of another opportunity to play collegiate football. He did not play in any game in 1930.

The Colfax, Ia., athlete has another semester of work to complete before he can receive his bachelor of science degree from the university, and has decided to stretch it into two full terms.

Brightens Dismal Season.

Laws' sparkling runs in the 1932 Iowa games contributed the few bright spots to an otherwise dismal season. In six games he made 231 yards, averaging four yards from scrimmage. He has been the most consistent ground gainer of any regular back field man. He also ranks as Iowa's leading scorer, with three touchdowns and one converted point by a place kick.

Laws started the 1932 season with a shoulder bruise which kept him out of the Bradley Tech and Wisconsin games. In the George Washington game at Washington, D. C., Laws made the longest Iowa run for a touchdown of the season when he returned a kickoff 75 yards. In the Nebraska game Laws took a lateral pass and traveled 53 yards to the seven yard line, thus paving the way for Iowa's second touchdown of the 14 to 13 defeat.

Likely Quarter Back in 1933.

When he returns to the university for further competition next fall it is likely that Laws will have an opportunity to call signals for the Hawkeye team. Coach Ossie Solem found him a valuable quarter back in the last two games and alternated him with George Teyro at that position. He also shared in the forward passing and is a fair kicker.

Had Laws chosen to eliminate all the outside work which he does to help defray expenses he could have completed a full schedule of school work and received his degree at the end of the present semester. This would have meant that Iowa would have lost one of its best outfielders on the baseball team.

Laws has won one baseball and two football letters, and is regarded as the pick of the fielding talent for the 1933 baseball team.

He is 21 years old, weighs 176 pounds, and is 5 feet 9 inches tall. He was born at Colfax, Ia., and competed in high school football, basketball and track there. During his high school athletic career, however, he weighed only about 140 pounds and was regarded as too light for Big Ten football when he entered Iowa.

In the Wake of the News

FOOTBALL FORECAST.

TWO important football contests are on today's late season card—Notre Dame and Army at New York and Stanford at Pittsburgh in an intersectional fray. Naturally, the New York game will command greater interest here because of a wide Notre Dame following.

Army generally has been made favorite over Notre Dame for this annual contest. Perhaps that is a correct appraisal, on the basis of comparative scores against Pittsburgh, yet The Wake rates the two elevens on an equality. We'll even go farther in our forecast and play our "hunch" that the Irish, somewhat under fire all season, will rise to the occasion and turn the trick.

The discouraging thing about picking Notre Dame is that Northwestern so effectually stopped its running attack. Furthermore, so far, no player in the back field has shown himself a Marchy Schwartz, Christy Flanagan or Jack Elder. How much recent illness will handicap Notre Dame players also is a problem. We have been receiving the best brand of gloom from Notre Dame.

Pittsburgh beat Army, 18-13, in a ding-dong battle. Pittsburgh beat Notre Dame in the last period, 12 to 0, after being outplayed in the early stages. The second touchdown was the outgrowth of the first. On that form of reasoning, the elevens could be called equal, even by comparative scores.

Pittsburgh, which meets Stanford, probably reached its peak in preparation for Army and Notre Dame. It still is unbeaten, but has been tied by Ohio State and Nebraska, and beat Carnegie Tech in heavy going only 6 to 0. Stanford has lost to Southern California, U. C. L. A., and Washington State, and been tied by California. Forecast for today:

Notre Dame, 18; Army, 7.
Pittsburgh, 12; Stanford, 6.
Colorado Aggies, 20; Wyoming, 6.
Duke, 19; Washington-Lee, 0.
Georgia Tech, 13; Georgia, 7.
Gonzaga, 7; Montana, 0.
Holy Cross, 7; Boston College, 0.
Tulane, 20; Louisiana, 7.
Loyola [L. A.], 7; Santa Clara, 0.
Marquette, 20; Drake, 6.
Rice, 13; Baylor, 0.
Texas Christian, 20; Southern Methodist, 7.
West Virginia, 7; W. & J., 0.

Yes, I Know.

When his band he lowers from above,
Guiding to comrade love
Your soul, for that judgment day
Where all shall sit in open array,
Give to me the remaining dust, your clay,
For not a single thought will ever fade
With the turning earth, that spades your grave.

Let ivy cling about my heart
And weave the wreath of memory's start.
—Or in an urn upon thy shelf, your dust shall rest,
When at twilight I might hold you and caress,
Knowing life is not ended as our sun dips west;
Feel your presence near, as long shadows haze the atmosphere;
Feel your arms about me close—never let me go
—Only let the west wind blow!
For then is when we shall be born again!

Football Retrospect.

On the Thanksgiving day football forecast The Wake had 16 winners, 7 losers, and 3 games resulted in ties. Although elevens are more evenly matched in these final games, it is possible that we, like some of the teams, are "going stale." Season to date: 376 winners, 101 losers, 42 ties.

Gottselig Is Different; He Held Off Playing Hockey

[This is the seventh of a series of sketches on members of the Blackhawk hockey team.]

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The recognized formula in interviewing hockey players requires that the following be question No. 1:

"How old were you when you got your first pair of skates and started playing hockey?"

In 9,999 instances out of 10,000 the hockey player will smile a whimsical smile and you can just see his alert mind racing back to his childhood.

"I was six years old," he will tell you.

Later you will learn about junior championships won on outdoor rinks at 30 degrees below zero, but your first shot will be that the subject of your interview was six years old when he first started playing hockey.

Now Johnny Waited Until He Was Sixteen.

All of which makes Johnny Gottselig, whom many consider the Blackhawks' best forward, a standout. John Peter Gottselig, now 26 years old, never had a pair of skates on until 10 years ago.

Strangely enough, though, Johnny started fiddling around with a hockey stick years before he acquired his first skates. Residents of Regina, Sask., afflicted with corns or bunions were almost afraid to step out on the sidewalk for fear "that Gottselig boy" would whang 'em one with his puck.

Another way in which Gottselig crosses up the hockey interview routine is in the matter of nationality. Most hockey players are of either Scotch lineage or French, with a background of one or two generations of Canadian environments.

Gottselig's parents were German peasants, who were Franco-German war refugees to Russia. Johnny was born in Odessa, Russia, whence his parents had fled. The stay in Russia was short, however, and when Johnny was three months old he was a resident of Regina, which has been his home ever since. He is a bachelor [at this writing] and in the off season lives with his mother on the family farm near Regina.

Gottselig played his last minor league hockey with the Winnipeg Maroons in 1927-'28 and the Hawks purchased him outright from that team.

Johnny Can Pitch Some Baseball, Too.

Johnny has led the Hawks in scoring the last two seasons. Last year he was eighth in the league. The year before he was sixth. During the season of 1929-30 Gottselig was second to Tommy Cook among the Hawk scorers.

ALL-AROUND MAN

JOHNNY GOTTSELIG.

Besides hockey, Gottselig has played baseball, rugby, and basketball. He also has made a 185 average in a full season of bowling.

Gottselig uses Mush March, his teammate, for eyewitness testimony about his prowess as a baseball pitcher.

As a member of the Regina Winners, Gottselig pitched and won both games of a double header to win the Saskatchewan provincial championship. The first eight innings of the first game saw none of Johnny's adversaries reach first. There was a single in the ninth and that incident was all that kept our hero from pitching a perfect game. But that wasn't all. Johnny came back in the second game and won in 13 innings, going all the way for the eventual win.

Gottselig is a graduate of St. John's, Edmonton, having fled from there with an A. B. degree.

17 NAVY PLAYERS TO WATCH ARMY AND NOTRE DAME

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Seventeen Naval academy varsity football players left today for New York, where they will witness the Army-Notre Dame game.

As the Middies use the Notre Dame system of play, they hope to see how it, as used by the Irish, works against Army. Navy plays Army in Philadelphia the following week.

PRINCETON ADDS BASKETBALL TO CRISLER'S DUTIES

Ill Health Forces Wittmer to Yield Job.

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Herbert Orin [Fritz] Crisler, who has just completed his first season as head football coach at Princeton, today was named to succeed Al Wittmer as coach of the Tiger basketball team.

Wittmer, Princeton football coach until he was replaced by Crisler, surrendered the basketball coaching job because of continued ill health.

Wittmer's Record Good.

Wittmer was captain and guard of the 1922 Princeton five which won the eastern intercollegiate league championship and had been head coach of the sport since 1924. His 1925 and 1932 teams won the league title and those of 1927 and 1928 tied for first place but lost in the playoff.

Crisler started his basketball career as a guard on the University of Chicago team of 1919 in the second Big Ten conference game of that season and thereafter did not miss a conference game for the rest of his college career. He was captain in 1921 and a member of the all-conference teams of 1920 and 1921.

Served Under Stagg.

Upon his graduation, Crisler served under Amos Alonzo Stagg at Chicago as assistant basketball, football, and baseball coach. In 1925 he became head basketball coach and assistant director of athletics. He held those posts until he went to the University of Minnesota in 1930.

ROSS FLOORS FARR 4 TIMES; TAKES DECISION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 25.—Barney Ross, Chicago lightweight, removed another trial horse from his path to the title tonight by hammering Johnny Farr of Cleveland, O., for a ten round decision in the feature bout of a show in the Milwaukee auditorium.

Ross, who came in at 135 pounds, a half pound under the figure of his opponent, had the advantage in height, reach and youth. He won as he pleased, sending the Ohio veteran to the canvas for nine counts in the third, seventh, eighth and ninth rounds. Barney was striving for the 17th knockout of his professional career.

Farr caught dozens of solid right hand punches on the jaw and lost every round but showed remarkable stamina with an offensive flurry in the tenth. Johnny was groggy and hanging on throughout most of the eighth.

RETZLAFF-WINE FIGHT HALTED; IT'S NO CONTEST

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 25.—(AP)—The heavyweight bout between Charlie Retzlaff of Duluth and Frankie Wine of Billings, Mont., was ended after six rounds tonight and declared "no contest" by Referee Bob Sage, acting with the approval of Boxing Commissioner Al Day.

Sage said he acted when he became convinced Retzlaff was not trying. After warning both fighters near the end of the sixth round that they must speed up the bout, Sage stepped between them and ordered them to their corners. Commissioner Day gave his approval to the unexpected termination of the match. Retzlaff weighed 196½; Wine, 192½.

In the semi-windup, Billy Jones, Philadelphia, and Charlie Belanger, Winnipeg, fought to a ten round draw.

ARMY INDICATES IT WOULD PASS ROSE BOWL BID

New York, Nov. 25.—[Special.]—Although declining to make any statement in the absence of any official action, West Point authorities, it was indicated today, will not consider an invitation to send Army's football team to Pasadena for the Tournament of Roses game, Jan. 2, regardless of the outcome of the Notre Dame game tomorrow.

CADETS SORRY FLU HANDICAPS FOE; WARY, TOO

Know There'll Be 11 Irish on Field.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 25.—After a night of conversational football by the old grads and the champion chasers attached to both sides of the controversy, the Army and Notre Dame football teams will sweep onto the field at the Yankee stadium tomorrow afternoon for the eighteenth game between the schools with about $300,000 worth of trade in the stands.

The Yankee stadium holds approximately 80,000 people for a football game, and the ticket sale for this one, after a dawdling start, came on with a rush to strip the racks of the business offices at West Point and South Bend. For the first time this year in the east the demand ran far ahead of the supply, and this evening fell on its face and lay bawling for more admissions.

Air of Mystery About Camps.

There was an air of mystery about both of the actual football camps, and a suspicion existed that both Maj. Ralph Sasse, the Army's head coach, and Hunk Anderson, who pulled the mantle of Knute Rockne over him and has yet to prove that he is not lost in its folds, had revised the familiar routines of their teams. The Army of recent years has been solving that distinctive type of football played by the Notre Dame teams, known to the trade as "Rockne stuff," and this year's team is thoroughly familiar with the movements.

Maj. Sasse closed the Army's practice to all outsiders for a week preceding this game, an unusual way to do at West Point, where the practice generally has been open, if not to the general public, at least to guests. But if the West Pointers have come to recognize Rockne stuff by the preliminary movements, the Notre Dame players should be almost as well acquainted with the West Point formula, and for this particular game originality is the need on both sides.

Far from Scene of Game.

Both squads spent the night in suburban Westchester county, but the Notre Dame quarters were fairly accessible at the Westchester Country club, in the town of Rye, whereas the Cadet team was sequestered in Briar Cliffe lodge, a retreat selected for, among other attractions, its remoteness. There Maj. Sasse and two assistant coaches, Red Blaik and Fats Ellinger, spent the night with the West Point players after running them through nominal exercises during the afternoon.

The practice consisted of a short drill in their signals and some defensive practice against the sort of Notre Dame passes which the Army has learned to expect through past experience. After that the squad went walking over the hills with the coaches and during the evening they were protected from arm pinchers, back slappers and the other varieties of pests before being put to bed. In fact, no felon doomed to hang on the morrow has been more solicitously guarded than the Army team on the eve of this renewal of the feud with the Army's No. 2 rival, Notre Dame.

Suggestion of Sorrow.

There was a distinctly tart flavor to the communications issued from both sides, something new in the relations between Army and Notre Dame who hitherto have been just big, rough, good natured pals in their rivalry.

For Maj. Sasse it was given out that the West Point squad by rare good fortune had escaped the influenza epidemic which had inflicted such an unhappy handicap on Notre Dame, a reference to the colds complained of in dispatches from South Bend this week on behalf of Melinkovich, Harris, Vairo, and Murphy. The Army, worse luck, could not submit a doctor's certificate in extenuation of anything that might happen to the team tomorrow afternoon with all those witnesses present, and there was a suggestion that West Point sorrowed for Notre Dame in the present affliction.

Why Irish Shouldn't Win.

From Notre Dame, under the signature of the household press agent, came a mournful communication full of reasons wh. Notre Dame should not be expected to win the football game, although the athletes, of course, were ready, as usual, to give their all, and somehow might come through. This lugubricus letter closed with a reminder that the Army had had three weeks of almost complete rest inasmuch as the last two games at West Point were not actual contests, but

CURACAO LEADS FIELD BY HALF LENGTH AT BOWIE

Scout Master Is Second; Merry Fox Third.

Bowie, Md., Nov. 25.—[Special.]—The Greentree stable's Curacao, taking the lead from St. Omar after passing the far turn, led a field of eleven by a half length at the finish of the Mount Vista purse at Bowie today. The gelding was well ridden by R. Jones. C. N. Thierot's Scout Master was second and J. McPherson's Merry Fox third, three lengths separating the last two.

This race was the feature of a card witnessed by a crowd of 10,000. The time for a mile and seventy yards was 1:45 4-5.

St. Omar Sets Early Pace.

St. Omar retired after setting a fast early pace. The three horses in the money were 3 year olds. Curacao was a heavily backed favorite, paying $4.30.

The Point carried Mrs. Roy Pollard's colors to a length victory in the fourth race. Hanford was in the saddle. Stock Market was second and a half a length away. Prometheus finished third, a head in front of Some Knight. The time was 1:12 4-5 for six furlongs. Irene's Bob led the field to the turn for the stretch and quit. The winner paid $8.70.

Knight's Gal Beats Zorana.

Knight's Gal, coupled with Merry Chatter as the Audley farm entry, won the third race, for 2 year old fillies, at six furlongs, by a half length from W. N. Adrian's Zorana.

Mrs. G. G. Seglin's Cutie Face was third. The entry paid $5.10. The time was 1:12 4-5.

R. Martin had trouble getting in the clear with Knight's Gal, but in the stretch caught Zorana. Merry Chatter followed Happy Knot to the far turn with Cutie Face third. Knight's Gal came around the leaders.

Eleven all aged horses foaled in Maryland started in the second race. Howard Bruce's Avalon led all the way and beat the favorite Boscobel by a length and a half with Robertson applying the whip when Boscobel got through and attempted to get to the leader. Bokie B. was third, a length back and a neck in front of Buck Hero. Only Avalon and Boscobel were backed extensively. The time was 1:46 4-5 for a mile and seventy yards. The winner paid $5.38.

Kummel Wins Opener.

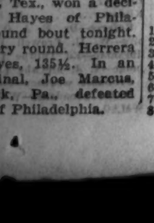
Mrs. John D. Hertz's colt, Kummel, Steffen in the saddle, disposed of Sand Runner early and beat Risneur by a length in the first race for maiden 2 year olds. G. V. Whitney's Black Sheep was third.

HAPPY WARRIOR WINS

New Orleans, La., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Climaxing a day of triumphs for the outsiders, C. S. Mitchell's Happy Warrior, a three year old son of Man o' War, won the six furlong feature race for claimers at Jefferson Park. The son of the "super horse," neglected in the betting until he paid $35.40 for $2, defeated Fred Seremba's Anne L., with C. H. Knebelkamp's Newgro third.

PICK CHICAGOAN AS PROBABLE NEW U. S. L. T. A. HEAD

New York, Nov. 25.—[Special.]—Harry S. Knox of Chicago today was named as the probable successor to Louis J. Carruthers as president of the United States Lawn Tennis association. Knox has been first vice president for two years and is an outstanding tennis figure in the central states. The new president will be named Feb. 11 at the annual meeting of the association in New York.



HARRY S. KNOX.

Carruthers, who has been head of the association for the last two years, will not accept a third term in office, it was learned today. He has informed the U. S. L. T. A. that he wishes to devote more time to his business.

HOLY CROSS GETS CLEAN BILL FROM BROWN PRESIDENT

Providence, R. I., Nov. 25.—[Special.]—Dr. Clarence A. Barbour, president of Brown university, in a telegram sent today to President Fox of Holy Cross college denied the charges of unsportsmanlike play made by the Brown Jug, student publication, against the Holy Cross players following their defeat by Brown.

The Brown Jug demanded the severance of athletic relations with Holy Cross, contending that players of the latter team had mauled their opponents during the game. Dr. Barbour, in his telegram, stated that the article in no way represented the feelings of the Brown administration, team or student body.

Carleton Coach Signs as River Falls Director

River Falls, Wis., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Osborne Cowles, former basketball coach at Carleton college, Northfield, Minn., was appointed athletic director at River Falls State Teachers' college today. In addition to administrative duties, he will coach all sports. Cowles will succeed Carl Klandrud, who resigned to coach Wisconsin Rapids, Wis., High school.

Herrera Gets Decision Over Hayes in 10 Rounds

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Tony Herrera of El Paso, Tex., won a decision over Johnny Hayes of Philadelphia in a 10 round bout tonight. The Texan took every round. Herrera weighed 120½; Hayes, 135½. In an eight round semi-final, Joe Marcus, 130½, of Braddock, Pa., defeated Jackie Willis, 132, of Philadelphia.

Clothes Make Lawyer Out of This Bird!

BY BOB BECKER.

Our common birds sometimes are given unusual names, but there is one bird seen by hundreds of duck hunters every fall along the Illinois river which takes the blue ribbon. This is the cormorant or nigger goose, which in the southeastern part of the United States is called Bogue Sound Lawyer.

The cormorant is a strong, dark bird which in flight appears to be a large duck or goose. Its somber plumage suggests the flowing long tailed black coats long affected by lawyers in southern country towns. Thus, it was easy for the natives of North Carolina to think up the name of Bogue Sound Lawyer inasmuch as the long necked cormorants are common in the vicinity of Bogue sound.

One Glance Is Enough.

Every fall when we visit the lower Illinois duck country we see large flocks of cormorants flying over the marshes. Occasionally they will catch us napping in a blind and approach without being seen until they are right on top of us. Then there is a nervous hasty reach for the shotgun. However, one glance and we relax. One look is enough to identify this dark, long necked water bird which has an even, unhurried flight over a marsh.

Along the Illinois flights of these birds make an interesting picture in the lowlands. As a rule they have a favorite roosting spot in a stretch of dead timber. Therefore, you will see hundreds of the birds coming out of their roosts in the mornings. Again, late in the day they file across the sky to return to their rendezvous.

Have Own Formation.

The cormorants have quite a distinctive flight formation, too. At a distance one may mistake the flock for wild geese. Close inspection of the formation will quickly tell the hunter what the bird is. For example, blackbirds and starlings fly in solid groups. Robins straggle along in a loose formation. The cormorant, however, puts a little military stuff in his aerial work. Sometimes flocks of these birds will move in columns or single file, or again in ranks, each bird abreast of his neighbor. We have watched the lines slowly wave up and down. Sometimes one part of the flock may move slightly ahead of the rest of the flock, but the general flight formation usually is maintained.

Cormorants live largely on fish. Just like their near relatives the water turkeys, they get their meals by pursuing fish under water. Along the Illinois and the Sangamon the many shallow bayous and ponds give them excellent fishing grounds.

Novice Swimmers Compete Tonight in I. W. A. C. Meet

The sixth annual novice swimming meet for girls at the Illinois Women's Athletic club pool tonight has attracted the largest field in the history of the event. Many promising swimmers will make their competitive debuts.

The meet is open to all girls who have not finished first, second, or third in a recognized meet. It is scheduled at this early date for the purpose of discovering new talent for the Central A. A. U. championships.

Approximately one-third of the entries have been received from Austin, Schurz, New Trier, Calumet, Hyde Park, Roosevelt, Marshall, and Whiting, Ind., high schools, from which 125 girls have filed entries. Aurora, Joliet, Waukegan, Gary, and Wheaton also will be represented.

Londos Throws Stecher from Ring to Win Match

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Jim Londos made a successful, if not brilliant, defense of his heavyweight wrestling title tonight by defeating Joe Stecher of Nebraska, scissors specialist, in 47 minutes and 14 seconds. The end came soon after Londos, weighing 200, pitched Stecher from the ring, rendering the latter so groggy he was an easy victim. Stecher weighed 225.

Young Geno Is Promised Title Bout

Young Geno, who fights Tommy Paul, world's featherweight champion, at White City Monday night, can have a return bout with Paul's title at stake if he wins the decision in Monday's battle.

Jack Singer, manager of the champion, promised Mique Malloy to let Paul come in at the 126 pound limit with Geno in a return match. Geno's stock went up with his victory over Roger Bernard in Detroit several days ago. The La Salle lad, who claims the state featherweight title, stopped Bernard in five rounds. Bernard has victories over Barney Ross and Harry Dublinsky.

Paul is a stocky built Italian who punches well with both hands. He is making his first appearance in Chicago. Paul is training at Trafton's gym on Randolph street. Geno established headquarters at Howard's gym today. Five preliminary bouts with Patsy Flanagan in one of them will support the card.

Part of the proceeds of the show goes to the St. Leo parish Christmas fund.

COURT CAPTAIN AT ST. JOSEPH'S FRACTURES ARM

Rock Island, Ill., Nov. 25.—[Special.]—The charity football game played here Thanksgiving day by Rock Island and St. Joseph's High schools proved costly for St. Joseph's as William Unger, quarter back and captain elect of the basketball team, sustained a fracture of his left arm.

He will be lost for the 1932-'33 basketball season, further crippling the parochial school team, which now has only two letter men left.

Berwyn Elevens Will Try 12 Man Football

Twelve man football, introduced on the Pacific coast recently, will receive a trial tomorrow at 31st street and East avenue, Berwyn, when the Oak Park Rookies play the Berwyn Legion Parrots. The extra man is a quarter back who calls the plays and then retires to the side lines.

FLU KNOCKS OUT LEVINSKY; SEEK FOE FOR CARNERA

May Obtain Poreda for Stadium Bout.

King Levinsky, Chicago heavyweight, will be unable to meet Primo Carnera at the Chicago Stadium next Wednesday, due to an attack of influenza, it was learned yesterday. Nate Lewis, Stadium matchmaker, is attempting to obtain Stanley Poreda, Jersey City, N. J., to substitute for Levinsky against Carnera on Wednesday.

In the event Poreda is not obtainable the Levinsky-Carnera match will be postponed for a week. Mrs. Lena Levy, sister-manager of King, also is ill with the flu.

After a workout Tuesday at George Trafton's gymnasium Levinsky was ordered to bed. Dr. W. M. Sherin said Levinsky may be able to leave his bed by Monday.

Negotiation for a match involving Jackie Fields in a defense of his welterweight title at the Coliseum on Dec. 9 were dropped yesterday. Fields' manager submitted a list of opponents to the Illinois athletic commission. All were turned down except Young Stuhley of Kewanee, Ill. Stuhley requested a guarantee of $1,800 and the bout was dropped. Fields has signed to box at Los Angeles, Cal., on the Mickey Walker-Arthur DeKuh card Dec. 6. His foe may be Tommy Herman, former Chicago boxer.

Sammy Wolff has signed Willie Oster and Freddy Langford to box the six round windup at 116 West Madison street Dec. 6. Wolff intends to present weekly cards for the balance of the winter.

Three 10 round matches were made yesterday for a card at Grand Rapids, Mich., next Thursday. Jackie Sharkey, Minneapolis, Minn., featherweight, and Joey Bozak of Blue Island, Ill., meet in one. The other bouts will bring together Heinie Schmidt and Oris Mosher and Jimmy Gibbons and Jack Robinson.

Jack Roper, stablemate of Tuffy Griffith, faces Seal Harris, south side heavyweight, in a 10 round bout at Davenport, Ia., next Thursday. Gorilla Jones, former middleweight title holder, and Willie Oster meet in another bout.

The Belle Plaine Athletic club's application to stage an amateur boxing tournament was rejected yesterday by the boxing committee of the Central A. A. U. The committee announced no tournaments will be sanctioned except the Catholic Youth organization tourney until Jan. 1, 1933. At that time the new rule adopted recently to discontinue matched contests and allow only interclub and intercity matches and tournaments will be in effect.

Gunshot Wound in Hunting Mishap Costs Skier Hand

PITT-STANFORD BATTLE MATCHES PUPIL, TEACHER

Sutherland's Team Picked to Beat Warner's.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 25.—[Special.]—It will be teacher against pupil at Pittsburgh stadium tomorrow when the Pitt Panthers entertain Leland Stanford university in one of the most important intersectional games of the year. The pupil holds the position of favorite.

Jock Sutherland, coach of the Panthers, learned his football under Glenn (Pop) Warner of Stanford during the early part of this decade, when the latter coached here, and the friendly rivalry between them is such that it has communicated itself to the two teams.

It is a compliment to Warner's teaching prowess and to Sutherland's ability to learn that the Pittsburgh elevens of the Sutherland regime have ranked with the leading teams of the country. This is particularly true this year and is responsible for the fact that the Panthers will enter the game favorites tomorrow.

Pitt Still Unbeaten.

Pittsburgh is on the rapidly dwindling list of undefeated teams, although it was forced to be content with scoreless ties against Ohio State and Nebraska, after having defeated two of the most powerful teams in the country, Army and Notre Dame. On the other hand, Warner has had a poor year at Stanford, the Cardinal team having suffered three consecutive reverses against Washington State, the University of California at Los Angeles, and Southern California.

The spirit of both teams, because of the relation of their respective coaches, is willing, but the flesh is weak on both sides. Sutherland may lose the full time services of his two best ball carriers, Reider and Sebastian, although both are expected to play at some time during the battle. Reider has not fully recovered from an injury suffered earlier in the season, while Sebastian has been shipped off to a hospital room to recuperate from a severe cold by game time if possible. Warner's first and second string full backs, Hillman and Baker, also are listed as doubtful starters.

Stanford Favors Dry Field.

The Stanford eleven's main hope tonight appears to be for a dry field, since it has become accustomed to sure footing in all of its games on the coast. The Panthers don't fear the weather, for they've played on fast and slow fields and are ready for anything.

Probable starting lineups:

STANFORD.		PITT.
Colvin	L. E.	Daller or Rooker
Grey	L. T.	Cuba
Corbus	L. G.	Hartwig
Bates	C.	Tormey
Kite	R. G.	Onder
La Borde	R. T.	Walton
Boub	R. E.	Skaisdany
Campbell	Q. B.	Hogan
Sim	L. H.	Heller
Caddel	R. H.	Matesic
Hillman	F. B.	Weinstock

MAXIE IS JUST A HOLDUP MAN TO COAST COPS

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Maxie Rosenbloom, light heavyweight boxer, and his manager, Frank Bachman, may be a couple of big shots in New York, but it's different in Sacramento.

As Bachman told the story here today, they were in the state capital this week for a fight. Being strangers they asked a restaurant man to call them a cab. He called the police instead.

"First thing we knew the shotgun squad had us dated up," Bachman said. "Those cops acted like they wanted to arrest us on general principles. They said the restaurant had been held up twice one week. We were all dolled up, me with a derby hat on and Maxie in a swell new suit, yet they thought we were highway robbers. We finally convinced them we were members of the fight profession."

30,000 TO SEE FINAL FOR POLO TROPHY TODAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 25.—A crowd of 30,000 is expected to witness the final match of the international polo series between the United States and Argentina for the Cup of the Americas tomorrow. The South American team is a 4 to 3 favorite.

The North American quartet, composed of Winston Guest, Michael Phipps, William Post and Elmer Boeseke, won the first game of the series, 9 to 6, last Saturday, but the Argentine four came from behind Wednesday to win the second battle in an overtime period, 8 to 7.

Junior Elevens to Fill Big Ten Boots for Charity Today

Stagg field, where husky young men whose weights were well on the way to 200 pounds battled in Big Ten games during the last season, today will be the scene of a game between two teams of the younger and lighter generation when the Play Club Wildcats and the Beverly Hills Rangers meet in a charity contest starting at 2 o'clock. The ages of players on the two teams range from 9 to 12 years.

Don Birney, captain of the 1932 University of Chicago football team, will officiate. Sons of former Maroon players, including Jack Agar, son of John G. Agar, '17, and Robert Friend, son of Judge Hugo Friend, '05, will take part in the game, proceeds of which will be used for feeding hungry school children and infant welfare work. Admission will be 50 cents.

The probable lineup:

WILDCATS.		RANGERS.
T. Creevy	L. E.	Ragen
Hoadley	L. T.	Thomason
Cramp	L. G.	Duchouis
Eisenstadt	C.	Todd
Jones	R. G.	T. Risther
Turner	R. T.	Geoghegan

DICK TRACY—Smoldering Fire

Notre Dame Meets Army Before 80,000

outings with North Dakota and West Virginia Wesleyan.

On the Army's side, possibly as counter propaganda to this, it was admitted that the loss of Dick King, the left end, who came down with a broken ankle in the Harvard game, would reduce the Cadets' defensive strength by approximately 25 per cent, a reckoning in higher mathematics considering that there are supposed to be 11 West Pointers on the field at all times and that all of them are supposed to take part in the game defensively as well as on the attack.

Always Produce Somebody.

King is the end of whom it was said that he spent most of his time in the back field of the Pittsburgh team in the game at the military academy early in the season.

But both schools have a record for producing a football player almost as good as the stricken star whenever a big name is removed from the line-up. Rockne, when fresh out of full backs, produced an unidentified character named O'Connor to win a game in California, and when Cagle left the military academy Ray Stecker came along, to be replaced when the necessity arose by Pick Vidal.

Both Teams Outweighed.

There was some difference of opinion as to the weight of the teams, also, the South Bend letter noting that the Cadets would enjoy an average of about ten pounds more heft per man with which to push the Notre Dames around the ball yard.

The West Point communique retorted that Notre Dame would outweigh their boys by just that much in the line and almost that much in the back field. Both positions may be justified by a careful selection of the lightest eligibles from one squad and presuming that the other will play only the fat ones.

These courtesies back and forth struck a new note in the relations between the old feudists who discovered a natural rivalry in the box office shortly after the war and have exploited it since for gross receipts of well beyond a million dollars. While confessing to all around good health in the West Point team, the Army's discussion did not forbear to note that Notre Dame had much more man power from which to select a starting team and feed in substitutes.

Less Jovial Now.

All in all, the demeanor was mutually much less jovial than it was in the days when Rockne came to town and held court and sucked nervously at his cigar stumps on the night before, bantering envoys from the Army with requests to keep the score down next day, as his boys were only country boys and a bit jumpy at the prospect of playing the Army in a big city.

Football experts have been saying this year that the "Rockne stuff" is outmoded, not only through familiarity but also because the new rules have tended to disarm defensive line men. The presumption is that Rockne, who devised the system of play, would have refreshed his stuff and the suspicion at this time is that Anderson, recognizing the decadence of the system as he inherited it, has been attempting to teach his team at least some novelties which the Army will not recognize out of past experience.

The sick men of the Notre Dame team—Melinkovich, the full back; Jim Harris, a guard, and Dominic Vairo, an end—were reported to be now convalescent from their colds and available to give their all against West Point. However, none of these boys was mentioned in the probable starting lineup as given out by Anderson, which was not to say, of course, that they would be withheld throughout the game.

Those Starting Lineups.

For Notre Dame Anderson tentatively selected Kosky and Host, ends; Krause and Kurth, tackles; Schiralli and Greeney, guards; Alexander, center; Vejar, quarter back; Lukats and Sheeketski, half backs, and Banas, full back.

Maj. Sasse picked Ed Lawlor as the substitute for the lamed Dick King at left end and stood pat otherwise on the Army starting lineup which has been used in the major games this year. This includes Armstrong at left tackle; Summerfeldt, left guard; Evans, center; Jabalonsky, right guard; Lincoln, right tackle; Kopesak, right end; MacWilliam, quarter back; Buckler and Fields, half backs, and Kilday, full back.

Vidal will relieve MacWilliam at quarter back probably in the first quarter.

The corps of cadets will come down from West Point on the Jersey side of the Hudson, ferry across to Manhattan and ride to the region of the Yankee stadium in buses, forming outside for the march into the arena behind their band, one of the principal attractions of the Army-Notre Dame show for years. They will enter the premises at 1 o'clock and the interval between the parade and the kickoff at 1:45 will be devoted to the customary frivolities of the Army mule, which for this occasion will be borrowed from department headquarters at Governor's island. The Army mule has been a multitude of mules; sometimes, in New Haven, even a rented mule from the shafts of an ash wagon.

Source of Tickets a Puzzle.

The traffic in spare tickets at the agencies on Broadway raised the price to $10 for good seats and $8 for remoter positions the night before the game. The source of these tickets, as usual, was a great puzzle, assuming, naturally, that no conscientious alumnus of either school would sell his tickets to a scalper, which would be unethical.

The Army coaches scouted Notre Dame and Navy last week at Cleveland, but when it was reported that the Navy football team would come up from Annapolis to scout the Army for their game a week hence, there was a tendency to challenge the propriety of this. The Army closes the season with the Navy game in Philadelphia and will hardly be in a position to withhold anything in the Notre Dame game. In that case, if the Navy athletes do come up for the pleasure in New York, the Army probably will have very few secrets from them when they meet.

A cloudy, rainy p. m. is promised for the ball game, but there appears to be no advantage for either side in this.

40 Run Today in Cross-Country Race at Loyola

More than 40 runners, representing seven Illinois colleges and universities, will compete in the second annual Loyola university cross country race this morning at the Loyola stadium. The race will be run over a three and a half mile course on the lake shore campus.

University of Chicago, Illinois State Normal, Wheaton college, Elmhurst college, Monmouth college, De Paul university, and Loyola university will have teams on the starting line.

Illinois State Normal of Bloomington, winner of the race last year and two time winner of the Little 19 conference race, is the favorite to win the team prize. Lyle Hutton of State Normal, winner of the Loyola race last year, and Tom O'Neill of Loyola are the favorites to win individual honors.

5 SOPHOMORES WORK WELL ON DE PAUL QUINTET

De Paul university's hopes for a successful basketball season brightened this week following the showing of five sophomores in practice. De Paul lost Joe O'Connor, Heine Coan, and Mike Rondinella, all veterans, through graduation, and Coach Jim Kelly had feared prospects this year were poor.

One of the sophomores is Phil Krause, who starred on two national Catholic interscholastic championship teams at De La Salle High school. Krause is a forward, is fast on the court and an expert shot. If he has retained his prep form he may find himself paired with Pete Barskis or Jim Gorsky at one of the regular positions on the De Paul quintet.

The other four sophomores who have shown promise are Bob Sand, forward; Bill Shay, guard; Marty Linsky, guard, and Whitey Patzold, forward.

De Paul opens its schedule on Dec. 12, when the University of Ontario will be met here. A record of nine victories in 15 games was made by De Paul last year.

Rain Prevents American, Australian Tennis Play

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BRISBANE, Australia, Nov. 25.—The second day's play of the series between the barnstorming United States tennis team and an all-Australian group was called off because of rain today. The American team of Ellsworth Vines Jr., national champion; Keith Gledhill, John Van Ryn, and Wilmer Allison captured the three singles matches played yesterday and were tied at one set all in the doubles play.

Army, Pitt Games Best on Day's Card

New York, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Among a dozen outstanding games remaining on the college football schedule, the stand of two of the east's most rugged teams—Army and Pittsburgh—against famous intersectional rivals features tomorrow's card.

Colgate's bid for the classic Tournament of Roses game on Jan. 2 as an eastern standard bearer already has been put conspicuously on file with a flawless record of achievement, but the honor may go to Pittsburgh again if the Panthers score a decisive victory over Pop Warner's Stanford boys.

Auburn in Running.

Speculation has included Auburn, Michigan, and even West Point in the list of possible choices to oppose Southern California at Pasadena, but the probabilities are that the selection, due early next week, will rest between Colgate and Pittsburgh, both so far unbeaten, although Pitt twice has been held to scoreless ties.

None of the four major all conquering teams in the country plays tomorrow, although two of them have yet to complete their seasons. Colgate and Michigan are through. Auburn meets South Carolina Dec. 3. Southern California has a date with Notre Dame at Los Angeles on Dec. 10.

L. S. U. Has Chance.

Texas Christian, unbeaten and tied only once, figures to knock over Southern Methodist tomorrow and clinch the Southwest conference championship. Louisiana State, finishing its first season under Capt. Biff Jones, plays its big objective game against Tulane at Baton Rouge. If Don Zimmerman isn't in shape to lead Tulane's attack, L. S. U.'s chances will brighten for victory and a high ranking in the south.

Traditionally colorful games such as Georgia-Georgia Tech, Washington and Jefferson-West Virginia, and Boston college-Holy Cross round out November's parting gridiron salute.

POLOISTS MEET AS FEATURE OF STOCK SHOW

Two of the four contenders for the indoor military polo championship, the 124th Field artillery and Chicago Black Horse troop, will meet tonight in the opening match of a round robin tournament at the stock yard amphitheater arena, 42d and Halsted streets. The match, like others in the tourney, will be a feature of the horse show being held in conjunction with the International Live Stock exposition.

In addition to the 124th Field artillery and Black Horse troop the contesting trios include Fort Sheridan and the 122d Field artillery.

Rival captains in tonight's game yesterday announced their starting lineups. Lieut. Col. Richard G. Hunter, 124th F. A., team leader, will be at No. 1 position; Capt. William S. Everett at No. 2, and Lieut. Chris M. Schuh at back.

Led by Barney Balding, the Black Horse troop battlefront will include Lieut. Roy D. Keehn Jr. and Sergt. W. F. Kirby, with Roland Hubert and Garrett Orth as substitutes.

Shamrocks Meet Cincinnati Team in Indoor Game

The Shamrock professional football team will play the Cincinnati Blues tonight at the 124th Field Artillery armory, 5200 Cottage Grove avenue.

In their four straight victories on the armory field the Shamrocks have not allowed the opposition to cross their goal line, but tonight the Blues threaten to break this string, as they possess a lineup made up largely of former Indiana university stars. The Shamrocks have been drilling all week on their passing attack.

With the return of Bud Edwards, former Brown university and Providence pro player, to his place in the Chicago lineup, there will be only one back who is not in the best of condition. Wally Durkin, who starred at Loyola, has been ill for the last few days with influenza. Durkin, however, is expected to be able to take his place at quarter back.

Joe Temple, former Chicago full back; Art Bramhall, Bucky Dahman, Ed Weber, Bernie Leahy, Larry Faul and Jack Downs all will be ready for back field action.

In Marks, Bennett and Ross the Blues have a trio of former Indiana stars who are well known for their football ability. Bennett, while at Indiana, received wide recognition and is likely to prove the spark in the Blues' attack tonight. The lineup:

CINCINNATI.		SHAMROCKS.
E. Oatsmer	L. E.	Barnhart
Walter	L. T.	Lutz
Cronister	L. G.	King
Lemkey	C.	Nash
Taylor	R. G.	Wendt

SAVOLDI SIGNS TO WRESTLE KATAN TUESDAY

Joe Savoldi, who has become one of the outstanding young wrestlers in the country, signed yesterday to meet John Katan in the semi-windup of the five-match card at the Rainbo Fronton, Clark street and Lawrence avenue, Tuesday night.

Jim McMillen and Hans Kampfer meet in the main event, a finish match. The winner may be favored with a match with Jis Londos early next month.

Savoldi appeared here two years ago when a novice, but since then he has performed mainly in California.

SOUTH BEND HIGH PLAYER INJURED AT WHITE PLAINS

White Plains, N. Y., Nov. 25.—[Special.]—John Fett, substitute back of the South Bend, Ind., Central High school football team, was recovering today in the White Plains hospital from a fractured collarbone suffered yesterday in a game with White Plains High which ended in a 7 to 7 tie. Fett was substituted for Jim Clark when the latter was injured in the second quarter and was in the game only a few minutes when he was injured. He will remain here for a few days.

McEwan Is Out as Holy Cross Meets Boston

Worcester, Mass., Nov. 25.—[Special.]—The Holy Cross college football team will meet its traditional rival, Boston college, tomorrow in its most important game of the season, but it will enter the battle without the services of the coach who had tutored it for nearly two years.

This was decided in Superior court here today when Capt. John J. McEwan, suspended as coach of the Holy Cross team earlier in the season, was defeated in his effort to be reinstated in time to be on the bench for tomorrow's game. Wednesday McEwan brought a bill in equity in court, seeking an injunction to restrain Holy Cross trustees from preventing the continuance of his coaching duties in the game against Boston.

Too Many Involved.

Judge Winfred H. Whiting discontinued the plea for an injunction, stating that "pleadings in the case will be completed before Dec. 12 and thereafter the suit is to be heard on its merits at a date to be selected." He added that neither party wished to do anything which would interfere with the Holy Cross-Boston game, since too many individuals were involved in the case to finish the hearing today. McEwan, who was represented by former Congressman George R. Stobbs, said he was satisfied.

McEwan's difficulties at Holy Cross began shortly after the Brown game, in which Holy Cross had led into the third quarter, when Brown started a successful 80 yard march for the winning touchdown. During the march McEwan sent in a pair of substitutes and the team was penalized ten yards.

Charges Insubordination.

A few days later the former West Point star, who also had coached at Army and Oregon, stated that he no longer wanted Bart Sullivan, veteran Holy Cross trainer, on the bench. He accused Sullivan of insubordination during the Brown game when the latter refused to obey him in sending in a third substitute.

The college authorities followed up this statement with an announcement of McEwan's suspension. His contract has another year to run.

BEARS WEAKENED BY INFLUENZA; THREE MEN DOWN

Three Bear players were receiving treatment for influenza yesterday, following the Thanksgiving day triumph over the Cardinals, and in all probability they will be unavailable against the Portsmouth Spartans tomorrow.

Carlson, a guard, was taken to the Illinois Masonic hospital. Carl Brumbaugh, quarter back, and Dick Nesbitt, half back and punter, were confined to their hotels.

The loss of these three men handicaps the Bears in one of the most important games of their season. Victory is imperative against the Spartans if the Bears are to remain in the three cornered fight for the National league championship. The squad will leave for Portsmouth tonight.

Polo Preps Will Play 16 Basketball Games

Polo, Ill., Nov. 25.—[Special.]—Coach Marvin Johnson has scheduled 16 games for the Polo basketball team this season. The schedule:

CARDINALS CLOSE SEASON AGAINST BOSTON BRAVES

Play Eastern Eleven at Wrigley Field.

Dollar day, Ladies' day, and Boston's first National league appearance in Chicago concludes the Cardinals' home schedule at Wrigley field tomorrow.

The Braves' lineup numbers among other famous collegians Ernie Pinckert and Jim Musick, Southern California products, who appeared in Chicago against Notre Dame in 1929. Pinckert, now 24 years old, will play half back. Musick weighs 205 pounds and plays full back.

Another outstanding player is Franklyn Battles, Boston's quarter back. Battles was injured in the first game this year, but has been playing again for the last three weeks.

He played at West Virginia Wesleyan, where he captained the football team two seasons. Battles is one of the biggest pilots in the league. He stands 6 feet 1 inch and weighs 190 pounds.

The Boston roster also includes Paul Schuette, who played with the Bears, and Mickey Erickson, formerly with the Cardinals.

The Cardinals emerged from Thursday's Bear game in good shape, and light drills were ordered by Coach Jack Chevigny for yesterday and today. Ledbetter, who was signed last week, received a cut under the chin, but most likely will play tomorrow.

Following tomorrow's contest the final in the league for the Cards, the team will prepare for an invasion of St. Louis.

Blackhawks, Canadiens to Clash Tonight

MONTREAL, Nov. 25.—[Special.]—The Chicago Blackhawks meet the Canadiens tomorrow night and the former world's champions, although on their own home ice, have their backs to the wall. The Canadiens are at the bottom of the National Hockey league, a position they had not occupied before since hockey became a big time sport seven years ago.

In the five games played to date they have made only four goals, the fewest of any team on the circuit.

Have Plenty of Stars.

The Canadiens lost all three of their recent road games and have been shut out twice in five games, an unusual situation for a team which has such high scorers as Howie Morenz, Aurel Joliat, Johnny Gagnon, Pete Lepine, and Wildore Larochelle.

The Canadiens' record to date has not lulled Coach Iverson into a false sense of security, however.

Gottselig Is Back.

In tomorrow night's encounter Iverson counts heavily upon the return to the Hawks' line of Johnny Gottselig, who was out of the New York Rangers' game because of a wrenched knee.

Eddie Froelich, Blackhawks' trainer, has promised to have Roger Jenkins, who had to quit the Ranger game also because of a wrenched knee, ready for the game, which means that the Hawks will present their regular lineup.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 25.—Bond prices in general moved lower today for the tenth consecutive loss. A sharp slump in sterling, reflecting the war debt crisis, was the outstanding market factor, although weakness in commodities also played a part.

Foreign bonds were most influenced by the sterling debacle, losses in that group extending up to 8 points. In the domestic group recessions ranged from 1 to 3 points.

Treasury issues were little traded in and they maintained a steady tone.

Bonds of the British empire, particularly Australians and British 5½s were hardest hit by the fresh decline in sterling exchange.

Austrians Are Hit.

Austrians in particular, having been bid up sharply during recent months on the basis of the Lausanne settlement, were vulnerable to latest developments, indicating a break in the new spirit of coördination between countries.

Losses were the rule in the majority of other foreign bonds, though Germans held their own fairly well Losses in other Europeans included Copenhagen 4½s, Greek 7s, Norwegians, and others. South American bonds were easier owing to the dependence of these countries upon raw material prices.

Domestic bonds, including both high grades and speculative issues, also reacted unfavorably to the day's developments. The down trend occurred in the face of generally favorable trade developments, chief of which is the expectation that carloadings this week-end will make a better showing than in the preceding period.

Rail Bonds Sell.

Rail bonds bore the brunt of the selling, with speculative leaders making new lows on the current reaction. Illustrative of the extent of the down swing, B. & O. 4½s, due 1933, which sold as high as 68 on the recent recovery, sold as low as 61 today.

Other losses in rail bonds included issues of Chicago and North Western Great Northern, Missouri Pacific, New York Central, Nickel Plate, and others High grades were lower in such instances as Atchison general 4s, Union Pacific 4½s, and others.

Chicago, Aurora and Elgin Railroad.

Can you give me some information on Chicago, Aurora and Elgin railroad 6s, due 1951?—M. W. E.

Chicago, Aurora and Elgin Railroad company, a subsidiary of Chicago, Aurora and Elgin corporation, operates 104.15 miles of track. It is an electric interurban railway connecting Chicago with western suburbs.

Total operating revenues for 1931 were $2,176,000. Of this $1,415,000 was from passenger traffic. Operating revenues for 1930 were $2,661,000. Only 44 per cent of charges was earned in 1931. In 1930 about 97 per cent of charges was earned. In 1929 charges were covered 1.16 times, against 1.09 times in 1928 and 1.11 times in 1927.

On Dec. 31, 1931, current assets were $341,000, and current and accrued liabilities were $1,352,000, including $940,000 due to affiliated companies. Excess of current liabilities over current assets was $1,011,000. Funded debt was $8,777,000.

Receivers were appointed for the company on July 21, 1932. The petition stated that, although assets exceeded liabilities, the company had insufficient cash or current assets to pay its bills. Interest due July 1, 1932, was not paid.

President Budd was quoted on July 22, 1932, as saying that the company's difficulties are the result of increased unemployment, which has resulted in severe declines in passenger revenue. For the twelve months to June 30 1932, gross revenues were $1,940,000, a decline of $547,000 from the preceding twelve months. In fact, he said, the company had not even earned operating charges for several months.

The receivers, A. A. Sprague and B. I. Budd, plan to continue the organization as a going concern.

The company's bonds are a speculation.

Kansas City Gas.

I hold a Kansas City Gas company 6 per cent bond, due 1942, and would like a report.—T. T. I.

Kansas City Gas company, part of the Cities Service system, is controlled by Gas Service company. It furnishes natural gas, which it buys, to a population of about 400,000 in and near Kansas City, Mo.

Gross revenues for 1931 were $6,411,000, against $7,074,000 for 1930 $6,101,000 for 1929, and $5,056,000 [including other income] for 1928. Fixed charges, before reserves, were earned 4.16 times in 1931, 4.41 times in 1930, 4.70 times in 1929, 5.01 times in 1928, and 4.15 times in 1927.

On Dec. 31, 1931, current assets were $1,177,000 and current liabilities were $1,518,000. Cash assets were $226,000 and notes payable were $500,000. Funded debt totals $3,628,000.

The first 6s, series A, due 1942, are reasonably sound.

THREE FACTIONS MAKE PEACE IN TRUCK BUSINESS

Expect Agreement to Help Industry.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

With the signing of a three party agreement yesterday trucking operations in the Chicago district have been put on a sound basis, according to signatories of the document.

D. F. McKEOWN.

Thomas M. Conley and Michael J. Galvin signed on behalf of the Chicago Truck Drivers and Chauffeurs' union, local 705; Fred J. Fiedt, George Kidd, James Walsh, and H. E. Wood signed for the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs and Helpers, local 705, and Daniel F. McKeown and Walter E. McCaron signed for the Illinois Motor Truck Operators' association.

Attorney Cornelius Lynde, in whose office the agreement was reached, explained what the unions and employers gain from the action. He represents the operators.

What Each Side Gets.

The employers secure the following points:

1. They are relieved from jurisdictional disputes.
2. They have a means of negotiating wage scales.
3. Stability for their business is insured.
4. Provision is made for the proper settlement of working condition discussions.

Here is what the unions get:

1. They have the advantage of employment in a stabilized industry. They realize that in order to earn money to meet their wages their employers must be relieved from difficulties interfering with the operation of their business.
2. The employers agree to put up bonds insuring payment of wages.
3. Employers agree to provide compensation insurance.
4. The unions have the same right as the employers to bring up wage problems for discussion.
5. Working conditions are stabilized.

135 Firms in Agreement.

Finally, Mr. Lynde says, the public gains through peace and better service. Some 135 companies are represented in the settlement and the employés involved total 11,000.

Difficulties developed about 10 months ago, Mr. Lynde said, which threatened the trucking industry. However, the officials of the two rival unions were brought together and in the document signed yesterday they settled their current differences and agreed to continue this in the future through arbitration.

Mr. Lynde said that one of the points which threatened trouble for the trucking business was a movemen to compel all trucks coming into the city from distant points to make use of truck terminals. The plan was to transfer freight at the terminals fc distribution to points within the city.

No Longer Compulsory.

"This plan as a compulsory requirement has been abandoned," Mr. Lynde explained. "However, the tendency in the trucking business is to make use of these terminals. Their use would help keep large trucks off city streets other than on the through routes.

"Truck operators find it convenient to use the terminals in picking up and delivering smaller shipments. Where a shipper fills a truck it would, of course, be foolish to compel that truck to go to a terminal. Such an action would destroy one of the assets which has made the truck such a formidable competitor of the railroads—that of door to door delivery."

Mr. Lynde asserted that in the future there will probably be some federal regulation of trucks required, although not in the form of that to which the railroads are subjected by the interstate commerce commission. This control was established when the railroads had a monopoly on transportation, he said, and the need for such rigid control has gone. The trucks certainly are not and cannot have the monopoly that the railroads formerly had, he went on, and consequently there is no need for such rigid control.

Should Work With Rails.

For long distance hauls the railroads provide the best transportation, Mr. Lynde stated, but the transportation system of the country as a whole could be considerably bettered through the coördination of trucks and railroads.

Mr. Lynde is appearing for the truck operators in opposing the request of the Railway Express Agency for a certificate of convenience and necessity from the Illinois commerce commission, holding that such issuance would give the roads a monopoly on trucking operations in the Chicago district. If we are assured that we would be given equal rights with the railroads we would not object to the issuance of the certificate, he added.

New Process Strawboard to Reopen Factory; 100 Jobs

Sandusky, O., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Officials of the Hinde & Dauch Paper company announced today one of the company's mills would reopen in about ten days and give employment to approximately 100 workers as the result of the development of a new process for the manufacture of corrugated cardboard from straw. The mill has been closed for three years.

States Join in Boosting Tax Spending

BY SCRUTATOR.

The revolt against governmental extravagance and excessive taxation has centered on the federal and local governments. This is because they offer imposing figures and touch the taxpayer most directly. As the result the state governments have been largely overlooked, although they also have joined in the orgy of spending the people's money.

Illinois has more than doubled its expenditures in ten years and boosted the per capita cost of state government from around $7 in 1921 to about $14 in 1931. In the decade from 1921 to 1930 the state spent upwards of 765 million dollars, with the annual amount rising from nearly $47,000,000 in 1921 to almost $94,000,000 in 1930. The peak years, however, were 1924, with an expenditure of more than 122 million dollars, including about $45,000,000 paid as a soldiers' bonus, and in 1929, when more than 110 million dollars was spent.

Spending Outspeeds Income.

Some interesting facts regarding expenditures in Illinois for this decade have been deduced by the bureau of research of the University of Illinois. Expenditures are found to have increased far more rapidly than either population or social income. Whereas, total spending increased about 100 per cent, the population increased only 16 per cent and income rose only 25 per cent.

Much of the increase in expenditures resulted from vast public improvement, principally highways. Although these were accomplished largely by bond issues, still they represent money spent and a piling up of debt and interest charges. Whereas the state's current expenses increased only 55 per cent in ten years, expenditures for permanent works rose nearly 130 per cent, and debt charges increased nearly six fold. The state's indebtedness now stands around 417 million dollars.

How Tax Dollar Is Spent.

How has the money been spent? For the decade it is found that 17 cents of each dollar went for education, 17 cents for social welfare, 37 cents for highways and waterways, 5 cents for commercial and economic activities, 8 cents for general government and miscellaneous expenses, 9 cents for bond payment and interest, and 7 cents for soldiers' bonus.

The piling up of bond debt is shown from the fact that borrowed funds varied from one-half of 1 per cent of total expenditures in 1921 to 53½ per cent in 1924, and 26.2 per cent in 1930. Whereas, 4 per cent of revenue receipts was used to pay bond principal and interest in 1921, the percentage mounting to 17.2 per cent in 1930.

Battle Tax Burden.

"Economic conditions since 1929 have been responsible for a new interest in governmental affairs," the report says. "Before 1929 the people were chiefly concerned with the increase in governmental activities: they were looking to governmental units to perform this and that additional service with the inevitable result that the amount assessed in taxes increased tremendously. Under economic conditions since 1929, however, the burden of tax payment has been keenly felt and there has been a cry to reduce public expenditures, to abolish paternalism and governmental bureaucracy, and to take the government out of business.

"There is no justification for governmental activity which the people could not afford if they had to pay directly from their own pockets. Too many persons have the mistaken impression that anything secured from government is something in addition to what they secure as individuals, whereas, the fact is that governmental expenditures are simply substituted for those of invidiuals. In times of prosperity, when incomes are easily available, activities may be greatly increased. When the tide turns, however, readjustments must be made."

STAND. BRANDS PUTS DIVIDEND ON DOLLAR BASIS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 25.—Standard Brands, Inc., declared a quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share on the common stock, placing the issue on a $1 per share annual basis, compared with $1.20 paid previously.

"Common stock earnings per share for the third quarter were approximately 24½ cents, and for the nine months 85 cents," said Joseph Willshire, president. "The third quarter earnings are normally the lowest of any quarter of the year. The reduction of the dividend was considered a conservative measure and to be at a rate well within the estimated earnings for the fourth quarter."

WHEAT RALLIES AFTER SINKING TO RECORD LOW

Corn Is Off Despite Light Offerings.

WHEAT PRICES IN GOLD

Wheat prices in gold in the leading markets, computed from exchange rates prevailing at the time they closed, follow:

	Friday.	Wed'sday.
Chicago, Dec	42¾c	42⅞c
Winnipeg, Dec	38½c	39¼c
Liverpool, Dec	49⅝c	50⅝c
Do, No. 2 Manitoba	53⅞c	55⅝c
Rotterdam, Nov	44½c	46½c
Buenos Aires, Feb	38⅝c	38⅞c

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

World's financial conditions continue to dominate the action of the wheat market. A break in sterling exchange to within a few points of the record low, combined with weakness in Liverpool, brought a wave of selling at the opening on the Chicago Board of Trade Friday which carried the December off 1⅜c from Wednesday to 41½c, a new all time record low for any future in the local market.

The action of the wheat market, however, was radically different than that on Nov. 3, when the previous record low was established. Buying against daily and weekly bids and also by cash interests, who in turn sold the May, checked the decline immediately, and prices gradually worked higher. The loss on the nearby future was entirely recovered at one time, with the close only ⅛c lower at 42¾c. The May and July sold at a new low for the season and closed ¼@⅝c lower, with May at 47¼@47⅝c, and July, 48⅛@48¼c.

Foreign Markets Weak.

Increased pressure of Canadian and of new Argentina wheat is beginning to make itself felt abroad, and the decline of 1@1¼c per bu in Liverpool prices was a direct result of lower asking prices from exporting countries. December in the English market closed at 49⅞, or 7¾c over Chicago.

Further weakness in Canadian exchange resulted in Winnipeg December losing ⅝c per bu on a gold basis, with the close at approximately 38½c. The blackboard quotation in Canadian funds was 45⅛c, or ⅛c lower than Wednesday.

Aside from uneasiness over world's financial conditions, the day's news was rather favorable to holders. Cash interests were persistent buyers of December and sellers of May wheat, an narrowed the spread to 4½c, compared with 5⅛c earlier in the week. The amount of liquidation on the break was relatively small, suggesting to a number of operators that it had about run its course.

No rain or snow was reported in the dry sections of the west and southwest, and the Modern Miller in its weekly summary said the drought situation had become intensified. The Nebraska midmonth crop report made the condition 85, which compared with 76 by the government in December last year. Some wheat in the latter state as well as Kansas has already died due to continued dry weather. Near famine conditions were again reported as prevailing in parts of Russia. Europe bought 1,000,000 to 1,500,000 bu Canadian wheat in the last two days, the break in sterling facilitating purchases by the United Kingdom.

Corn Dull and Easier.

All deliveries of corn sold within a fraction of the lowest level of the season, and failed to rally to any extent from the low point, the close being ⅝@¾c lower. December finished at 24c, May at 28⅝@28¾c, and July at 30¼@30⅜c. Country offerings to arrive were light and shipping demand slow, low prices tending to check sales by the country. Increasing reports of corn being used for fuel were received from Illinois and Iowa points.

Oats and rye weakened in sympathy with other grains. Commission houses sold December oats and bought May, while there was some buying of the distant future credited to cereal interests. Net losses were ¼@⅜c, with December, 15½@15⅝c, and May, 17¾@17⅞c. Rye failed to maintain its early decline, rallying toward the last on scattered buying, and closed ⅛@⅜c higher, with December 28⅝c and May 31½c. Barley was ½c lower, with May at 33c, trading being light.

Award Air Conditioning Contract on R. C. A. Bldg.

New York, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Rockefeller Center, Inc., announced today it had awarded a contract involving more than $1,000,000 and providing for the installation of an air conditioning system in the R. C. A. building to the Carrier Engineering corporation. The R. C. A. building is a 70 story structure in the center of the new "Radio City" development. During the summer the refrigeration provided by the system will equal 3,000,000 pounds of melting ice a day, or equivalent, the announcement said, to the summertime consumption of a city the size of Washington, D. C.

Move in Reorganization of West Towns Railways

The recent action in the taking out of a charter for the Chicago and West Towns Railways, Inc., was explained yesterday by Perry M. Chadwick of Chapman & Cutler, attorneys, as being a step toward reorganization of the system through foreclosure. The Chicago and West Towns Railway company defaulted on $2,354,334 principal amount bond and interest payments July 1. Mr. Chadwick said, and the bondholders are buying the property in.

Sterling Sinks to 12 Year Low; U.S. Gold Stocks at 1932 High

Pound Drops 4⅝ Cents to $3.20½ in Fear of Debt Payments.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 25.—Reflecting the deepening pessimism in the foreign exchange market over the effect upon Great Britain's finances of either a default or cash payment of the December war debt installment, the pound sterling today fell 4⅝ cents to $3.20½, the lowest prince since 1920.

As has been the case ever since the war debts question was reopened, the cheaper the pound became the less it was wanted, offerings in the market were small, and came chiefly from French sources, there being little bearish speculation of domestic origin, but merchants and financiers who might have filled their business requirements at the lowest prices in more than a decade showed no disposition to buy.

Prices Erratic.

The nervousness and uncertainty of the market was revealed in the wide and erratic movements of the exchange. After opening at $3.22½, 2⅝ cents below Wednesday's final price, the pound sagged to $3.20 15-16, rallied to $3.22, slipped off again to $3.20½, and then spurted to the day's best price of $3.23¼, only to fall away at the last to $3.21 for a new loss of 4⅛ cents.

At the same time forwarded sterling was selling at a premium of five-sixteenths for ninety days, indicating that traders were selling spot and buying futures to protect their positions.

While the plan of permitting foreign debtors to postpone actual transfers by placing their own currencies in a designated depository is regarded as tending to relieve the immediate tension on sterling, it is felt that that would introduce another factor, with a future demand overhanging the market.

Pound Near 1920 Low.

At today's lowest price sterling was only 2½c above the record low of $3.18 reached Feb. 4, 1920, and was nearly 4c under the lowest price previously recorded since the abandonment of the gold standard on Sept. 21, 1931.

The weakness of sterling today dragged down the Scandanavian and Canadian exchanges, but had little effect upon the rest of the foreign exchange list. Francs rose ¼ point, to 3.91⅜c, and guilders were up 5 points, to 40.25½c. Belgas dropped off ½ point, to 13.85c, and Swiss francs lost ⅝ point to 19.22½c, both exchanges touching new lows for the year to date. The discount on Canadian dollars broadened to 15¼c against 14½c on Wednesday.

The resistance shown by the European gold standard exchanges was attributed in large part to support supplied by their espective central banks by means of funds obtained through recent heavy releases of earmarked gold.

Reserve Banks Report Holdings $491,957,000 More Than in June.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 25.—The gold holdings of the federal reserve system advanced $26,083,000 in the week ended on Wednesday to a new high for the year to date at $3,053,152,000, a net recovery of $491,957,000 from the year's low, reached on June 15 when the gold outflow came to an end.

The system's gold reserves as of Wednesday were at the highest point since Sept. 30, 1931, when they amounted to $3,138,181,000, but they were still $432,587,000 below the record high of $3,485,739,000 reached on Sept. 16 of last year, just before the suspension of the gold standard by the Bank of England set in motion the run on the dollar.

Earmark Releases.

This week's gain in the gold holdings of the federal reserve banks resulted from heavy releases of earmarked gold and imports of the metal from abroad.

Monetary gold stocks of the country rose $36,000,000 in the week covered by the reserve board's report to a total of $4,320,000,000. This was the largest total since May 4 and represented a net gain of $411,000,000 from the low of $3,909,000,000 reported on June 15, but it was still $138,000,000 below the high for the year of $4,458,000,000, made on Jan. 6.

Reason of Rise.

The explanation of the larger gain since June 15 shown in the gold holdings of the federal reserve system than in the monetary gold stocks of the country is that the reserve banks can add to their gold reserves by withdrawing gold certificates from circulation and by their receipts of gold coin previously held in hoarding, whereas neither of these operations has any effect upon the monetary gold stocks.

Apart from the gain in gold the outstanding items reported this week by the federal reserve were: A rise of $6,000,000 in money in circulation a rise of $19,000,000 in foreign bank deposits, and a lack of any change in member bank reserve balances.

Brokers' loans, as reported by member banks in New York City in connection with the weekly federal reserve statements, showed a rise of $6,000,000 to a total of $350,000,000. Loans made by the reporting banks for their own account comprised the entire amount of the advance, loans for the account of out of town banks and others being unchanged.

INVESTORS AID GROUP ELECTS BRYCE PRESIDENT

T. J. Bryce, vice president of the Continental Illinois company, was elected president of the Investors' Protective bureau yesterday. He succeeds Frank M. Gordon, who was recently elected president of the Investment Bankers Association of America.

Other officers were reelected: Vice president, Paul H. Davis, president of the Chicago Stock exchange; treasurer, Carl J. Esterberg; secretary, Howard S. Van Tracy; assistant secretary, Mortimer C. Grover; attorney, Cyrus H. Adams. Mr. Grover was also reappointed manager of the bureau and Leonard D. Karcher was renamed assistant manager.

New directors named are Arthur Betts, George Spaulding, Robert A. Gardiner, Francis Patton, George Rossetter, and Charles A. McDowell.

Three Railroads Report Gain in Car Loadings

The Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad, the Great Northern railroad, and the Chesapeake and Ohio line report freight car loadings for the week ended Nov. 21 improved. The Burlington handled 20,798 cars, compared with 9,421, and; the Chesapeake and Ohio 30,561, compared with 26,803 the same week last year.

Wholesale Food Price Index Advances Again

The wholesale food index compiled by Bradstreet's has advanced 2 cents, its third successive weekly gain. The index for Nov. 22 is $1.73, having thus retraced much of the ground lost during September and October. It now stands six cents below its Sept. 6 high and 13 cents above the June 14 low.

Gold Stock of Country Increased by $1,700,800

New York, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Today's gold statement of the New York Federal Reserve bank showed receipts of $998,700 from Canada and of $346,500 from Uruguay. There was an additional gain of $355,600 through foreign earmark releases, making a total of $1,700,800.

STOCKS DECLINE BUT GAIN BACK PART OF LOSSES

Rails Hold Up Best in Unsteady Mart.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 25.—Such worries as foreign debts, depreciation in the pound sterling, and weakness in commodity prices occupied the Wall street mind today to the exclusion of whatever "bargain-" the stock market might have to offer.

The result was a pretty dispiriting performance on the big board. Liquidation was fairly heavy for a while in the early dealings, causing values to give way anywhere from 1 to more than 3 points, but the trend turned upward toward the last and net losses averaged less than a point. Many of the more mobile issues were able to erase their losses entirely.

Rails Do Better.

Some of the rails, in fact, managed to emerge winner on the day. Union Pacific closed up more than a point above its previous final and Southern Pacific, Pennsylvania, Louisville and Nashville, and one or two others showed fractional gains on the session. The carriers had an estimate of improved weekly freight carloadings in their favor and were able to offer stouter resistance to the selling pressure than most other groups.

Report had it that the loadings report due tomorrow probably would show an increase of 20,000 to 25,000 cars over the previous week, which would contrast with a decrease of 40,000 cars in the same week last year. Those bullishly inclined were naturally able to interpret the better showing as indicative of improvement in the trend of business activity.

Food Shares Drop.

Food company shares suffered from the reducation in the Standard Brands dividend and lossess of 1 to 3 points were the rule. Corn Products was under the hammer most of the day. General Foods made about the best showing of the department and finished with a net gain of nearly a point. Standard Brands itself dipped more than a point.

A sidelight to attract attention was the continued liquidation in Coca Cola. The stock was driven down to a new record low and at its bottom price showed a decline of some 20 points for the last fortnight.

Checker Cab and Gotham Silk Hosiery were other outstanding weak spots. Checker tumbled nearly 5 points on a few sales, but made up the larger part of its loss in a few more transactions.

Homestake at New High.

On the bright side, Homestake Mining advanced over 4 points to a new high and held the line for a good part of the session. In the last hour, however, selling came into it anew, wiping out all its early gain and leaving it where it started.

Public utilities were upset by another sinking spell in American Telephone, but in the end they fared no worse than the rest. Telephone, down at one time about 3 points, made up more than half its loss.

Pivotal common stocks for the most part held fairly well, but preferred issues had their troubles aplenty. Such preferreds as those of American Locomotive, American Steel Foundry, Kresge, Illinois Central, American Sugar, Midland Steel, and National Biscuit were down anywhere from 2 to nearly 5 points.

The street heard that a number of operators lately prominent on the bear side were again becoming active and that no small part of the selling of the last few days has come from them and their followers.

PAY ROLLS RISE, JOBS FALL OFF IN SEVENTH DISTRICT

Wage payments increased in the seventh reserve district in October, but the number of employés declined, according to the monthly survey of industrial conditions by the Federal Reserve bank of Chicago. The conclusions are based on reports received from 2,746 establishments.

"The trend was somewhat more favorable than that in October last year, when declines of 8 per cent in employment and 1 per cent in pay rolls was recorded," the bank reports.

The gain of three per cent in pay rolls indicates that production activity increased during the month, but the decline of nearly 3 per cent in the number of workers shows this gain was effected by expanded operating time, the bank points out.

The gain in wage payments for all groups, including four nonmanufacturing groups, amounted to 3.7 per cent and the decline in the number of wage earners was 2.8 per cent. For the ten manufacturing groups alone the increase in pay rolls amounted to 5.3 per cent, while the shrinkage in wage earners was 3.6 per cent.

Nevada's Banking Holiday to Be Extended 3 Weeks

Carson City, Nev., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Gov. Fred B. Balzar said today he would issue a proclamation tomorrow extending Nevada's banking holiday another three weeks to allow additional time for working out a plan to reopen the twelve closed Wingfield banks in the state. The proclamation will differ from two preceding proclamations, he said, only in the respect that it will not provide for a continued moratorium on the payments of debts.

National Standard Co. Votes Regular Dividend

Directors of the National Standard company yesterday declared the regular quarterly dividend of 30 cents a share, payable Jan. 3 to stock of record Dec. 20.

Ill. Central's October Net Is Best in 2 Years

The report of the Illinois Central railroad was the feature of the monthly earnings statements issued yesterday by several large systems.

The October net operating income of the Illinois Central amounted to $2,230,198, the largest in nearly two years. This compares with $1,867,744 in the same month last year and $1,662,722 in the preceding month.

Gross was $8,984,598, as compared with $10,227,497 in the corresponding month last year and $7,914,981 in September. The gross is the largest in 12 months, but the net, the largest in 11 months, reflects the sharp reduction which has been made in expenses.

Decline of 21 Roads 1.8 Per Cent.

The total operating income of 21 railroads to report October earnings was approximately $25,426,000, only 1.8 per cent less than the total of $25,895,000 in the same month last year

Thirteen of the roads had larger net operating incomes for October this year than in 1931. The rate of decline in October from 1931 showed an improvement over the September comparisons for both gross and net operating income.

Southern Pacific reported for October net operating income of $1,864,025, an increase of $353,508 from September, but $1,034,558 less than October, 1931. Gross amounted to $13,238,657, up $653,887 from September and off $3,653,822 from October a year ago.

Ten months' net operating income aggregated $5,049,933, a decrease of $15,686,012, compared with the first ten months of 1931, while gross was down $50,056,364, at $121,896,470.

Wabash Net Rises.

The Wabash reported net operating income of $446,460 for the month, which contrasts with $84,368 in the same month last year. Gross was $3,429,556 against $3,956,397.

New York, New Haven and Hartford reported for October net income of $64,356, after taxes and charges, but before guarantees on separately operated properties, as against $908,393 in the same 1931 month and $35,849 in September of this year. Gross last month amounted to $6,278,322, compared with $8,658,436 a year ago and $6,022,517 in September; net operating income $1,153,045, as against $1,776,432 and $1,024,532, respectively.

WHITE EAGLE OIL STUDIES PLANS FOR PIPE LINE

Kansas City, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Construction of a gasoline pipe line from Augusta, Kas., to Kansas City and possibly farther east is under consideration by the White Eagle Oil corporation, Ray R. Irwin, president of the company, said today.

"Reports that we are ready to lay the pipe line are premature," Mr. Irwin said. "It is true, however, that we are studying costs and construction data. It has not yet been decided to what point the line will extend, if it eventually is constructed."

The White Eagle company, a subsidiary of Socony-Vacuum corporation, owns and operates a 15,000 barrel gasoline refinery at Augusta.

10 CENT DUTY ON ANTHRACITE COAL REMOVED BY U. S.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 25.—(AP)—The duty of 10 cents a 100 pounds placed on anthracite in the $1,000,000,000 tax bill today was ordered discontinued on imports of coal from Germany, Great Britain, and Canada because of agreements which necessitated the step.

The order was issued by F. X. A. Eble, commissioner of customs, after the state department had called his attention to the fact that the levying of the duty against German coal was a violation of the commercial treaty of 1923, and the levying against English coal violated a treaty of 1815.

Imposition of the duty against Canadian anthracite was also found to conflict with prior agreements. Customs officials said they did not have figures at hand to show the amount of British, German and Canadian coal which would be affected.

Westmoreland Coal Firm Pays Regular Dividend

The directors of Westmoreland, Inc., today declared the regular quarterly dividend of 20 cents a share. A similar payment was made three months ago. The Westmoreland Coal company, which is affiliated with Westmoreland, Inc., omitted the dividend due at this time. The company declared a dividend of 50 cents a share a year ago and also two years ago. The Westmoreland Coal company leases coal lands from Westmoreland, Inc., and pays rental on a royalty basis. The mines are located in western Pennsylvania. Some lands also are owned in West Virginia.

Canadian National Rail Net Up 58.84 Pct. in October

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 25.—An increase of $1,083,724, or 58.84 per cent, in net revenue for the month of October, 1932, as compared with the net for October, 1931, is shown in the monthly report of gross revenues, operating expenses and net revenue of the Canadian National Railways, issued today at headquarters here.

Number of Failures Shows Drop, Bradstreet Reports

New York, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Bradstreet's weekly index of failures showed a sharp drop for the week ending Nov. 17. Failures declined to 408, seven under the previous week and a new low figure for the year.

E. I. DU PONT DE NEMOURS & CO.
Wilmington, Delaware, Nov. 21, 1932.

The Board of Directors has this day declared a dividend of $0.50 per share on the outstanding $20.00 par value Common Stock of this Company, payable December 15, 1932, to stockholders of record at the close of business on November 30, 1932; also dividend of $1.50 a share on the outstanding debenture stock of this Company, payable on January 25, 1933, to stockholders of record at the close of business on January 10, 1933.

TEST CASE FILED ON RECAPTURE OF RAIL INCOME

$360,000,000 Excess Profits at Stake.

[Copyright: 1932: By the Associated Press.]

Danville, Ill., Nov. 25.—(AP)—A new effort of American railroads to escape paying the government's bill for profits in excess of 6 per cent was started today in federal court.

JOSEPH B. EASTMAN. [H. & E. Photo.]

Upon the ultimate verdict of the courts there probably rests the disposition of nearly $360,000,000 in excess earnings of 450 railroads, claimed by the federal treasury under the recapture clause of the transportation act of 1920.

Dormant since the Supreme court decided the famous test case of the St. Louis and O'Fallon railway, the issue was reopened by another small midwestern line, the Illinois Terminal railroad, operating a network of steam and electric lines in Illinois as a subsidiary of the Illinois Power and Light corporation.

Ask U. S. Injunction.

The Terminal railroad asked an injunction against the United States and the interstate commerce commission to prevent collection of $675,450 for excess profits from March 1, 1920, to Dec. 31, 1924.

Telling of its losses in the "depression" years since 1929, the company contended the assessment of all profits above six per cent in better years would be confiscatory. It charged also that the interstate commerce commission improperly assumed the rôles of plaintiff, prosecuting attorney, prosecuting witness, judge, and jury in the hearings that resulted in fixing the Terminal line's excess earnings bill, and that it erred in determining the railroad's property valuation.

The suit was filed before Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley in the eastern district of Illinois.

U. S. Lost O'Fallon Suit.

In the O'Fallon case appeal, the Supreme court ruled that the interstate commerce commission erred in determining property values, basing earnings computations on prices prevailing from 1910 to 1914. The recapture order went back to the commission for revision of property value figures.

With many of the leading transportation systems today borrowing funds from the Reconstruction Finance corporation to meet demands at a critical moment in their history, the carriers still face a staggering debt to the government if the recapture clause is sustained.

A bill to repeal the clause was introduced in the last session of congress, but the rules committee of the house did not bring it to a vote. During the hearings before the interstate and foreign commerce committee of the house, Joseph B. Eastman of the interstate commerce commission testified few railroads had cash available to pay their recapture bills without "robbing Peter to pay Paul."

Cite Deficit in Ten Years.

The petition by the Illinois Terminal company today set forth that it had $1,800,000 in securities posted with the interstate commerce commission as a guarantee, filed in 1928 when the terminal company acquired by lease the old Illinois Traction system and other transportation units in the state. The $675,450 bill specifically attacked in the proceedings covered earnings of the original freight line from Alton through Edwardsville to near Belleville, of the right-of-way being in Madison and St. Clair counties. The line has strategic property rights in the coal mining and manufacturing region.

Counsel for the Terminal railroad asserted the system failed by at least $159,580 to earn a return of six per cent per annum from March 1, 1920 to Dec. 31, 1930, the period being considered as a whole, and on the income and valuation basis determined by the interstate commerce commission. Liability for recapturable excess income, the bill set forth, is fixed upon consideration of each calendar year as a separate period and there is no allowance for offsetting deficiencies of unprofitable years against the surplus of the fat years.

Three Claims Not Attacked.

In addition to the payment demanded by the commission in the $675,450 bill submitted for 1920-'24, due in 90 days from Sept. 6 last, the commission also has asserted additional claims to excess earnings of Illinois Terminal for the calendar years 1925, 1926 and 1927. These claims were not attacked in the bill filed today, but the addition of the 1925-27 total of $883,194 claimed by the government makes an aggregate of $1,558,644 alleged to be due from the carrier for excess income from 1920 through 1927.

In 1928, 1929 and 1930 the interstate commerce commission records show the Terminal railroad had a deficiency under the authorized six per cent return on property value.

The complainant made no charge of fraud, prejudice or discrimination against the interstate commerce commission. It directed its attack solely against the general provisions of the Transportation act of 1920 and the methods of the commerce commission in arriving at property values.

Charge Valuation Too Low.

Values fixed by the commission in the recapture order for each of the recapture years except 1921 were less than the cost of reproduction, less depreciation, exclusive of the value of its land and working capital, as determined by the commission, counsel for the Terminal line contended.

They charged the commission appraised the carrier's land at "wholly inadequate and insufficient figures—far below their true value."

L. E. Fischer of Chicago, president of the Illinois Terminal company, signed the injunction petition. Solicitors for the complainant are Henry K. I. Green and William H. Lee of Champaign-Urbana, Ill.; Jonathan C. Gibson of Washington, D. C.; Emil J. Verlie of Alton, Ill., and Walter T. Gunn of Danville. The firm of Green and Palmer of Champaign-Urbana was designated as counsel.

PRICES OF LIGHT WEIGHT HOGS SHOW ADVANCES

Heavy Supplies React on Cattle Market.

Light and underweight hogs responded to the influence of light supplies in an advance of 10@20c yesterday, but medium and weighty stock was inclined to drag when some of the local houses balked at the 10c higher level of quotations in these classes. Eastern orders were the largest since the middle of September, calling for 5,000 head, or almost 20 per cent of the day's receipts.

Buyers continued to show a marked preference for the lightest weights, which have been outselling all other hogs by 15@25c for several days. Underweights averaging 140@160 lbs headed the list at $3.65, a few small lots making $3.70, while few other hogs exceeding 225 lbs in weight fetched more than $3.40. The general average for the day moved up 10c to $3.40. Prices are unevenly 5@20c above the close of last week, light light showing the biggest gains. The rank and file of hogs have moved up only 5@10c since a week ago.

Cattle Prices Sink.

The rank and file of cattle sank into lower price channels under pressure of the largest supplies of choice steers of the season. The trade was extremely slow and prices were lower, considering the kinds of cattle offered. Most interest centered around the show "culls," which have been coming on the market the last few days. The record number of more than 400 carloads of steers in the carlot exhibit, against 293 last year, the previous record, assured the trade plenty of prime beef.

The sifting committee kept a steady flow of these highly finished cattle coming on the open market. In addition to the regular market supplies this was more than the trade could handle without breaking. Some classes of cattle brought the lowest prices in more than twenty years. This week's general average price of beef steers at $5.75 is lowest since the spring of 1911. Early this year the low weekly average was $5.85.

Show culls stopped yesterday's market at $7.85. Most of these sold at $7@7.75, while the bulk of the regular market supply of steers cashed at $4@5.50, with plain quality cattle carrying some kill at $3@3.50. Offerings of cows and heifers were small, but prices ruled weaker. Butcher stock is closing 25@35c under a week ago. The week's average for canners and cutters at $1.65 established a new low. Calves were steady yesterday, but this week's prices have been among the lowest on record.

Lambs Hold Firm.

Lambs maintained a strong position, despite larger receipts yesterday. A run of 22,000 slowed down trading, but sellers managed to work off the bulk of the supply at fully steady to strong prices, selling both natives and fed westerns to all interests at $6@6.25 on closing rounds, the high point of the session. Good action was reported in wholesale markets, where starvation sheep receipts have caused a shortage of dressed lamb.

The coolers are well cleared and wholesale prices show an advance of 50 per cent compared with the low spot of a month ago. They are about 20 per cent under the high point of the summer, however. Top slaughter lambs are 16 per cent above the low point of the summer and 20 per cent under the high point.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 200 cattle, 3,000 hogs, and 3,000 sheep, against 614 cattle, 8,130 hogs, and 6,146 sheep the previous Saturday, and 551 cattle, 12,389 hogs, and 959 sheep a year ago.

Probable receipts of hogs at Chicago for Monday are estimated from 32,000 to 50,000. F. M. Sherwood marked 50,000, F. Knutzen and J. A. Bunyan 45,000, W. T. Reneker 44,000, G. W. Chandler 43,000, R. Trullinger, F. B. Orb. and W. Haskins 42,000, J. M. Waters, S. Lund, M. J. Berkery, W. Garrett, R. B. Ellis, H. S. Turner, and A. G. Welbener 40,000, H. Wolfe 38,000, G. Brittain 33,000, and H. Pattison 32,000.

TODAY—11:00 SHARP!

If you are here promptly at or a few minutes before 11:00 a. m. TODAY an entirely new outlook will have opened for you. We are not inviting unemployed or forgotten men, but the TRAINED MAN with GRIT and CHARACTER, who are ready to exchange a full day's work for PERMANENT INCREASES and growing income paid weekly. You do not buy, invest or deposit a penny. We do business in 48 countries. Have increased monthly for 25 consecutive months; 1932 has broken all past records; 1933 will be still greater.

You might do like R. P., a young man 4 months out of work, doing handy jobs, making little in his first 10 days with us; he made $200. No past experience and YOU need none, but like him you need character, determination, ability to learn and do what we teach you, and WORK CONSTANTLY. Any man will starve at our big door of plenty if YOU might make only $128, $150, or $175 your first month. All men do not get speed similarly. Many men in Electrolux (not refrigeration) earn $4,000, $5,000, $6,000 or more yearly. Some are satisfied with less. That's up to them, but we want men who THINK BIG. They are here from all trades and professions. A former college professor is now beating his teaching earnings by 33 1-3%—no past experience. A former locomotive engineer makes far beyond the boomer days on the railroad. A tool and die maker made $230 first two weeks of Nov. In one week this month, a Cheyenne graduate made $425. Two former salesman made $50 each one day this week. One man made $27 the first few hours he was at work.

If you're from 25 to 48, with responsibilities, dependents, the effort is necessary for success, are tired of looking and want to work 56 weeks every year, and will come here whether it shines, rains, snows—or there's a fog or cold, we will give you such opportunity as we believe you can handle. If you're able to CLICK we will make a place for you and have successful men train you. Come in after 1:00 p.m. today or 11:00 a.m. SHARP TODAY, SATURDAY—NO OTHER TIME. Room 215, 1046 Wilson-av.
